PREFACE.

This is, I think, the first and only Otchipwe Grammar that ever was published in the United States. It was rather a hard work to compose it; I had to break my road all through. Writers of other Grammars avail themselves of the labours of their predecessors, and collect, like the bee, the honey out of these flowers of literature, leaving the dust in. I had no such advantage; I had nothing before me. No wonder then, if all be not correct in this first essay. Those who shall find errors or omissions in this Grammar, will oblige me very much by sending me their corrections and remarks, which will be thankfully received and duly considered.

My principal intention in publishing this Grammar is, to assist Missionaries in the acquirement of the Otchipwe language and its kindred dialects, as I know by experience how useful it is to the Missionary to know the language of the people whom he is endeavouring to convert to God.

At the same time it is my wish to do, for my part and in my sphere, what I wish should be done by other Missionaries or competent persons, in their respective spheres; that is, that complete Grammars and Dictionaries should be composed and published, of all the different Indian languages in the Union. It is the judicious opinion of Mr. Henry R. Schoolcraft, (who has done, and is doing yet, much for the Indian history,) "that the true history of the Indian tribes and their international relations must rest, as a basis, upon the light obtained from their languages." This is true; and to obtain this light from the Indian languages, Grammars and Dictionaries would render the surest services.

And finally I wish to do a service to the Philologist, to whom it affords pleasure and acquirement, to compare the grammatical systems of different languages.

THE AUTHOR.

GRAMMAR

OF THE

OTCHIPWE LANGUAGE.

Introduction.

The Otchipwe language is spoken by the tribe of Indians, called Chippewa Indians,* which was once a numerous and powerful tribe. It is now reduced to the small number of about 15,000 individuals, who are scattered round Lake Superior, and far round in the inland, over a large tract of land. Several other tribes of Indians speak the same language, with little alterations. The principal of these are, the Algonquin, the Ottawa, and the Potawatami tribes. He that understands well the Otchipwe language, will easily converse with Indians of these tribes. The Otchipwe Grammar, which is here presented to the reader, teaches the art of spelling and writing correctly the Otchipwe language. This Grammar is divided into three parts, viz: Orthography, Etymology, and Syntax.

* The proper name of these Indians is, Otchipwe Indians. By this name, pronounced according to the orthography stated in this book, we will call this Grammar and language.

PART FIRST.

ORTHOGRAPHY.

Orthography, (according to the meaning of this Greek word, correct writing,) teaches the art of spelling the words of a language with correctness and propriety. To speak and write is the faculty and art of expressing thoughts with words. Words then are signs of our thoughts. These signs are either sounds uttered by the mouth, or marks formed by the hand.

Words are composed of letters, which are the representatives of sounds formed by the organs of speech.

There are only seventeen letters in the Otchipwe alphabet; and no more are required to write correctly and plainly all the words of this expressive language. These letters are divided into vowel-els and consonants.

A vowel is the representative of an articulate sound, which can be distinctly uttered by itself. There are only four vowels in the Otchipwe language, namely, a, e, i, and o. This language has no u. The letter u is sounded differently by different nations, English, French, German, etc. The Otchipwe language has none of these sounds. The German sound of the vowel u, (like oo in fool, or like u in full,) is unknown to the Otchipwe language; so much so, that even in the two or three words, which these Indians have adopted from the French, the sound oo, (in French ou,) is changed into o. F. i. a handkerchief, (un mouchoir,) moshwe; my button, (mon bouton,) nin botô; Louis, Noi. But more yet than the German sound of u, is the French and English pronunciation of the same, unknown to the Otchipwe language.

A consonant is the representative of an inarticulate sound, which can only be perfectly uttered with the help of a vowel. There are thirteen consonants in this language, namely: b, c, d, g, h, j, k, m, n, p, s, t, and w.

The following consonants, f, l, q, r, v, x, and z, never occur in the words of this language; and the Indians who speak it can hardly pronounce them, and many cannot pronounce them at all, especially elderly Indians.

They pronounce f and v like b or p; l and r they pronounce like n. So, for instance, when they are asked to pronounce the French word farine, (flour,) they will say panin; the name David, they will pronounce Dabid; the name Marie, Mani; the name Marguerite, Magit; etc.

REMARKS ON THE VOWELS.

Many methods have been tried to write Otchipwe words, but they proved deficient, and did not express exactly the sounds of these words, because the English orthography has been used. It can easily be observed, and will be acknowledged, when impar-tially examined, by persons who understand some other lan-guage, that the English orthography, being so peculiar, can never be successfully applied to any other but the English lan-guage. It is impossible to write with propriety any other lan-guage but the English, according to the English orthography, because the English vowels have so many different sounds, that they must necessarily create difficulty and uncertainty, when applied to the writing of words of other languages.

And so, in fact, it is the case with any other language, more or less. Every language has its own orthography, which could not be entirely applied to another language. Why then should the Otchipwe language (with its kindred dialects) not have its own orthography? This question immediately arose in my mind, when I first entered the field of missionary labors among the Indians; and soon brought me to the establishing of an own orthography for the Otchipwe language and its dialects. This orthography does not entirely belong to any other language, but is taken from the English and French, and adapted to the Otchipwe.

According to this orthography I wrote, my first little Indian work, in 1831, (with the help of an interpreter, at that time,) and published it in Detroit in 1832; and have ever since followed the same in my subsequent Indian writings; with only one alteration, which I have adopted in writing this Grammar; putting the English sh instead of the French ch.

I am satisfied, in my humble opinion, that this is the easiest and plainest method of writing the Otchipwe language. It is generally approved by those who have occasion to examine it; and it was adopted by some writers of Indian works, especially by the Rev. S. HALL, (Lapointe, Lake Superior,) who published the New Testament, (New York 1844,) almost entirely according to this simple mood of writing the Otchipwe language.

Here is an explanation of this orthography. The sound of the vowels never changes; they have always the same sound. The sounding of the consonants is adapted to the pronunciation of the same in English and French. This will be better understood after the perusal of the following remarks.

The four vowels, a, e, i, and o, are pronounced as follows:

a is invariably pronounced as in the English word father as, anakanan, mats; ta-nagana, he will be left behind; gasagaang, he that is gone out.

e is always pronounced as in the English word met; as, eteg, what there is; eta, only; enendang, according to his thought or will.

i is always pronounced as in the English word pin; as, inini, a man; kigi-ikit, thou hast said; iwidi, there.

o is always pronounced as in the English word note; as, odon, his mouth; onow, these here; okoj, its bill.

These rules have no exception in the Otchipwe language. The four vowels are invariably pronounced as stated here; they may occur in the first or last syllable of a word, or in the middle; and they are never silent. Mind this well if you wish to pronounce correctly and easily the words of this language.

As the general rule for the pronunciation of vowels is, to pro-nounce them always equally and never to let them be silent, it follows that, where two or three vowels, of the same kind or different vowels, appear together in a word, they must all be sounded.

EXAMPLES.

Sagaam , he goes out;	sa-ga-am.
.....PRONOUNCED	o-os-si.
Oossi , he has a father;	nin ni-be-a.
Nin nibe a, I cause him to	o mo-a-wan. sleep;	wa-i-ba.
O moawan , they make him	ma-in-gan. weep, cry;	na-wa-i-i.
Waiba , soon;
Maingan , wolf;
Nawaii , in the middle;

There are some diphthongs proper in this language. The letter i forms them, when it is preceded or followed by some other vowel ai, ei, oi, ia, ie, or io. Both vowels are pronounced in one syllable, but both must be distinctly sounded; they are proper diphthongs.

EXAMPLES.

Misai , a loach, (fish);...	mi-sai.
PRONOUNCED	o-mo-dai.
Omodai , bottle;	a-pa-kwei.
Apakwei , a mat to cover a lodge;
Hoi! (interj) hallo!
Saiagiad , whom thou lovest;	sa-ia-gi-ad.
Ebiian , thou who art;	e-bi-ian.
Aiaieg , where you are;	a-ia-ieg.
Aioiog , make use of it;	a-io-iog.

ACCENTS ON VOWELS.

In order to facilitate the pronunciation of the words of this language, and to distinguish the first person from the second in some moods and tenses, I make occasionally use of accents in this Grammar and in the Dictionary of this language. These accents are the acute, the grave, and the circumflex.

1. I put the acute accent on that syllable in the word which must be pronounced with more emphasis or stress than the others. And this emphasis, put on one syllable or on another, some-times entirely changes the meaning of the word, as you see in some of the following Examples. F. i., ánakwad, it is cloudy; anákan, a mat; minikán, seed; agamín, on the beach agáming, on the other side of a river, bay, lake, etc.; ságaigan, a small lake; sagáigan, a nail; nibín, in the water; níbing, in summer.

2.I make use of the grave accent to distinguish the first person from the second in many circumstances, as will be seen in the paradigms or patterns of the Conjugations.

EXAMPLES.

Enéndamàn, as I will or think; enéndaman, as thou wilt. Sagitoiàmban, had I liked it; sagitóiamban, hadst thou liked it. Endaiàng, where we live or dwell; (the person or persons spoken to, are not included in the number of those who dwell in the place alluded to.)

Endáiang, where we live or dwell; (the person or persons spoken to, are included.)

3.I place the circumflex accent on some vowels, to signify that they have the nasal sound, almost the same as in French, when they are followed by the letter n. F. i., senibâ, silk, ribbon; pakaakiwê, a hen; abinodjî, a child; gigô, fish, etc. The exact pronunciation of these vowels cannot be given in writing. You must hear them pronounced by persons who speak Otchipwe correctly and endeavor to take hold of the genuine pronunciation.

I must observe here, that I don't put accents on every Indian word in this Grammar. I put them occasionally, for the accom-modation of beginners. When I am writing for Indian readers, I never use accents, except grave accents, for the distinction of the two persons; (as above in No 2.)

REMARKS ON THE CONSONANTS.

In regard to the consonants of this language, several remarks are to be made, which you are requested to peruse carefully and keep in memory, in order to read and write correctly the Otchipwe language.

I tried to reduce the Otchipwe orthography, as much as possible, to the easiest and plainest principles. No more letters are employed than are absolutely necessary. For this reason there are no silent letters in this orthography, and no duplications of letters, except of the letter s, which is indispensable, I employ the French j, to stand in Otchipwe for the same soft sound as it does in French, because there is a perfect analogy between the French j in jour, jardin, etc., and the Otchipwe j in joniia, jiwan, etc., which the English consonants cannot well express. In English we have sh; but this sound does not exactly express the sound of the French or Otchipwe j; it is harder. This j is the only consonant I take from the French alphabet; all the others are English consonants.

Peruse now diligently the following remarks on the Otchipwe consonants.

The letter c is never employed by itself; it can easily be dispensed with, by using s and k. It is only used in the composition of letters tch, of which we will speak below.

The letter d connected with j, has the sound of the English j, or of g, when pronounced soft, as in gender, ginger, etc. F. i., mádjan, go on; niníndj, my hand; ándjítón, change it; gímódj, secretly.

The letter g has, in the Otchipwe orthography and reading, always a hard sound not only before a and o, but also invariably before e and i; without any exception. F. i., geget, truly; gigito, he speaks; gi-nigi, he was born; gego, something.

The letter h is used by itself only in some interjections, where it is pronounced with a strong aspiration, as haw! haw! halloo! hurrah! go on! hoi! halloo! The main use of this letter is its connection with s, to form the same sound as in English, sh,

The letter j, as above stated, is always pronounced as in French, that is to say, softer than the English sh. F. i., jomin, grape, raisin; joniia, silver, money; ojimo, he runs away; oniji-shin, it is good. fair; mij, give him; ganoj, speak to him.—Kind reader, be careful, not to pronounce it as in English, (John, joy, jar,) but as in French, (jour, jamaís, etc.)

The letter s is always pronounced like z, in the beginning as well as in the middle and end of syllables and words. When it is double, it has the hard sound of double s, like in English. F. i., nin segis, I fear, (pronounced nin zegiz;) sasagisi, he is avaricious, (pronounced. zazagizi;) nin sessessakis, I burn and weep, (pronounced. zessessakiz;) ondass, come here, (pronounced ondass .) After a consonant, the letter s has always the hard sound, like double s. F. i., kwiwisensag, boys, (pronounced kwi-wizenssag;) amonsag, little bees or flies, (pronounced amon-ssag.)—The two letters s and h in connection, have the same sound in Otchipwe, as in English; in the beginning, middle and end of syllables and words. F. i., nishime, my younger brother, (or sister;) ashishin, put me; asham, give him to eat; binish, till; Jáganash, an Englishman.

The letter t in connection with ch gives the sound of the same composition of letters in the English words watch, match, pitcher, etc. F. i., tchiman, a canoe, tchatcham, he sneezes; nin tchitchag, my soul; gwanatch, beautiful; minotch, notwithstanding.

The letter w is pronounced as in English.

It must be observed here, that the pronunciation of some con-sonants in the Otchipwe language is very vague and uncertain. There are six consonants of this kind, viz: b, p; d, t; g, k. It is impossible to ascertain, by the pronunciation of the Indians, the correct orthography of some words commencing with these letters, or containing them. So, for instance, in a word beginning with b, you will often hear the Indians pronounce this b like p; and sometimes like b. Or if the word begins with a p, they will pronounce it at one time p, and at another b. And the same they do with d and t, with g and k. They confound very frequently these consonants. We also see in letters written by Indians in their own language, how they confound b with p; d with t; g with k; not only in the beginning, but also in the middle and at the end of words.

As a general rule for the right use of these six consonants, when they terminate the word, take this: In order to know whether b or p, d or t, g or k, terminate the word, (which you ordinarily cannot ascertain from the Indian pronunciation,) pro-long the word, that is, add a syllable, by forming the plural, or making some other change, and you will find the true final letter.

EXAMPLES.

The word jingob, a fir-tree, is often pronounced jingop. To ascertain whether b or p is the final letter of this word, form the plural by adding ig, and you will have jingobig, where b is distinctly sounded.

The words gijig, day, air, sky; and gijik, cedar or cedar-tree, are ordinarily pronounced alike; but by a prolongation of the words, their final letters appear distinctly. They say gijigad, it is day; gijikag, cedar-trees.

So also mitig, a tree, and akik, a kettle. These two words both exhibit k as their final letter in common pronunciation; but when you prolong the words, you will have, mitigog, trees; akikog, kettles. There the letters g and k are sounded clearly.

Wenijishid, he who is good, or handsome commonly pronounced wenijishit; but in the plural, wenijishidjig, the letter d is sounded in the soft pronunciation of djig. (And so in all the participles ending in ad, ed, id, or od, which make their plural by adding jig.)

To ascertain whether you have to write dj or tch, in the middle or at the end of words, try to find out, whether the word, if placed in another position or inflection, would show d or t; and you will know, whether you have to write dj or tch.

EXAMPLES.

Ojitchigade, it is made; not ojidjigade, because it is derived from the verb, nind ojiton, I make it; where t is distinctly sounded.

Winitchige, he is making dirty (something, or some place); not winidjige, because it comes from nin winiton, I make it dirty; where again t is clearly heard.

Nin banádjiton, I spoiled it; not nin banatchiton, because it comes from banadad, it is spoiled; where d is most clearly sounded.

Kikendjige, he knows; not kikentchige, because it is derived from nin kikendan, I know it; where d is distinctly heard.

Gimodj, secretly; not gimotch, because it comes from gimodi, he steals.—Etc.

I know very well, dear reader, that you cannot make any use of these rules now in the beginning of your studies. But after the first perusal of this Grammar, and when you shall have acquired some knowledge of this language, these rules will be useful to you; they will be to you a good guidance, and help you materi-ally in your endeavors to acquire a reasonable, systematical and grammatical orthography of the Otchipwe language.

If we wish to cultivate a little the Otchipwe language, we ought to fix the orthographical use of these six consonants, according to the most common and most reasonable pronuncia-tion. This I tried, and yet try, to effect in my Indian writings, especially in this Grammar, and in the Dictionary of this lan-guage. If now those who feel able and disposed to write in Otchipwe , would adopt the orthography of these works, it would be fixed and established. And it is indeed the Grammar and the Dictionary we ought to consult and to follow in regard to the orthography of a language. If every one writes as he pleases, we will never arrive at uniformity and systematical regularity.

There is an analogy of this in the German language. The Ger-mans also pronounce the letter b very often like p; and also the letter d like t, and g like k; in the beginning and at the end of words, But when they are writing, they don't follow this corrup-ted pronunciation; they follow the orthography of their books, especially of Dictionaries.

There will be some more rules and remarks, in regard to orth-ography, in this Grammar. I cannot explain them here; they would be entirely misplaced, if here. You will find them in their due places.

Etymology, (according to the signification of this Greek word, doctrine of the origin of words,) is that part of Grammar, which teaches the derivations and inflections of words, and treats of the different parts of speech.

There are nine Parts of Speech in the Otchipwe language. I will put them down here in the same order in which this Gram-mar treats of them. This order differs from that observed in other Grammars; for good reasons.

The parts of speech are as follows:

1. The Substantive or Noun; as, inini, man; ikwe, woman; wigiwam, lodge, house; mokoman, knife.
2. The Pronoun; as, nin, I; kin, thou; win, he, she, it.
3. The Verb; as, nin gigit, I speak; ki nondam, thou hearest; bimadisi, he lives.
4. The Adjective; as, gwanatch, beautiful; matchi, bad; oniji-shin, good, fine, useful.
5. The Number; as, midasswi, ten; nijtana, twenty; ningotwak, hundred.
6. The Preposition; as, náwaii, in the midst; megwe, among; binish, till.
7. The Adverb; as, sesika, suddenly; nibiwa, much; gwaiak, well; wéwib, quick, fast.
8. The Conjunction; as, gaie, and; missawa, although; kishpin, if.
9. The Interjection; as, Hoi! halloo! haw! go on!

REMARK 1 . This language is a language of verbs. I would almost treat of the verb in the very first chapter of Etymology, because all depends on the verb, and almost all is, or can be, transformed into verbs. But the natural order requires it, to treat first of the substantive or noun, which is the subject of the verb; and then of the pronoun, which stands for the noun or substan-tive, as the subject of the verb, and ordinarily precedes it.

But immediately after the noun and pronoun comes the verb, which occupies two thirds of this Grammar. After the verb comes the adjective and then the number, because these parts of speech are commonly transformed into verbs. Now follows the preposition, which is often connected with the verb, and conjugated with it; then the adverb, which modifies the verb in various manners; and then the remaining two parts of speech.

REMARK 2. There are no articles in the Otchipwe language. The words aw, iw, etc., which are sometimes placed before substantives, are not articles; they are demonstrative pronouns. So, for instance, aw ikwe, does not properly denote, the woman, but this or that woman.

REMARK 3. In the Otchipwe language, three parts of speech are declinable, that is, they undergo changes; the rest are indeclinable, they never change. The declinable parts of speech are the first three, substantive, pronoun, verb. Substantives and pronouns undergo a change in the plural; and this is all their change. Verbs have their various Conjugations. Adjectives and numbers are indeclinable as such; but when they are transformed into verbs, they have their Conjugations.

CHAPTER I.

OF SUBSTANTIVES OR NOUNS.

A Substantive or Noun is the name of a person or thing, really existing, or only thought, imagined.

The name of a single individual is called a proper noun; as, Wawiatan, Detroit; Monengwanekan, Lapointe; Wikwed, L'Anse; Mángosid, Loonsfoot.

A common noun or substantive is the name applied to all persons or things of the same kind; as, inini, man; ikwe, woman; maingan, wolf; animosh, dog; mitig, tree; adópowin, table.

OF GENDER.

Gender is the distinction of substantives with regard to sex. Almost all languages make a difference in their articles and adjectives, when they apply them to substantives of the three different genders, the masculine, feminine, and neuter. But the English language employs the same article and the same adjective before substantives of the three genders. And so does the Otchipwe language. For persons and things of both sexes, and of those that belong to none, the same adjective is used. F. i., mino inini, a good man; mino ikwe, a good woman; mino wigi-wam, a good house; gwanátch kwiwisens, a beautiful boy; gwa-nátch ikwesens, a beautiful girl; gwanátch masinaigan, a beautiful book.

But the Otchipwe language goes yet a step farther; even in the pronoun there is no distinction of gender made; win signifies he, she and it. But as the distinction of the two sexes is necessary in certain circumstances, the Otchipwe language, (like other languages,) has some different words for individuals of the two sexes.

EXAMPLES.

MASCULINE.

Ogima, Chief or King;
Inini, man;
Kwiwisens, boy;
Noss, my father;
Ningwíss, my son;
Nissaie, my elder brother;
Nimishómiss, my grand father;

FEMININE.

ogimakwe, queen.
ikwe, woman.
ikwésens, girl.
ningá, my mother.
nindániss, my daughter.
nimisse, my older sister.
nókomiss, my grandmother.

And a variety of other terms of relationship, and expressions of friendship.

Instead of the English mode of distinguishing the two sexes, by prefixing he to substantives for the masculine, and she for the feminine sex, the Otchipwe language contrives the distinction in the following manners, viz:

1. By prefixing the word nábe, (male,) to substantives of the masculine gender, and ikwe, (woman, female,) to those of the feminine gender. F. i., nábe-pijiki, a bull or ox; ikwé-pijiki, a cow.

2. By making use of the words nabéaiaa, (male being,) and ikwéaiaa (female being,) which are ordinarily placed after the substantive. F. i., pakaákwe nabéaiaa, a cock; pakaákwe ikwé-aiaa, a hen; bebejigoganji nabéaiaa, a horse; bebejigoganji ikwéaiaa, a mare.

3. By affixing to substantives of the masculine gender the word inini, (man,) and to those of the feminine gender the word ikwe, (woman,) modifying the two words a little. F. i., anokiagéwinini, a man servant; anokitagékwe, a maid servant; kikino-amagéwinini, a school-teacher (man); kikinoamgékwé, a female school-teacher. They also will say; nishime inini, (or, kwiwi-sens,) my younger brother; nishime ikwé, (or, ikwésens,) my younger sister.

REMARK. Instead of the distinction of gender, there is another distinction made between the substantives of the Otchipwe language, which is as important, as it is difficult, and peculiar to this language. It is the division of all the Otchipwe substantives in two classes; some are animate and some inanimate.

Animate substantives are called those which denote beings and things that are living or have been living really or by acception.

Inanimate substantives are called those which signify things that never lived.

This must well be borne in mind, as it is of great importance for the correct speaking of the Otchipwe language.

The animate substantives, which denote beings that are really living, or have been so, cause no difficulty; they are naturally known, and cannot be mistaken; as, gájagens , a cat; wawábiggo-nodji, a mouse; sagimé, a moscheto; ginébig, a serpent, etc. But substantives which signifies things that have no life at all, but which the Indians treat in their language like substantives that signify living beings, create one of the greatest difficulties and peculiarities of this language; because there is no rule by which you could be guided to know these substantives. And still it is necessary to know whether a substantive is animate or inanimate, because on this distinction depends the right use and inflection of the verb and pronoun. If you confound the verbs that are used in connexion with animate substantives, with those that are employed with inanimate, you commit as big a blunder in the Otchipwe language, as you would in English by saying: I am afraid of that man because she is a bad man; or, I love my mother because he is so kind to me.

REMARK. The animate substantives will always be denoted by the sign an in this Grammar as well as in the Dictionary; and the inanimate substantives will be denoted by the sign in. The same signs will also be employed for the verbs that have report to animate or inanimate substantives. Please remember well this remark.

Here are some of those substantives which signify things that have no life, but are employed by the Indians like substantives that signify living beings:

Mitig, a tree.

Pakwéjigan, bread.

Assín, a stone.

Mishímin, an apple.

Pingwí, ashes.

Asséma, tobacco.

Akík, a kettle.

Opín, potatoes.

Pigiw, pitch.

Mikwám, ice.

Gon, snow.

Táshkiibodjigan, saw-mill.

Tchibaiátig, cross.

Mandámin, corn.

Wábigan, clay.

Senibâ, silk, ribbon.

Masinítchigan,
image.

Sibwágan, corn-stalk.
Nindigig, my knee.
Agig, cold, phlegm.

Masán, a nettle.

Papágimak, ash-tree.

And a vast number of others.

To facilitate the acquirement of these substantives, animate only by acception, I have marked them in the Dictionary thus: an.; and the last letter of their plural is always g; whereas the last letter of the inanimate substantives in the plural, is always n.

OF NUMBER.

Number is that property of a substantive by which it denotes one object, or more, Number is double, the singular, and the plural number.

The singular number denotes only one object; as wigiwam, a lodge; amík, a beaver; onágan, a plate or dish; mokoman, a knife.

The plural number expresses two or more objects; as, jimága-nishag, soldiers; wakáiganan, houses; anishinabeg, Indians; wagákwadon, axes.

As in every language, so also in the Otchipwe, there are many substantives which, from the nature of the objects they signify, have no plural;

as, totoshabo, milk; sisibákwad, sugar; kitim-iwin, laziness, etc. But there are none in this language which have no singular.

FORMATION OF THE PLURAL NUMBER.

The formation of the plural of the Otchipwe substantives is somewhat difficult. We have only a few rules for it, which are not sufficient. There are some general and some special rules.

GENERAL RULES.

RULE 1. The plural of the Otchipwe substantives is always formed by adding to the singular a letter or a syllable. Never is anything changed in the substantive itself. This is a rule without exception, as well for the animate as inanimate.

RULE 2. The last letter of the plural of an animate substantive is invariably g; and the last letter of the plural of an inanimate substantive is always n. This rule again has no exception.

But the learner of this language gains little by these rules, because the letters that precede this final g or n in the syllables which are added to the singular, in order to form the plural, are so various, that we distinguish no less than twelve different terminations of the plural, viz: seven for the animate, and five for the inanimate.

The seven terminations of the plural of the animate substantives are: g, ag, ig, iag, jig, og, and wag.

The five terminations of the plural of the inanimate substantives are: n, an, in, on, and wan.

There is no general rule for the formation of these different terminations of the plural; but there are some special rules which will be useful to the learner.

SPECIAL RULES.

RULE 1. The animate substantives ending in ans, ens, ins, and ons, (which are always diminutives), and all the animate substantives indicating contempt, add always the syllable ag to the singular, to form the plural.

EXAMPLES.

PLURAL.

Ogimáns, a little chief,
Jóniians, a shilling,
Pakwéjigans, a small cake,
Sénibâns, a small ribbon,

Jishíbens, a young duck, Gijikens, a little cedar,
Mígisins, a young eagle,
Wábisins, a young swan,
Opínins, a small potatoe, Omímings, a young pigeon,
Pijikins, a calf,
Amons, a young bee,
Mángons, a young loon,
Manitóns, an insect,
Animóns, a small dog,
Amikóns, a young bearer,
Akíkons, a small kettle,
Assabish, a bad net,
Ininiwish, a bad man,
Opwáganish, a bad pipe,
Akikosh, a bad kettle,

Some participles also make their plural invariably by adding ag to the singular, as you will see in the Dubitative Conjugations.

RULE 2. All the animate substantives with an and in, add like-wise the syllable ag for the plural. But when those with in have the accent on the last syllable, they add ig. (See the last two words in these Examples.)

EXAMPLES.

Ninidjánissikawin, my god-child, Mandámin, one corn,
Miskodíssimin, a bean,
Opín, a potatoe,
Assín, a stone,

RULE 3. The animate substantives with â, ê, î, and ô * add invariably iag to the singular, to form the plural.

Sénibâ, a ribbon,
Pakaákwê, cock or hen,
Akiwesî, old man,
Gigô, fish,

RULE 4. All the participles of the affirmative form (which are at the same time animate substantives,) add the syllable jig for the plural, when their final letter is d; but when their final letter is g, they add ig.

Enamiad, a Christian,
Kekínoamawind, a scholar,

Netá-gigitossig , a dumb person,	netá-gigitossigog ,
Bémossessig , a lame person,	bémossessigog
	g .

RULE 6. The inanimate substantives with gan and win, and likewise all inanimate diminutives with ans, ens, ins, ons, and also all the inanimate substantives indicating contempt, add the syllable an for the plural.

These are all the rules I can give you for the formation of the plural number of Otchipwe substantives.

Let us now consider all the twelve different terminations of the plural, (that is, the letters and syllables which are added to the singular, to form the plural,) to see the difficulty which this variety must cause to the learner of this language.

EXAMPLES OF THE TWELVE TERMINATIONS OF THE PLURAL OF Otchipwe SUBSTANTIVES.

PLURAL.

1. g.

Anishinábe, an Indian,
Méme, wood-pecker, Windigo, a giant,

By considering this great variety of terminations of the plural, you will perceive that there is no general rule to be established for its formation. It must be learned from usage. (See REMARK 1, in the beginning of Chapter III., in regard to the mutative vowel.)

To facilitate the study of the Otchipwe language also in this respect, I have marked in the Dictionary the plural of all the substantives of this language, which are susceptible of it.

FORMATION OF SUBSTANTIVES.

The Otchipwe language is a language of verbs. Verbs are more frequently used than substantives. Where other languages will employ a substantive, the Otchipwe language uses a verb. Substantives are often changed into verbs, as are also other parts of speech and from verbs many substantives are formed. There are some invariable Rules for this formation, which you will find explained here. You will better understand these rules after the perusal of the long Chapter of Verbs; but we must put them here, because they belong to the Chapter of Substantives.

RULES FOR THE FORMATION OF SUBSTANTIVES.

RULE 1. By adding the syllable win to the third person singular, present, indicative, affirmative form, of a verb belonging to the I. Conjugation, you will have its substantive.

EXAMPLES.

Ojibiíge , he writes;	ojibiigewin , writing
Jawéndjige , he is charitable;	jawendjigewin , charity, grace. dibaamágewin , payment (given.)
Dibaamáge , he pays;	dibákanigewin , judgment (held, pronounced.)
Dibákonige , he judges;	ságiiwewin , love.
Ságiiwe , he loves;	gimiwin , desertion.
Gími , he deserts;	gimódiwin , stealing, theft.
Gimódi , he steals;	kitimiwin , laziness.
Kitimi , he is lazy;	anwenindisowin , repentance.
Anwenindiso , he repents;	speaking, discourse.
Gigito , he speaks
gigitowin ,

RULE 2. By changing the last syllable, wag, of the third person, plural, present, indicative, of a verb called "communicative," into win, you will form its substantive.

EXAMPLES.

Migádiwag , they fight;	migádiwin , fighting, war.
Dibaamádiwag , they are paid together;
dibaamádiwin , a general payment.
Gikándiwag , they quarrel;	gikándiwin , quarrel.
Ganónidiwag , they speak to each other;
ganónidiwin , conversation.

Jingenindiwag, they hate each other;
jingenindiwin, hatred.

RULE 3. Add to the first person, singular, present, passive voice, of a verb belonging to the IV. Conjugation, the syllable win, and you will have its substantive.

EXAMPLES.

Nin dibaamágo, I am paid; dibaamágowin, payment (received.) Nin dibákonigo, I am judged; dibákonigowin, judgment (under-gone.)

Nin kikinoamágo, I am taught; kikinoamágowin, instruction (received.)

Nin minigo, I am given; minigowin, gift (received.)

RULE 4. Change the final g of the third person, plural, present, indicative, of the verbs belonging to the II. and III. Conjugations, into win, and you will have their substantives.

EXAMPLES.

Dódamog, they do; dódamowin, doing, action.

Kashkendamog, they are sad; Kashkendamowin, sadness, sor-row.

Segendamog, they are afraid; segendamowin, fear.

Osámidonog, they speak too much; osámidonowin, too much speaking.

RULE 5. Add the syllable win to the third person, singular, present, indicative, negative form, ending in i, of the verbs of the first three Conjugations, and you will have their substantives.

EXAMPLES.

Kawin minikwessi, he does not drink; minikwessiwin, temper-ance.

Kawin nitá-gigitossi, he can not speak; nitá-gigitossiwin, dumbness.

Kawin babámitansi, he does not obey; babamitansiwin, diso-bedience.

RULE 6. Change the final e of the verbs ending in ige or djige, into an, and you will form names of tools, implements, etc.

EXAMPLES.

Nin pakiteige, I strike; pakiteigan, hammer.

Nin tchigatáige, I sweep; tchigatáigan, broom.

Nin tchigigáige, I square timber; tchigigáigan, broad axe.

Nin kishkiibodjige, I saw (across.) kichkiibodjigan, hand-saw or log-saw.

Nin táshkiibodjige, I saw (along.) táshkiibodjigan, pit-saw or a saw-mill.

Nin mókodjige, I am cutting wood (with a knife.) mókodjigan, plane, drawing-knife.

Nin bissibódjige, I grind; bissibódjigan, corn-mill.

RULE 7. Change the final e of the verbs, called "Working Verbs," (which you will find in the article: "Formation of Verbs, after all the Conjugations;") change this e to an, and you will form substantives denoting the place where the work signified by the working verb, is going on.

EXAMPLES.

Nind akakanjéke,* I burn coal; akakanjékan, the place where a coal pit is burning, or has been so.

Nin jomináboke, I make wine; jominábokan, the place where they make wine, (vineyard.)

Nin sisibákwadoke, I make sugar; sisibákwadokan, sugar-camp, sugar-bush.

Nin biwábikoke, I make (produce) iron; biwábikokan, the place where they produce iron, an iron-mine.

Nin miskwábikoke, I make (produce) copper; miskwábikokan, a copper mine.

* The letter n is scarcely heard in this word.

RULE 8. Some verbs of the IV. Conj. form animate substantives by adding gan to the first person singular.

EXAMPLES.

Nind inawema, he is a relation of mine. nind inawemagan, my relative.

Nin widigema, I am married to him (her.) nin widigemagan, my husband, (wife.)

Nin widjiwa, I accompany him, (her.) nin widjiwagan, my companion.

REMARK. In regard to the substantives formed according to the first and third of the above rules, you will please to bear in mind, that those which have e before the end-syllable win, signify an action done or doing; and those that have o before win, mark the effect received from an action. It is important to mind this difference. In English there is no difference in the words of both kinds, (as you will see in the following examples,) but in the Otchipwe language the difference is material.

EXAMPLES.

Nin dibaamágewin, my payment, (made by me;)

nin dibaamágowin, my payment, (received by me.)

Ki dibákonigewin, thy judgment (made by thee;)

ki dibákonigowin, thy judgment, (undergone by thee.)

O kikinoamágewin, his instruction, (given by him;)

O kikinoamágowin, his instruction, (received by him.)

Nin windamágewin, my report, narration, (given by me;)

nin windamágowin, my report, narration, (heard by me.)

Ki gássiama^gewin, thy remission, (granted by thee;)

ki gássiama^gowin, thy remission, (received by thee.)

O pakiteigewin, his beating, (done by him;)

O pakiteigowin, his beating, (received by him.)

And a great number of other words of this description, which are not all in the Dictionary, because they can be easily obtained, from the respective verbs, by the learner himself.

FORMATION OF TERMS OF CONTEMPT.

There is yet another formation, or rather transformation, of substantives, which must be mentioned in the Otchipwe Grammar.

By adding one of the syllables, ish, osh, or wish, to a substan-tive, they transform it into an expression of contempt.

Here are the Rules for this transformation.

RULE 1. The animate substantives that make their plural by adding ag, ig, or iag; and the inanimate that form the plural by adding an, or in; take ish for the case of contempt.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL.	CONTEMPT.
Kwiwisens , a boy;	kwiwisensag ,	wiwisensish , a bad boy.
Ikwesens , a girl;	ikwesensag ,	ikwesensish , a bad girl.
Ninindjaniss , my child;	ninidjanissag ,	ninidjanissish , my bad child.
Assáb , a net;	assabig ,	assabish , an old net.
Assin , a stone;	assinig ,	assinish , a bad, unfit stone.
Abinojì , a child;	abinodjiiag ,	abinodjiish , a bad child.
Akiwesî , an old man;	akiwesiiag ,	akiwesiish , a bad old man.

Mókoman, a knife;

mokomanan mokomanish, a bad knife.

Mojwágan,
scissors;

mojwaganan,

mojwaganish, bad
scissors.

Mitigwab, a bow;

mitigwabin,

mitigwabish, a bad old bow.

Anit, a spear;

anitin,

anitish, a bad, unfit spear.

RULE 2. The animate substantives that form their plural by adding og, or wag, (when these latter terminate in a consonant in the singular,) and the inanimate that make their plural in on, take osh for the case of contempt.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL	CONTEMPT
Nabagissag a board	nabagissagog ,	nabagissagosh , a bad rotten board.
Mitig , a tree;	mitigog ,	mitigosh , a bad tree.
Akik , a kettle;	akikog ,	akikosh , a bad old kettle.
Anang , a star;	anangog ,	anangosh , a bad star.
Amik , beaver;	amikwag ,	amikosh , a bad beaver.
Jingwak , pine;	jingwakwag ,	jingwakosh , a bad pine.
Gag , a porcupine;	gagwag ,	gagosh , a bad porcupine.
Nishkinjig , my eye;	nishkinjigon ,	nishkinjigosh , my bad eye.
Makák , a box;	makakon ,	makakosh , a bad box.
Máwan , an egg;	wawanon ,	wawanosh , a bad spoiled egg.

RULE 3. The animate substantives that make their plural by adding g, or wag, (when these latter terminate in a vowel in the singular;) and the inanimate that form the plural by adding wan; take wish for the case of contempt.

EXAMPLES.

Anishinabe ,		anishinabewis
Indian;	anishinabeg ,	h , a bad Indian.
Inini , a man;	ininiwag ,	ininiwish , a bad, wicked man.
Pijiki , an ox;	pijikiwag	pijikiwish , a bad ox.
Sibi , a river;	sibiwan ,	sibiwish , a bad river.
Odena , a village;	odenawan ,	odenawish , a bad village.

REMARK 1. In the first three words of the above examples, viz: Kwiwisensish, ikwesensish, ninidjanissish; and in the diminutives, which all end in sish, when expressing contempt, this sish is pronounced shish. But nevertheless we must grammatically take it for sish. The pronunciation shish is only a corruption. So also, for instance, will a common speaker of the English language pronounce, shaysh she; but it ought to be, says she. And Canadians will say, Il va chécher, (it will dry;) instead of saying, Il va sécher.

REMARK 2. The plural of all the animate substantives indicating contempt is invariably formed by adding ag to the singular; and the plural of the inanimate by adding an. F. i., Kwiwisensish, kwiwisensishag. Mitigosh, mitigoshag. Ininiwish, inini-wishag. Mokomanish, mokomanishan. Makakosh, makakoshan. Sibiwish, sibiwishan, etc.

REMARK 3. There are a few inanimate substantives denoting contempt which make an exception from the above Rule 1. They take ash, instead of ish; as, nisid, my foot; pl. nisidan; nisidash my bad foot. Nibid, my tooth; pl. nibidan; nibidash my bad tooth. Mashkimod, a bad; pl. mashkimodan; mashkimodash, a bad bag; etc. Abwi, paddle; makes abwish; anwi, a ball; anwish.

REMARK 4. It must, however, be observed that these terms implying contempt, are not always intended, nor taken, for contempt. They are sometimes expressions of humility, and at other times they are caressing terms.

So, for instance, an Indian speaking to you, will mention all that belongs to him, in those terms denoting contempt; but only by modesty and humility. He will call his wife, nin mindimoie-mish; his children, ninidjanissishag; his lodge or house, nin wigiwamish; his canoe, nin tchimanish; his luggage, nind aiimi-shan, etc.

And a squaw, for instance, caressing her little son, will say: Ningwissensish! ningwissensish! (ningwissens, signifies, my little son.) And caressing her little daughter she will repeat: Nindanissensish! nindanissensish! (nindanissens, means, my little daughter.)

FORMATION OF DIMINUTIVE SUBSTANTIVES.

The Otchipwe language is very rich on diminutive substantives. They are formed from common substantives by the annexation of six different terminations. These terminations are: s, ns, ens, ins, ons, and wens.

Here are the Rules for the formation of the diminutives.

RULE 1. The termination s is attached to substantives, animate and inanimate, that end in gan, without an accent; (if gan has an accent, the substantive belongs to Rule 3., as, Kitigán, kitigá-nens.) The animate make their plural in ag, the inanimate in an.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL	DIMINUTIVES.
Masinitchigan ;	masinitchigana	masinitchigans
	g ;	, a little image.
Opwagan , a pipe;	opwaganag ;	opwagans , a small pipe.
Botágan , a stamp;	botaganag ;	botagans , a small stamp.
Bíminigan , an auger;	biminiganan ;	biminigans , a gimlet.

Masináigan , a book;	masinaiganan ;	masinaigans , a small book.
Kijapikisigan , a		kijapikisigans ,
stove;	kijapikisiganan ;	a small stove.

RULE 2. The termination ns is added to the animate substantives that form their plural by adding g, iag, or wag, (when these latter terminate in a vowel in the singular;) and to the inanimate that add n for the plural.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL	DIMINUTIVES.
Ogimá , a chief;	ogimág ; or	ogimáns , a small young chief.
Makwá , a bear;	Makwag ;	makwáns , (pron. makóns) a young bear.
Wissakodekwe , a half breed woman	wissakodekweg ; wissakodekwens , a	young half-breed woman.
Oshkinawe , a young man	oshkinaweg ;	oshkinawens , a small
Nishime , my younger brother;	Nishimeieg ;	young man. nishimens , my small
Pakaákwè , a hen; Pijiki , an ox, or cow;		young brother or sister. pakaakwêieg ;
Migisi , an eagle;		pakaakwens , chicken.
	pijikiwag ;	pijikins , a calf.
	migisiwag ;	migisins , a young eagle.
Wemitigoji , a French man Abwí ;	Wemitigojiiwag ;	Wemitigojins ,
a paddle;	a	young Frenchman.
Anwí , a ball;	abwin ;	abwins , a small paddle.
	anwin ;	anwins , a small ball,	shot.

RULE 3. The termination ens is annexed to those animate sub-stantives that form their plural by adding ag; and those inani-mate that add an in the plural; except the animate and inanimate substantives ending in the singular in gan, without an accent, which belong to Rule 1., as above.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL.	DIMINUTIVES
Jáganash , Englishman;	Jaganashag ;	Jaganashens , a little Englishman.
Kokosh , a pig;	kokoshag ;	kokoshens a young pig.
Migwan , a pen, feather	mígwanag ;	migwanens , a small feather.

Kitigán , a field;	kitigánan ;	kitigánens , a garden.
Mitchikan , a fence;	mítchikanan ;	mitchikanens , a small fence.
Bodawán , a chimney;	bodawánan ;	bodawanens , a small chimney.

RULE 4. The termination ins is attached to the animate sub-stantives that make their plural in ig; and to the inanimate that make it in in.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL.	DIMINUTIVES.
Assin , a stone;	assinig ;	assinins , a little stone.
Assab , a net;	assabig ;	assabins , a small net.
Opin , a potatoe;	opinig ;	opinins , a small potatoe.
Abáj , a lodge-pole;	abajin ;	abajins , a small lodgepole.
Anít , a spear;	anitin ;	anitins , a little spear.

RULE 5. The termination ons is added to the animate substan-tives that form their plural by adding og, or wag (when these latter terminate in a consonant in the singular,) and to the inan-imate that make the plural in on.

EXAMPLES.

SUBSTANTIVES.	PLURAL	DIMINUTIVE S.
Anáng , a star	anangog	anangons , a small star (asterisk.)
Akik , a kettle;	akikog ;	akikons , a small kettle.
Ginebig , a	ginebigog ;	ginebigons , a serpent, snake; Jingwák , a pine- tree;	jingwakwag ;	young snake. jingwakens , a young pine-tree. atikons , a young reindeer. ajibikons , a small rock.

Atík , a rein-deer,	atikwag ;
Ajibik , a rock;	ajibikon ;
	wagakwadon ;
Wagákwad , an axe;	wagakwadons , a small axe.
	makakons , a small box.
Makák , a box;	makakon ;

RULE 6. The termination wens is attached to the inanimate substantives which make their plural by adding wan; as, Odena, a village; odenawan; odenawens, a small village, etc.

For the plural of the diminutives, see page 21 and 24.

OF THE CASES OF SUBSTANTIVES.

Case, in the grammatical language, is the position or state of a substantive, with regard to other words in the same sentence.

The Otchipwe substantives have four cases, viz: the Nomina-tive, Possessive, Objective, and Vocative.

The Nominative denotes simply the name of a person or thing, or the subject of the verb. Examples of the nominative case are all the substantives of the Dictionary, from the first to the last.

The Objective denotes the object of some action or relation. It does not differ from the nominative in its construction, except in the third person of the personal pronouns, where the nominative is win, winawa, he, she, it, they; and the objective is o, him, her, it, them.

The Possessive expresses the relation of property or possession. This possessive case is expressed in Otchipwe by putting o or od between the two substantives, of which one corresponds to the English nominative, and the other to the possessive. The position of the two substantives is the same as in English; the possessive comes first, and then the nominative; and instead of the letter s with an apostrophe before it, which is put in English between the possessive and the nominative, we put in Otchipwe o or od, (which properly signifies his or her.) We put o before nominatives that begin with a consonant, and od before those that begin with a vowel. But sometimes this o is inseparably connected with the possessive, and sometimes changed into w. (This will be better understood after the study of the possessive pronoun.)

EXAMPLES OF THE POSSESSIVE CASE.

Nin gi- bidon John o masinaigan, I have brought John's book. Anindi noss o sakaon? where is my father's cane?

Ki widigémagan od inawémaganan, thy wife's relatives.

Nin wi-gishpinadon kissaie o wakáigan, I will buy thy brother's house.

Meno-ijiwebisid inini od inéndamowinan, a good man's thoughts.

Kitchi ogimá ogwissán gi-nibowan, the King's son is dead. Kikinoamágewinini wiwan ákosiwan, the school teacher's wife is sick.

Nissaie o tchiman, my brother's canoe.

Kimisse od anakan, thy sister's mat.

Noss od assabin, my father's nets.

Aw inini ójisheian, that man's grand-children.

The Vocative is used in calling persons or other objects. It is double, singular and plural.

The vocative in the singular number is only employed in calling proper names, or terms of relationship. Other substantives are not susceptible of this vocative; or rather, their vocative is like the nominative. They undergo no change in the vocative.

I. RULES FOR THE FORMATION OF THE VOCATIVE SINGULAR.

RULE 1. Proper names of women, ending in kwe, reject the two last letters, w and e, to form the vocative. F. i. Gijigokwe, voc. Gijigok! — Windigokwe, voc. Windigok! Ogákwe, voc.

Ogák! — Nodinokwe, voc. Nódinok! Otawákwe, voc. Otawak.

RULE 2. The proper names of men and women, ending in a vowel, cut off this vowel for the vocative. F. i. Nijóde, voc.

Nijód!—Abinodji voc. Abinódj.

RULE 3. Terms of relationship, ending in a vowel, reject this vowel, to form the vocative. F. i. Nita, my brother-in-law; voc. nit!—Nijishé, my uncle, (my mother's brother,) voc. nijish!—Ninoshé (or ninwishe,) my aunt, (my mother's sister,) voc. ninósh! or ninwish!—Ningá, my mother, voc. ning! (They say more commonly, ninge

Exceptions.—Nimishóme, my uncle, (my father's brother,) makes nimishó!—Nindángwe, my sister-in-law, or my friend, (a female speaking to a female,) does not change in the vocative, nindángwe!—Nidji, my friend, (a male speaking to a male,) makes likewise nidji!

For the terms of relationship, ending in a consonant, there is no general rule for the formation of the vocative. Some of them make their vocative like the nominative; as Ningwiss, my son, voc. ningwiss!—Nindániss, my daughter, voc. nindániss!—Nin-idjaniss, my child, voc. ninidjaniss Nikániss, my brother, my friend, voc. nikániss!—Ninsigoss, my aunt, (my father's sister,) voc. ninsigoss!—Nin-dójim, my step-son, voc. nindójim! Some of these terms form the vocative in a peculiar manner; as: Nimishómiss, my grandfather, voc. nimishó!—Nókomiss, my grandmother, voc. nóko!—Noss, my father, voc. nosse!—(The Indians of Grand-Portage, Fort William, and other places in the north, say noss! instead of nosse!)

The vocative in the plural number is used for substantives animate and inanimate, after the following rules.

II. RULES FOR THE FORMATION OF THE VOCATIVE

PLURAL. A. FOR ANIMATE

SUBSTANTIVES.

RULE 1. Substantives ending in â, ê, î, or ô, add idog for the vocative plural. F. i. Akiwesî, an old man, voc. akiwésiidog!—Abinódjî, a child, voc. abinódjiidog!—Gigô, a fish, voc. gigôî-dog!—Pakaákwê, a cock, voc. pakaákwêidog!

RULE 2. Substantives ending in the plural in ag or wag, change ag into idog, to form the vocative, F.
i. Nind inawemaganag, my relations, voc. nind inawemaganidog!—jimáganishag, soldiers, voc, jimáganishidog!—Kwiwisénsag, boys, voc, kwiwi-sensidog!—Ikwesensag, girls, voc. ikwesensidog!—Ininiwag, men, voc. ininiwidog!—Ikwewag, women, voc. ikwewidog!—Pijikiwag, oxen, voc. pijikiwidog!

RULE 3. Substantives ending in the plural in g, ig, or og, change the final g into dog. F. i. Anishinábeg, Indians, voc. anishinábedog!—Ogimág, chiefs, voc. ogimádog! Anángog, stars, voc. anángodog!—Wabosog, rabbits, voc. wabosodog!—Opinig, potatoes, voc. opinidog!—Assabig, nets, voc. assabi-dog!

RULE 4. Substantives with possessive pronouns change their last syllable nig into dog. F. i. Nind ógimaminanig, our chiefs, voc. nind ógimaminadog!—Nikánissinanig, our friends, our brethren, voc. nikánissinadog!—Nin widjiwáganinanig, our companions, voc. nin widjiwáganinadog!—Nind inawemagan-inanig, our relations, voc. nind nawemaganinadog!

B. FOR INANIMATE SUBSTANTIVES.

Inanimate substantives have a proper vocative plural in the rhetorical figure of Apostrophe, where inanimate objects are addressed like animate beings. There are two rules for the formation of this vocative.

RULE 1. Inanimate substantives ending in the plural in an, change this an into idog, to form the vocative plural. F. i., Masináiganan, books; voc. masináiganidog! Matchi bimádisi-winan, bad lives, (bad habits;) vocative, matchi bimádisiwini-dog!

RULE 2. Inanimate substantives ending in the plural in in or on, change their final n into dog. F. i.,—Mitigwábin, bows; voc. mitigwabidog! Nagweiabin, rainbows; voc. nagweiabidog! Otchíibikon, roots; voc. otchíibikodog!

REMARK. Substantives which are at the same time participles, form their vocative, singular and plural, according to the paradigms of the different Conjugations, (as you will see in the Chapter of Verbs.) F. i., Enamiad, a Christian; voc. enamiaian! Christian enamiaieg! ye Christians! Enamiassig, a pagan; voc. enamiassiwān! pagan! enamiassiweg! ye pagans!

CHAPTER II.
OF PRONOUNS.

A Pronoun, as denoted by its very appellation, is a word used for a noun, or instead of a noun or substantive, to avoid the too frequent repetition of the same word. This is the reason why it follows here immediately after the substantive. And it is ordinarily placed immediately before the verb in the sentence. This is the reason why it precedes immediately the verb in this Gram-mar.

There are five distinct sorts or classes of pronouns in the Otchipwe Grammar, viz: Personal, Possessive, Demonstrative, Interrogative, and Indefinite pronouns. We shall now consider each of these different classes of pronouns, respecting their inflections and peculiar use.

I. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

Personal Pronouns are those which designate the three per-sons: the first person, or the speaker; the second person, or the one spoken to; the third person, that is, the person or thing spoken of.

SCHEME OF THE PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

1st. person:....singular	nin , I, me,
plural	nin , or ki , we, us, ninawind , or kinawind ,
plural	we, us,
2nd. person:...singular	ki , or kin , thou, thee,
plural	kinawa , ki , you,
	win , he, she, it, o , him,
3rd. person:...singular	her, it, them,
	(objective case.)
	winawa , they, o , him,
plural	her, it, them,
	(objective case.)

REMARK 1. To the pronouns nin and ki, a euphonical d is at-tached, when the following verb commences with a vowel; as, nind ija, I go; kid anoki, thou workest; nind inendamin, we think; kid ináwa, you tell him, etc.

There are analogous cases of such euphonical letters also in other languages. In French the letter t is inserted between the verb and pronoun in some instances to avoid a cacophonical accumulation of vowels; as, y en a-t-il? aimet-on? etc. There is another analogy to our case in the Italian language. When the conjunctions e and o, and the preposition a are followed by a word beginning with a vowel, a euphonical d is attached to them; as voi ed io stesso; io od ogni altro; ad un certo passo . .

.,etc. There are also in the Chapter of Verbs some such inter-positions of the euphonical d, (od, ged-, gad-.)

It must, however, be observed, that this d, although generally used, may also sometimes be omitted. We may say: Mi ge-iji-webak, instead of mi ged -ijiwebak, so it will happen. Mi ge-ing, so it will be, or be it so. Mi aw ge-ijad, this one will go. In the Otawa dialect the euphonical d is more frequently omitted than in the Otchipwe.

As we are speaking of euphonical letters, we must mention one more, which is used in this language. It is the letter i which is sometimes prefixed to the particles ge, ko, na, and sa, and to the conjunctions dash and gaie, when the word preceding them, ends in a consonant, to avoid a disagreeable crowd of consonants; as, win igo, he himself od inan iko, he uses to tell him; ki nondaw ina? dost thou hear me? ki kikendass isa, thou art learned; nangom idash, but now; nin igaie, I also. But it must again be observed, that the interposition of this euphonical i is not absolutely necessary; and I remarked among the Indians, that it is more usual in some places than in others; and more frequently employed by old grave speakers than by young folks. It is also more frequently used in speaking than in writing. Be it finally remarked, that the same vowel is again used in Italian, to prevent a crowd of consonants.

REMARK 2. The first person in the plural, we, is expressed in Otchipwe by nin or ki, by ninawind or kinawind.—Nin or ki is employed in the immediate connection with the verb; as, nin nagamómin, we sing; ki pisindamin, we listen. But when the pronoun is not connected with the verb, ninawind or kinawind is employed for we; as, awénenag igiw négamodjig? Ninawind sa. Who are those that sing? We do. Awénenag igiw pésindangig? Kinawind sa. Who are those, that listen? We do.

REMARK 3. Although the pronouns nin and ki, ninawind and kinawind, all signify we, the difference between nin and ki, and between ninawind and kinawind, is material, and must well be kept in memory, for the right use of them.

1. Nin or ninawind is employed, when those that speak, do not include in their number the person or persons whom they speak to. F. i., nin nagamomin, we sing, (we that speak now, not the person or persons to whom we speak.) And likewise ninawind, that is, we only that speak, not the person or persons spoken to.

2. Ki or kinawind is used, when those that speak, include in their number the person or persons to whom they speak. F. i., ki pisindamin, we listen, (we that speak, and the person or persons to whom we speak.) And so also kinawind, we altogether, those that speak, and those that are spoken to.

Nota bene. Please mind well this difference between nin and ki, ninawind and kinawind. You will have to make use of it throughout this Grammar.

REMARK 4. The Otchipwe language, like all other primitive and ancient languages, does not use the second person plural in addressing a person to whom respect is shown; the second person singular is invariably employed, may the person addressed be on the lowest or highest degree of respectability. You have seen this already in many of the preceding examples. In English such addresses sound rather rough and unusual, (except among Quakers.) But in order to give exactly the meaning of the Otchipwe phrases in English, I always retain the second person singular also in English. Be it generally remarked here, that the English portion of all the examples of this Grammar could be much better than it is, but I try to accommodate the translation as much as can be, to the original, in order to give to the learner a clearer understanding of the Otchipwe sentences.

II. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

Possessive Pronouns are those which mark possession or prop-erty. They may be divided in two classes, viz: those that imme-diately precede a substantive, which we may call conjunctive possessive pronouns; and those that stand separated from it, which can be named relative possessive pronouns.

FIRST CLASS; CONJUNCTIVE POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

SINGULAR.

Nin, my;ki, thy;o, his, her, its

PLURAL.

Nin or ki, our;ki, your;o, their.

These pronouns are always placed immediately before a sub-stantive, or before an adjective proper that may precede a sub-stantive.

EXAMPLES.

Nin mindjikáwanag bij, bring me my gloves, (mittens.) Bisikan ki wíwakwan, put on thy hat.

Mi aw kwiwisens saiágítod o masináigan, this is the boy that likes his book.

Kimisse osam o minwendan o wabmotchitchagwan, thy sister likes too much her looking-glass.

Nin sagia aw abinodj; mi ow o wíwakwanens, I like this child; here is its little bonnet.

Anindi nin tchimanan? Where is our canoe?

Ka wika ta-nibossiwig ki tchitchágonanig, our souls will never die.

Anin éndashiwad ki manishtánishimiwig? What is the number of your sheep?

Mij ogów kwiwisensag o masináiganiwan, give to these boys their books.

Batainowan o minó, dódamowinan, his (her) good deeds are many.

Nin jingéndan nin matchi ijiwébisiwin, I hate my bad conduct. Ki gete masinaigan aion kikinoamading, kid oshki masinaigan dash mino ganawendan, make use of thy old book at school, and take well care of thy new book.

SECOND CLASS; RELATIVE POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

SINGULAR.

Nin, mine;
kin, thine;
win, his, hers;

PLURAL.

Ninawind, or kinawind, kinawa, yours; ours;
winawa, theirs.

These pronouns are not in immediate connection with the sub-stantive to which they allude, but are separated from it by one or more words, which precede or follow the substantive.

EXAMPLES.

Nin ganabatch nin nókoman ow. E, nin sa, nin nissitawinan.

This is perhaps my knife. Yes it is mine, I recognize it.

Kin ganabatch ki moshwem ga-mikawag. Kin sa, nind inéndam.

It is perhaps thy handkerchief I found. It is thine, I think.

Win na o pakitéigan ow? E, win sa. Is this his (her) hammer? Yes it his (hers.)

Kinawa na ki wakaiganiwa ow? Kawin ninawind. Is this your house? No it is not ours.

Kinawind na geget kid akíminan kakina iw? E, kinawind sa kakina. Is that indeed all our land? Yes it is all ours.

Ninawind na nin tchimaninan iw? Kawin, kinawa, nind inen-dam. Is that our canoe? No, it is yours, I think.

Winawa na od assabiwan banádisiwan? E, winawa sa. Are their nets lost? Yes theirs.

REMARK 1. You see by these examples, that, whenever the possessive pronoun is not immediately before the substantive, one of the second class is employed.

REMARK 2. What has been said in the preceding number of the euphonical d, is to be applied to the pronouns of this number likewise. So, you will say:

Nin babísikawagan, my coat; but you will have to say, nind anákan, my mat.

Ki mákisin, thy shoe; but, kid onágan, thy plate.

O dódamowin, his doing; but, od anamiewin, his religion.

REMARK 3. The difference between nin and kin, ours; nina-wind and kinawind, ours; is the same as stated above in REMARK 3, of the preceding number. (p. 45.)

The use of the Otchipwe possessive pronouns is difficult. The difficulty is not created by the pronouns themselves, which are simple; but by the substantives that follow them.

To employ correctly these pronouns with their substantives, attention must be paid to the substantive or noun, to know whether it is animate or inanimate. (See pages 18 and 19.)

We will here first consider the use of the possessive pronouns with inanimate substantives.

A. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS WITH INANIMATE SUBSTANTIVES.

FORM 1.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nin	my canoe,
tchiman ,	my canoes,
Nin
tchimanan ,
ki	thy canoe,
tchiman ,	thy canoes,
ki tchimanan
o	his (her) canoe.
tchiman ,	his (her) canoe.
o
tchimana
n ,

Nin	our canoe,
tchimaninan,	our canoes,
nin
tchimaninanin
ki	our canoe,
tchimaninan,	our canoes,
ki tchimaninanin
ki	your canoe,
tchimaniwa,	your canoes,
ki
tchimaniwa
n,
tchimaniw	their canoe.
a,	their canoes.
o
tchimaniwa
n,

After this form may be constructed all the inanimate substan-tives with their possessive pronouns, that add the syllable an for the plural, as:

Nin nabikwan, my vessel, Nin masináigan, my book, Nishtigwán, my head,
Niník, my arm,
Nindón, my mouth,
Nitáwag, my ear, Nind apabiwin, my chair,

Nin mokoman, my knife,
Nin wakáigan, my house,
Nisíd, my foot,
Nikád, my leg.
Nikán, my bone,
Nibid, my tooth, Nind adopowin, my table.

REMARK. In regard to the orthography of some words in this list, and of many others of this description in the following forms, it is necessary to observe, that I adopted the rule, as well for the inanimate as animate substantives, to write the possessive pronoun with its substantive in one word, whenever (mind this well) whenever the substantive is such as never to be used alone, separated from its possessive pronoun. So, for instance, nishtigwán, my head. The word shtigwan is never used in the Otchipwe language, it is no word of this language. It must always have a possessive pronoun before it, and is inseparable from it. Of the same kind are: Niník, nindón, nisíd, nikán, nishkínjig; níaw, niiáss. Noss, ningá, nókomiss, nójishe, níta, ninim, nissím, nishíme, nissaíe, nidjikiwe, nindángwe, ningwíss, nindániss, etc. etc.—These and other words of this kind, are never pronounced without a possessive pronoun. Why and how shall we then separate them in writing? What the most ancient usage of the language has connected, the individual writer ought not to separate.

Here is a little sub-form for this kind of substantives, with their possessive pronouns.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nikán, my bone,
nikanan, my bones,

kikan, thy bone,
kikanan, thy bones,
okan, his (her) bone,
okanan, his (her) bones, Nikaninan, our bone,
nikáninanin, our bones,

kikaninan, our bone,
kikaninanin, our bones,
kikaniwa, your bone,
kikaniwan, your bones,
okaniwa, their bone,
okaniwan, their bones.

NOTE. Some of these words, denoting parts of the human body, terminate in the second plural in ananin, as, nisíd, my foot; nisidaninanin, our feet. Likewise niník, my arm; nikád, my leg; nitáwag, my ear; níbid, my tooth. Some words of this, and of the following forms, change the possessive pronoun of the third person, o, into wi, as, níbid, my tooth; wíbid, his tooth. And many others in other forms, inanimate and animate.

EXAMPLES.

Nibid nind ákosin; I have toothache, (pain in one tooth.) Wibidan od akosinan; he has toothache, (pain in more than one tooth.)

Kakina kid ákosimin kishtigwáninanin; we have all headache, (we all have pain in our heads.)

Wábang ta-mádjiiassin ki nábikwaninan; our vessel will leave to-morrow.

Mamitcháwan ki nábikwaniwan; your vessels are large. Takwámagad ki bimádisiwininan oma aking; our life on earth is short.

Anwénindisoda, andjitoda kid ijiwébisiwininan, ki ga-gassia-magonan dash Debéniminang ki batádowininanin; Let us repent and change our conduct, (our life) and our Lord will blot out our sins.

Debénimiiang, bonigidetawishinam nin batádowininanin; Lord, forgive us our sins.

Debéndjiged o kikéndanan kakina kid inéndamowininanin; the Lord knows all our thoughts.

Debínimiiang, ki wábandanan kákina nin dódamowininanin; Lord, thou seest all our actions.

FORM 2.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

Nind abaj, my pole, (lodge-pole,)

Nind abajin, my poles, kid abaj, thy pole,

kid abajin, thy poles, od abaj, his (her) pole,

od abajin, their poles,

Nind abajinan, our pole,

nind abajinanin, our poles, kid abajinan, our pole, kid abajinanin, our poles, kid abajiwa, your pole,

kid abajiwan, your poles, od abajiwa, their pole,

od abajiwan, their poles.

To this form belong the substantives with their possessive pronouns, that add for the plural the syllable in; as:

Nind anít, my spear,

Niníndj, my hand,

Ninde, my heart,

Níiaw, my body,

Niiáss, my flesh,

PLURA nind anitin,

L ninindijin, nindéinanin, our hearts,

kiiawinan, our body,

kiiássinan, our flesh,

etc.

NOTE. The two last words, niiaw and niiass, have wi in the third person; instead of o; wiiaw, his body; wiiás, his flesh, (or meat in general.) See Note, p. 50.

EXAMPLES.

Kiiawinanin kaginig ta-bimadisimagadon gijigong, kishpin enamiangin iji bimadisiiang aking; our bodies will live eternally in heaven, if we lead a Christian life on earth.

Métchi-ijiwébisidjig wiiawiwán kagigé ishkoténg ta-danákode-niwan; the bodies of the wicked will burn in eternal fire.

Awishtoiá kitchi nibiwa o gi-ojitónan kid anítinanin; the black-smith has made a great many spears for us, (a great number of our spears.)

Nánwatig nind abajin o gi-bódawenan; he burnt up (or fired) five of my lodge-poles.

Kinindjinanin aióiang kid ójitomin kakina kid inanokiwininan; by the use of our hands we do all our work.

Swánganamiadjig odéiwan móshkineniwan minó inéndamowin; the hearts of true Christians are full of good will.

FORM 3.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nin makák, my box,

nin makakon, my boxes,

ki makak, thy box,

ki makakon, thy boxes,

omakak, his (her)

box, makakon, his

(her) boxes,

Nin makákonan, our box,

Nin makakonanin, our boxes, ki makakonan, our box, ki makakonanin, our boxes, ki makakowa, your box, ki makakowan, your boxes,

makakowa, their box,

makakowan, their boxes.

After this form can be formed all the inanimate substantives with their possessive pronouns, that add the syllable on to the singular to form the plural; as:

Nin wigwássiwigamig, my lodge. Nin wagákwad, my axe.

Nishkinjig, my eye, or my face. Nind ajawéshk, my sword.

EXAMPLES.

Mamóda ki wagákwadonanin, awi- manisseda; let us take our axes, and let us go and chop wood.

Manádadon ki wagákwadowan, awáshime onijishin nin wagákwad; your axes are bad, my axe is better.

Kid ákosin na kishkinjig? Is thy eye sore?

Géga o gi-wanitonan oshkinjigon; he almost lost his eyes.

Nijinon nangwana kid ajawéskkon; thou hast then two swords. Mádjidon ki makak; gaie kinawa mádjidoiog ki makakowan; carry away thy box; and you also carry away your boxes.

REMARK. We could take the three forms in one only, and say that the mutative vowel, * which is a in the first form, i in the second, and o in the third, makes the only difference in the terminations. But I think that for the beginner it will be easier to have the forms before him detailed according to the three different mutative vowels. Learners that are more advanced, may take the three forms in one.

OF THE POSSESSIVE TERMINATIONS.

The inanimate substantives with possessive pronouns take sometimes the terminations m, im, or om, which may be called in the Otchipwe Grammar the possessive terminations, because they are annexed to substantives with possessive pronouns, in order to express more emphatically property or possession. F. i. Nind akí, my land, my farm; nind akím, my own piece of land; nin kijá pikisigáns, my little stove; nin kijá pikisigánsim, my own little stove. Nin wágakwad, my axe; nin wagakwadam, my own axe.

There are three rules for the annexation of the possessive terminations to inanimate substantives; viz:

RULE 1. Inanimate substantives with possessive pronouns, which terminate in a vowel, take the possessive termination m; as, Nin miskwí, my blood; nin miskwim, ki miskwim, o miskwim, my, thy, his own blood. Nin mashkiki, my medicine; nin mash-kikim, etc. Nin síbi, my river; nin sibim, o sibim, etc.

* You will find a Note on the mutative vowel in the next Chapter, in the enumerations of the different kinds of verbs. As far as this mutative vowel is concerned here, you may call it thus: The vowel with which the terminations of these forms commence.

RULE 2. Inanimate substantives with possessive pronouns, which form their plural by adding on, take the possessive termination om; as, Nin gijigadon, my days; nin gijigadom, my own day; nin gijigadoman, my own particular days; o gijigadom, his remarkable day. Nind ajaweshkon, my swords; od ajaweshkom, od ajaweshkoman. etc.

RULE 3. All the other inanimate substantives with possessive pronouns, and likewise all inanimate diminutives, take the possessive termination ian; as, Nin nábikwan, my vessel; nin nabi-kwanim, my own vessel, my very vessel. Nin mitigwáb, my bow; nin mitigwabim, o mitigwabim, etc.

NOTE. All these substantives with possessive pronouns, that take a possessive termination, belong to Form 1. "Nin tchiman."

Possessive Pronouns with animate Substantives.

We have seen in the preceding forms, how possessive pronouns are expressed with inanimate substantives. Let us now consider the effect they make on animate substantives.

FORM 1.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nind akík, my kettle, nind akikog, my kettles,
kid akík, thy kettle,
kid akikog, thy kettles,
od akikon, his (her) kettle, od akikon, his (her) kettles, Nind akikonan, our kettle, nind akikonanig, our kettles,
kid akikonan, our kettle, kid akikonanig, our kettles,

kid akikowa, your kettle, kid akikowag, your kettles, od akikowan, their kettle, od akikowan, their kettles,

Some animate substantives with possessive pronouns, that terminate their plural in ig, conform also to this form, but their *mutative vowel is i instead of o. F. i. nind assáb, my net; pl. nind assabig, my nets; od assabin, nind assabinan, kid assabi-wag, etc. This i remains throughout all the terminations.

Some animate substantives with possessive pronouns, that add only g for the plural, and end in a vowel in the singular, belong also to this form with a little variation; as:

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nidj' anishinabe, my neighbor, (fellow-man, brother,) kidj' anishinabeg, my neighbors, (fellow-men,) kidj' anishinabe, thy neighbor, kidj'

anishinabeg, your neighbors, widj' anishinaben, his (her) neighbor, widj' anishinaben, his (her) neighbors,

Nidj' anishinabenan, our neighbor, nidj'

anishinabenanig, our neighbors,

kidj' anishinabenan, our neighbor, kidj'

anishinabenanig, our neighbors,

kidj' anishinabewa, your neighbor, kidj' anishinabewag, your neighbors, widj' anishinabewan, their neighbor, widj' anishinabewan, their neighbors.

Likewise, nidj' bimadisi, my fellow-liver, (fellow-man), etc.

REMARK. This Form 1. is seldom used. The animate substantives with possessive pronouns, take almost always the possessive terminations, m, im, or om.

There are likewise three rules for the possessive terminations of the animate substantives, viz:

* See Note p.53.

RULE 1. Animate substantives, ending in a vowel, take the pos-sessive termination m, when they are preceded by a possessive pronoun. F. i. Kije-Manito, God; nin Kije Manitom, my God. Ogima, chief, king; nind ógimam, my chief. Inini, man; nind ininim, my man, my husband. Ikwe, woman; nind ikwem, my woman, my wife. Moshwe, handkerchief; nin moshwem, my handkerchief.

RULE 2. Animate substantives forming their plural by adding ag, ig, or iag, take the possessive termination im, when a pos-sessive pronoun is prefixed to them. F. i. Manishtanish, sheep, (pl. manishtanishag,) nin manishtanishim, my sheep. Masini-tchigan, image, (pl. masinitchiganag,) nin masinitchiganim, my image. Opín, a potatoe, (pl. opinig,) nind opinim, my potatoe. Gigô, fish, (pl. gigóíag,) nin gigôim, my fish.

RULE 3. Animate substantives that form their plural by adding og or wag, take the possessive termination om, when they have a possessive pronoun before them, when they don't terminate in a vowel in the singular. (If the substantives with the plural term-ination in wag, terminate in a vowel in the singular, they belong to the first of these rules, and take the possessive termination m; as, Ikwe, woman, (pl. ikwewag,) nind ikwem. Pijiki, ox, (pl. pijikiwag,) nin pijikim, etc.

EXAMPLES TO RULE 3.

Wabos, rabbit, (pl. wabosog,) nin wabosom, my rabbit. Awing, star, (pl. anangog,) nind anangom, my star. Atik, reindeer, (pl. atikwag,) nind atikom, my rein-deer. Jingwak, pine-tree (pl. jingwakwag) nin jingwakom, my pine-tree, etc.

All the substantives with possessive pronouns, mentioned in the above three rules, belong to the following form.

FORM 2.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nind ogimam, my chief,
nind ogimamag, my chiefs,
kid ogimam, thy chief,
kid ogimamag, thy chiefs, od ogimaman, his (her) chief,
od ogimaman, their chiefs,

Nind ogimaminan, our chief,
nind ogimaminanig, our chiefs, kid ogimaminan, our chief,
kid ogimaminanig, our chiefs, kid ogimamiwa, your chief,
kid ogimamiwag, your chiefs, od ogimamiwan, their chief, od ogimamiwan, their chiefs.

Besides all the animate substantives with possessive pronouns, that have the possessive terminations, those also that add ag in the plural, belong to this form, as some of the following examples will show you.

EXAMPLES.

Mino inakonigewag kid ogimáminanig; our chiefs make good laws, (regulations).

Nébwakad anishinabe o babamitawan od ogimáman; a prudent Indian listens to his chief.

Nisiwag nin kitchi pijikiminanig, nananiwag dash nin pijikinsi-minanig; the number of our cows is three; and of our calves, five.

Gi-mino- nitawigiwag na kid opinimiwag? Have you got a good crop of potatoes?

Bataĩnowag na kid ikwesensimag?—Nawatch bataĩnowag nin kwiwisensimag. Hast thou many girls?—I have more boys.

Nin gi-wabamimanan od anángoman wábanong; we have seen his star in the east.

Nind inawémagan, my relative, (pl. nind inawemaganag.) Non-gom nibiwa nind inawémaganinanig gi-bi-ijawag oma; to-day many of our relatives came here.

Kótawan, a large piece of wood for fuel, a block, (pl. kotawa-nag.) Ki kotawaniwag, your blocks;

nin kotawaninanig, our blocks; o kotawanan, his block, or his blocks.

Kitchípison, a belt, (pl. kitchipisonag.) Bij ki kitchipisonag; bring here thy belts. Nin kitchipisoninan, our belt; ki kitchipi-soninanig, our belts.

In the terms that mark the different degrees of relationship, there is some deviation from the preceding forms, some irregularity, which we have to consider now.

IRREGULAR FORM 1.

SINGULAR.

Noss, my father,
koss, thy father, ossan, his (her) father, Nossinan,
 our father, kossinan, our father, kossiwa, your father, ossiwan, their father,

PLURAL.

nossag, my fathers,* kossag, thy fathers, ossan,
 his (her) fathers, nossinanig, our fathers, kossinanig, our fathers, kossiwa, your fathers, ossiwan, their fathers.

This form is irregular only in the third persons, which are not preceded by od, as the regular form is, od ogimaman, od ogima-miwan. Exactly after this form is inflected the term nókomiss, my grand-mother.

The following terms of relationship: Nimishómiss, my grand-father; ningwíss, my son; nindániss, my daughter; ninídjaniss, my child; nisiniss, my father-in-law; and others which you will find below, in the list displayed after these irregular forms, are also inflected according to this first irregular form, except in the third persons, were they take o or od: omishomissan, ogwissan, odanissan, onidjanissan, osinissan, etc.

* A person may have two fathers, or two mothers one by nature, and another by adoption.

IRREGULAR FORM 2.

SINGULAR.

Ningá, my mother,
kiga, thy mother,
ogin, his (her) mother, Ninganán, our mothers, kiganán, our mothers, kigiwa, your mother, ogiwan, their mother,

PLURAL.

ningaiag, my mothers.
kigaiag, thy mothers.
ogin, his (her)
 mothers.
ningananig, our mothers.
kigananig, our mothers.
kigiwag, your mothers.
ogiwan, their mothers.

This form, as you see, is altogether irregular; and there is no other word belonging to it.

IRREGULAR FORM 3.

SINGULAR.

Nissaie, my brother,

kissaie, thy brother, ossaieian, his (her) brother, Nissaiénan, our brother, kissaienan, our brother, kissaieiwa, your brother, ossaieiwan, their brother,

PLURAL.

nissaiéiag, my brothers.
 (older than I,) kissaieiag, thy brothers.
ossaieian, his (her)brothers.
nissaiénanig, our brothers.
kissaienanig, our brothers.
kíssaieiwag, your brothers.
ossaieiwan, their brothers.

Here are some animate substantives with possessive pronouns belonging to this form; viz:
Nimishóme, my uncle, (my father's brother.)
Nijíshe, my uncle, (my mother's brother.)
Ninoshé, (ninwishé), my aunt (my mother's sister.)
Nimissé, my sister, (older than I.)
Nishíme, my brother or sister, (younger than I.)
Nidjikiwé, my friend, my brother, (widjikiwéian.)
Nindángoshe, my she-cousin, (a female speaking.)
Nindángwe, my sister-in-law, or my friend, (a female speaking.)
Nójishe, my grand-child, (ojisheian; ojisheiwán.)

Besides these terms of relationship all the animate substantives with possessive pronouns that make their plural by adding iag belong to this form; as:

Nijode, twin; nin nijodeiag; ki nijodenanig; ki nijodeiwa.
Abinódji, child; nin abinodjinan; kid abinodjiiwag.
Mindimoie, old woman; nin mindimoienanig, o mindimoieian.
Binéshi, bird; o bineshiian; ki bineshiianig; nin bineshinan.
Pakaákwe, cock, hen; nin pakaakwenanig; ki pakaakwenan.
 etc. etc.

The other terms of relationship, (besides the above,) conform themselves to the preceding irregular forms, or to the regular forms, according to their plural. If you know the first and the third person of the first singular, and the first persons of the first plural and second singular, you can construct the rest according to the above forms.

In the following list these four persons are indicated.

Ninsíniss,* my father-in-law; osínissan, ninsinissag, ninsiniss-inan.

Ninsígosiss, my mother-in-law; osígosissan, ninsigosissag, ninsigosissinan.

Nita, my brother-in-law; wítan, † nitag, nitanan.

* See REMARK, p. 49. † See Note, p. 50.

Nínim, my sister-in-law, (or my brother-in-law; a female speak-ing;) wínimon, ninimog, ninimonan.
Nítáwiss, my he-cousin; witawissan, nitawissag, nitawissinan. Ninimoshé, my she-cousin;
winimoshéian, ninimoshéiag, nini- moshénan.

Nikániss, my friend, my brother; (a male speaking;) wikanissan, nikanissag, nikanissinan.

Nindínigan, my son-in-law; oningwanan,

Nissím, my daughter-in-law; ossimin, nissimig, nissiminan. Nínsigoss, my aunt, (my father's sister;) osigossan, ninosigo- ssag, ninsigossinan.

Niníngwaniss, my nephew; oningwanissan, niningwanissag, niningwanissinan.

Nishimiss, my niece, (a male speaking;) oshimissan, nishimi-ssag, nishimissinan.

Nindójim, my step-son, or my nephew; odójiman, nindojimag, nindojiminan.

Nindojimikwem, my step-daughter, or my niece;
odojimikwe-man, nindojimikwemag,
nindojimikweminan,

Nindójimiss, my niece, (a female speaking;) odójimissan, nin-dójimissag, nindójimissinan.

Nindindawa, the father or the mother of my daughter-in-law; odindawan, nindindawag, nindindawanan.

Otchipwe terms for my brother-in-law," and " my sister-in-law."

A male will say:

My wife's brother, nita, my brother-in-law,

My sister's husband, nita, my brother-in-law,

My wife's sister, ninim, my sister-in-law,

My brother's wife, ninim, my sister-in-law.

A female will say:

My husband's brother, ninim, my brother-in-law,
 My sister's husband, ninim, my brother-in-law,
 My husband's sister, nindángo, my sister-in-law,
 My brother's wife, nindángo, my sister-in-law.*

PECULIARITIES IN REGARD TO THESE TERMS OF RELATIONSHIP.

1. The English term, "my brother," is given in Otchipwe by two terms, nissaie and nishime; the former signifying a brother of mine that is older than I am; and the latter a brother younger than I. And the English term, "my sister," is also given by two terms, nimisse, my sister older than I; and nishime, my sister younger than I.

2. The English term, "my uncle," is given in Otchipwe by nimishome, which signifies, my father's brother; and by nijishe, which denotes, my mother's brother. And the term "my aunt," is expressed by ninsigoss, my father's sister; and ninwishe, (ninoshe,) my mother's sister.

3. Like the Jews and other ancient nations, the Otchipwe Indians call the children of two brothers, or of two sisters brothers and sisters, (nissaie, nimisse, nishime,) which are called cousins in English and in other modern languages. But the children of a brother and a sister, they call cousins, nitáwiss, (ninimoshe, nindangoshe.)

4. The Otchipwe cannot, name distinctly any higher degree in the ascending line, than grandfather and grand-mother, nimi-shomiss and nokomiss. For great grandfather and great grand-mother, they have the same terms as for grandfather and grand-mother. They share the term, nind aianike-nimishomiss; but this does not strictly signify, my great grand- father; it signifies any of my ancestors higher than grand-father. In the descending line they call both a grand-son and a grand-daughter with the same term, nojishe. And all that is lower than nojishe, is called anikóbidjigan.

EXAMPLES.

Wenídjanissidjig o kitchi ságiawan ikó onidjánissiwan; parents use to love very much their children.

Naningim omá bi-ijáwag nitáwissinanig; our cousins come here frequently.

Eji-ságiidisoiang ki da-ságiananig kidj' anishinábenanig: as we love ourselves we ought to love our fellow-men.

Joseph ossaiéian midadatchigwaban, oshimeian dash bejigo-nigoban; Joseph had ten brothers (older than himself,) and one brother (younger than himself.)

Nóngom nine gi-wábamag nij kinimog; to-day I saw two of thy sisters-in-law, (speaking to a male;) or two of thy brothers-in-law, or sisters-in-law, (speaking to a female.)

Ki wabamáwag na ko kishimissiwag? Do you see sometimes your nieces? (speaking to a male.)

Anin eji-bimádisiwad kidojimissiwag? How do your nieces do? (speaking to a female.)

*Kikinoamaw masinaigan kishimeia*g, teach thy brothers (or sis-ters, younger than thou,) to read.

Nin pijikiminan pakákadoso, kinawa dash ki pijikimiwag kitchi wíninowag; our ox (or cow) is poor, but your oxen (or cows) are fat.

Nishíme o gi-banádjian o tibaigísísswanan; my (younger) brother spoiled his watch.

Minosse nin tibaigísísswaninan; our clock goes right (or is right.)

Iagiwa bataĩnowag ki nidjánissinanig; our children are already many.

Mi oma ga-daji-nitáwigiangidwa kakina ninidjanissinanig; it is here we brought up all our children.

Nind atáwewininan o mino dódawan od anishinábeman; our trader treats well his Indians.
Nitag pitchínago nin gi-bi-ganónigog; my brothers-in-law (a male speaking) came yesterday and spoke to me.

All these substantives with possessive pronouns can be trans-formed into verbs, and they are often so, and then they are con-jugated. They have two tenses, the present and the imperfect.

We will employ here the examples of our preceding forms. Now mind this: The present tense of these substantives with possessive pronouns transformed into verbs, is exhibited in the preceding forms, regular and irregular; and the imperfect tense will be shown in the following forms.

A. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS WITH INANIMATE SUBSTANTIVES TRANSFORMED INTO VERBS.

FORM 1.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

Nin tchimaniban, the canoe I had, (or formerly my canoe,)

Nin tchimanibanin, the canoes I had.
 (or formerly my canoes,) ki tchimaniban, the canoe thou hadst, ki tchimanibanin, the canoes thou hadst.

tchimaniban, the canoe he
 (she) had, tchimanibanin, the canoes they had.

Nin tchimaninaban, our former canoe,

Nin tchimaninabanin, formerly our canoes.

ki tchimaninaban, our former canoe, ki tchimaninabanin, formerly our canoes.

ki tchimaniwaban, the canoe you had, ki tchimaniwabanin, the canoes you had.

o tchimaniwaban, the canoe they had,
o tchimaniwabanin, the canoes they had.

EXAMPLES.

Mi ow nin kitiganiban, bakán dash ningótchi nongom nin kitigé; this was formerly my field, but now I make my field elsewhere.

Anindi gwaiak ga-ateg ki wakaiganiwaban? Where is the spot where your house stood?

Kishime od aian nin masinaiganiban; thy brother has the book I had before.

Gi-sakide endaiang, kakina dash nin masináiganinabanin gi-tchágidewan; our house took fire, and all our books we had, burnt down.

Ki mojawáiganiwabanin, once your scissors. O mojawáiganiwaban, once his (her) scissors.

FORM 2.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

Nind abajiban, my pole (lodge-pole) which I lost, nind abajibanin, the poles I had.

kid abajiban, thy pole thou hadst, kid abajibanin, the poles thou hadst.

od abajiban, the pole he (she) had, od abajibanin, the poles he had.

Nind abajinaban, the pole we had, nind abajinabanin, the poles we had.

kid abajinaban, the pole we had, kid abajinabanin, the poles we had.

kid abajiwaban, the pole
you had, od abajiwaban, the pole they had.
kid abajiwabanin, the poles you had, od abajiwabanin, the poles they had.

EXAMPLES.

Mojag nin mikwendan ninindjiban: nin kashkendam giwanito-iàn; I think often on the hand I had; I am sorry to have lost it.
Nimisse o mawiton onindjiban; my sister is crying because she lost her hand, (or she is bewailing the hand she lost.)
Apine nind anitibanin, kawin nin mikansinan; the spears I had, are lost, I don't find them.

FORM. 3.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

Nin makakoban, the box I had, (my former box,) nin makakobanin, the boxes I had.
ki makakoban, the box thou hadst, ki makakobanin, the boxes thou hadst. o makakoban, the box he (she) had, makakobanin, the boxes they had.
Nin makakonaban, our former box, nin makakonabanin, the boxes we had.
ki makakonaban, our former box, ki makakonabanin, the boxes we had.
ki makakowaban, the box you had,
ki makakowabanin, the boxes you had.
makakowaban, the box they had, makakowabanin, the boxes they had.

EXAMPLES.

Gi-gawissemagad nin pijikiwigamigoban; the stable I had tumbled down.

Minossébanin ki wagákwadonabanin; the axes we had were good;

Nind atawéwigamigoban oma ateban; here was the store I had.

Kid atawéwigamigowaban, the store you had, once your store.

NOTE. The REMARK on page 53 is applicable also to these three forms.

B. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS WITH ANIMATE
SUBSTANTIVES

TRANSFORMED INTO VERBS.

FORM 1.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nind akikoban, the kettle I had, nind akikobanig, the kettles I had.

kid akikoban, the kettle thou hadst, kid akikobanig, the kettles thou hadst.

od akikobanin, the kettle he
(she) had, od akikobanin, the kettles he (she) had.

Nind akikonaban, the kettle we had, nind akikonabanig, the kettles we had.

kid akikonaban, the kettle we had, kid akikonabanig, the kettles we had.

kid akikowaban, the kettle you had, kid akikowabanig, the kettles you had.

od akikowabanin, the kettle they had, od akikowabanin, the kettles they had.

EXAMPLES.

Mi sa aw ikwe od akikobanin; to this woman belonged the kettle, (or the kettles.)

Gi-batatainowag nind akikonabanig; the kettles we had were many.

Nin nind assabiban aw; nongom dash kawin odossabissi. This was my net; but now I have no net.

Gi-niwiwan od assabiwabanin, they had four nets before. Nidj' anishinabeban, my fellow-man (brother) I had, (or my deceased fellow-man (brother.)) Widj' anishinabebanin, his deceased fellow-man. Kidj' anishinabenabanig, our deceased fellow-men.

FORM 2.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL.

Nind ogimamiban, my deceased Chief, or the Chief I had before, nind ogimamibanig, my deceased Chiefs.

kid ogimamiban, thy deceased Chief, kid ogimamibanig, thy deceased Chiefs.

od ogimamibanin, his (her) deceased Chief, od ogimamibanin, his (her) deceased Chiefs.

Nind ogimaminaban, our deceased Chief, or the Chief we had before, nind ogimaminabanig, our deceased Chiefs.

kid ogimaminaban, our deceased Chief, or the Chief we had before, kid ogimaminabanig, our deceased Chiefs.

kid ogimamiwaban, your deceased Chief, kid ogimamiwabanig, your former Chiefs.

od ogimamiwabanin, his (her) deceased Chief, od ogimamiwabanin, their deceased Chiefs.

EXAMPLES.

Ki kitchi ogimaminaban od inákonigewin; our late king's law. Nin widjiwáganiban od inodéwisiwin; my deceased companion's, (or partner's) property.

Kawin wika nongom awiia nin wábamassig nin kikinoamaga-nibanig, I never see now any of my former scholars.

Nissai, keiabi na ki mikwénima ki widigémaganiban? My brother, dost thou yet remember thy deceased wife?

Igiw nij ikwéwag o gi-mino-dódawawan mo jag o widigémaga-niwabanin; these two women have always treated well their deceased husbands.

Nitag o gi-sagiawan o widigémaganiwabanin; my brothers-in-law have loved their deceased wives. Kitchi ginwénj gi -anónigosi omá nin bamítaganinaban; our deceased servant was very long employed here.

The words of the irregular forms belong to this Form 2, in their imperfect tense, as:

Noss, my father. Nossiban, my deceased father.

Kossinaban, our deceased father. Nossinabanig, our deceased fathers.

Nimishómiss, my grand-father.

Kimishomissinabanig, our de-ceased grand-fathers Kimishómissiban, thy deceased grand-father.

Nókomiss, my grand-mother. Kókomissinaban, our deceased grand-mother.

Nissaié, my older brother. Nissaiéiban, my deceased brother. Kissaiéinabanig; our deceased brothers. Ossaiéiwabanin, their deceased brother, (or brothers)

Nitáwiss, my he-cousin. Nitáwissiban, my deceased cousin.

Witáwissiwabanin, his deceased cousins.

Nindójim, my step-son. Nindójimiban, my deceased stepson, Kidójiminaban, our deceased step-son. Kidójimiwabanig, your deceased step-sons.

Some of the words of the irregular forms, when in the imper-fect tense, belong to other forms, according to the explanations given at every form, as:

Nita, my brother-in -law. Nitaban, my deceased brother in-law. Nitanabanig, our deceased brothers-in-law. Witabanin, his deceased. brother

-in-law, (or-brothers-in-law.) (After "Nidj' anishinabe." Nidj' anishinabeban.)

Ninim, my sister-in-law; (pl. ninimog.) Ninimoban, my de-ceased sister-in-law. Winimobanin, his deceased sister-in-law, (or his. deceased sisters-in-law.) Kinimonaban, our deceased sister-in-law. (After "Nind akikonaban.") etc., . . etc.. .

The term ningá, my mother, makes its imperfect in a peculiar manner; viz:

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

Ningiban, my deceased mother, ningibanig, my deceased mothers.
kigiban, thy deceased mother, kigibanig, thy deceased mothers.
ogibanin, his (her) deceased mother, ogibanin, his (her) deceased mothers.
Ninginaban, our deceased mother, ninginabanig, our deceased mothers.
kiginaban, our deceased mother, kiginabanig, our deceased mothers.
kigiwaban, your deceased mother, kigiwabanig, your deceased mothers.
ogiwaban, their deceased mother, ogiwabanin, their deceased mothers.

The dubitative or traditional mood of speaking is often used in the imperfect tense of terms denoting relationship, when they speak of deceased persons whom they never saw.

The invariable rule for the formation of the traditional in this imperfect tense is, to put the syllable go before the letter b in the terminations of the imperfect tense. F. i.

Nóssiban, my deceased father; nóssigoban, my deceased father whom I never saw.

Kókomissinaban, our deceased grand-mother; kókomissinago-ban, our deceased grand-mother whom we did not see.

Nind ógimaminaban, our deceased chief; nind ogimaminago-ban, our deceased chief whom we did not see.

Kimishómissinabanig, our deceased grand-fathers; Kimishómi-ssinagobanig, our deceased grandfathers whom we never saw.

And so on, putting always go before b in the terminations.

OF THE THIRD PERSONS.

There is another peculiarity of the Otchipwe language, which I must treat of here. Three different third persons are distinguish-ed in animate substantive, each of which has its own construction; namely: the simple third person, the second third person, and the third third person. I would have mentioned this in the Chapter of Substantives; but as the three third persons have influence also on substantives with possessive pronouns, I mention and explain it here.

1. THIRD PERSON SIMPLE.

The third person simple is that which is the only one in the sentence; as Nin sagia noss, I love my father. Nin babamitawa ningá, I listen to my mother. Noss and ningá are the third persons simple in these sentences. There is nothing extraordinary about that.

2. SECOND THIRD PERSON.

When there are two third persons in a sentence, one of them is our second third person; according to the construction of the verb. F. i.

Mabam kwiwisens o minádeniman ossan; this boy honors his father.

Aw inini od anokitawan nossan; that man works for my father. Nimisse o widokawan ningaian; my sister is helping my mother. Kitchitwa Marie o ginigian Jesusan; St. Mary gave birth to Jesus.

The second third persons in the above sentences are: ossan, nossan, ningaian, Jesusan. Those that understand Latin, must not think that the second third person always corresponds with the Latin accusative. It often does indeed, but not always. In the above four sentences the second third persons exactly express the Latin accusative.

But this is not invariably the case. Where there are two third persons in a sentence, one or the other may be our second third person, the accusative or the nominative, according to the verb.

The following examples will illustrate this matter.

O kikenimawan nossan kakina anishinabeg oma endanakidjig; all the Indians of this place know my father, (patrem meum.)

O kikenimigowan nossan kakina anishinabeg oma endanakid-jig; my father (pater meus) knows all the Indians of this place.

In these two sentences the second third person is always nossan; but in the first sentence nossan expresses the accusative, (patrem meum,) and in the second it expresses the nominative, (pater meus.) (See REMARK after the paradigm of the Passive Voice in the IV. Conj.)

3. THIRD THIRD PERSON.

When there are three third persons in a sentence, one of them is the second third person (according to the construction of the verb,) and the third third person is that which has the nearest report to the second. F. i.

Joseph o gi-odapinan Abinódjiiian oginigaie, (or oginiwan,) mi dash ga-iji-madjad; Joseph took the Child and his mother, and departed.

In this sentence, Abinódjiiian is the second third person, and ogini the third third person.

REMARK. Sometimes there are three and more third persons in a sentence; but if all are in equal and immediate relation to one, this one is the third person simple, and all the others are second third persons, and there is no third third person in the sentence.

F. i. Kitchi ogima Herode nibiwa o gi-nissan abinodjiian, nibiwa gaie ininiwan, oshkinawen, ikwewan gaie oginissan; King Herod slew many children, and he also slew many men, young men, and women.

Aw Wemitigoji o mino bamian osinissan, wiwan, onidjani-ssan, witan gaie; that Frenchman takes well care of his father-in-law, of his wife, children and brother-in-law.

In these two sentences, Herod and Wemitigoji, are simple third persons; all the rest are second Third persons; there is no third third person.

FORMATION OF THE SECOND AND THE THIRD THIRD PERSON.

A. FORMATION OF THE SECOND THIRD PERSON.

This person is formed by adding certain terminations to the singular of the third person simple. These terminations are seven in number, viz: n, an, ian, in, oian, on, wan. We shall consider them in examples. (Breve iter per exempla, longum per præcepta.)

	Inini, man,	ininiwan.
	Ikwe, woman,	ikwewan.
	Amik, beaver,	amikwan.

The general and invariable rule for the application of these different terminations, in forming the second third person, is, to change the letter g, in which all animate substantives end in the plural, into n. (Examine the above examples.

B. FORMATION OF THE THIRD THIRD PERSON.

The third third person always terminates in ini, except in some proper Indian names, where it ends in ani. This person is formed from the second third person. Let us examine the above seven terminations of the second third person, and see how the third third person is obtained from them.

1. To the terminations n, in, on, add ini, for the third third person. F. i. Maniton, manitonini.

Nissimin, Mitigon.

2. The terminations an, and ian, are changed into ini. F. i. Nossan, nossini. Ossan, ossini. Ogwissan, ogwissini. Kimiss-eian, kimisseini. (sometimes the syllable wan is here added, as: Ossiniwan, nossiniwan, ogwissiniwan, etc.)

3. The termination oian (in proper names) adds i for the third third person. F. i. Manitogisissoian, Manitogisissoiani. Mon-sogidigoian, Monsogidigoiani.

4. The termination wan is changed into wini. F. i. Wemiti-gojiwan, Wemitigojiwini, Ikwewan, ikwewini. Wiwan, wiwini.— Exception. Ogin, his mother, takes only i for the third third person: ogini, sometimes oginiwan.

This distinction of three third persons is one of the beauties and perfections of the Otchipwe language. It contributes materially to the unequivocal understanding of the whole sentence; whereas in English and in other languages we are sometimes obliged to insert a proper name or another word to avoid misunderstanding.

Illustration.

In the sentence: Paul is indeed a wicked man, he almost killed his brother and his wife; you cannot know whether Paul almost killed his own wife, or his brother's wife; both senses can be understood in the above sentence; and when it becomes necessary to avoid misunderstanding, you must insert Paul's name, or some other word, and say: he almost killed his (Paul's) wife; or, he almost killed his brother and his own wife. And if you want to say that Paul almost killed his brother's wife, you have to say: he almost killed his brother and his brother's wife. This double sense of the sentence is avoided in the expressive Otchipwe language, by the third third person. They will say: Paul geget matchi ininiwi, gega ogi-nissan ossaieian, wiwini (or wiwiniwan) gaie. The third third person, wiwini, can only mean Paul's brother's wife; because if Paul's wife be meant, it would be wiwan, the second third person; and then it would read: gega

o gi-nissan saieian, wiwan gaie; he almost killed his brother and his (Paul's) wife.

Another illistration

In the sentence: Mary is a very industrious woman, she always helps her cousin and her mother; you cannot know with certain-ty, whose mother is meant. It can be Mary's mother, or her cou-sin's mother,

In Otchipwe there can be no double sense in such sentences. If you say: Marie kitchi nita-anoki, mojak o widokawan odango-sheian, ogin gaie ; it is clear that you want to say, Mary always helps her cousin, and her own (Mary's) mother. But if you say: Marie mojak o widokawan odangosheian, ogini gaie; it is clear that Marie always helps her cousin and her cousin's mother.

REMARK. The third person appears sometimes even in inan-imate substantives with possessive pronouns; but it is not so commonly used, nor so important as in animate substantives with possessive pronouns.

EXAMPLES.

Enamiad weweni o gad-odápinamawan Jesusan; the Christian ought to receive worthily the body of Jesus. (Enamiad, simple third person; Jesusan, second third person; wiiawini, third third person.)

Debendjiged o bonigidetawan aianwenindisonidjin o batado-winini (or o batadowininiwan;) the Lord forgives their sins to those that repent. (Debendjiged, simple third person; aianwenindisonidjin, second third person; o batadowinini, (or o bata-dowininiwan;) third third person.

Kitchitwá Marie ápitchi weweni o giganawendamawan Jesu-san od ikitowinini. St. Mary kept very well the word of Jesus. Nind awiig aw ikwe odanan od onaganiniwan; that woman lends me her daughter's dishes.

III. DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

Demonstrative Pronouns are those that indicate or point out the persons or things spoken of. They are divided, according to the two classes of substantives or nouns, in those that refer to animate substantives, and those that have report to inanimate.

1. FIRST CLASS; DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS REFERRING TO ANIMATE OBJECTS.

FOR NEAR OBJECTS.

Singular. Aw, waáw, mábam; this, this one, this here.

Plural. Ogów mámig; these, these here.

FOR DISTANT OBJECTS.

SINGULAR. Aw, that, that one, that there.

(For the second third person: iníw, or aníw.)

PLURAL. Igíw, or agíw, those, those there.

(For the second third person: iniw, or aniw.)

REMARK. There is no difference of sex perceptible in the Otchipwe demonstrative pronouns. The same pronoun is employed to refer to a man, a woman, a child, or even a lifeless object, when it is used in Otchipwe like a living being. (See p. 18, 19, 20.)

EXAMPLES.

Mábam Abinódji-ta-kitchi-ágonwetawa; this Child shall be much spoken against.

Mi aw inini débenimad iniw manishtánishan; this is the man that owns those sheep.

Mimámig ninidjanissag, iniw dash nijishe onidjanissan; these here are my children, and those there my uncle's children.

Mémindage aw inini jawendagosi, eji-mino-ijiwebisid; this man (or that man) is really happy, being so good.

Mi mábam pakwéjigan gijigong wendjibad; this is the bread which comes down from heaven.

Kid ashamin ogow mishiminag; I give thee these apples here to eat.

Aw ikwe wewéni o nitáwigian onidjanissan; this woman brings well up her children.

Kitchi mawishki mabam ikwesens; this little girl is always crying.

Kawin na ki nondawassig mamig ogimag ekitowad? Dost thou not hear these chiefs what they say?

Igiw ikwewag kitchi nitá-nagamowag; those women are good singers.

Ki nissitótawag na ogow ininiwag? ogow oshkinaweg? Dost thou understand these men here? these young men here?

Nin kikenima aw inini wedi bemossed; I know that man that walks there.

Nin sagiá aw kwiwisens aiápitchi-nibwakád; I like that very wise boy.

Noss o dibeniman iniw pijikiwan; my father is the owner of this ox, (or these oxen,) (this cow, or these cows.)

Mi sa igiw, odénang ged-ijadjig; those are the persons that will go to town.

Kakina igiw anishinabeg ningoting ta-anamiawag; all those Indians will once be Christians.

2. SECOND CLASS; DEMONSTRATIVE

PRONOUNS REFERRING TO

INANIMATE OBJECTS.

FOR NEAR OBJECTS.

SINGULAR. Ow, mándan; this, this here.

PLURAL. Onow, Iniw; these, these here.

FOR DISTANT OBJECTS.

SINGULAR. Iw, that, that there.

PLURAL. Iniw, those, those there.

EXAMPLES.

Nin kitchi ságiton ow masinaigan, ow gaie ojibíigan; I like very much this book, and this writing.

Wegonen mándan? Ka na wika ki wábandansin?
What is this?

Hast thou never seen it?

Ki nissitawinan na iw? Dost thou know that? (or recognize it?)

Nin manádjiton mándan anamiewigamig; I respect (I honor) this church.

Nin kitchi minotánan iniw nagamónan; I like very much to hear those hymns.

Onów ki minin masináiganan; minó inábadjton; I give thee these books here make a good use of them.

Nin gi-mamakádendan iw kitchi anamiewigamig Moniang eteg; I admired that great church in Montreal.

Maididokan iniw apabiwinan; carry away these chairs (or benches.)

IV. INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

Interrogative Pronouns are those that serve to ask questions.

There are three of this kind in the Otchipwe language, viz:

For animate objects: Awénen? who?
which? what? Plu:

Awénenag?

For inanimate objects. Weganen? Anin? what?

EXAMPLES.

Awénen ge-dibákoninang gi-ishkwa-bimadisiiang aking? Who will judge us after our life on earth?

Awénen gijigong ged-ijad? Who shall go to heaven?

Awénenag wedi bemishkadjig? Who are those in that canoe there?

Awénenag igiw négamodjig? Who are those that sing? Wégonen naiágatawendaman? What art thou thinking on? (or contemplating.)

Wégonen iw ekitoieg? What are you saying?

Wégonen ge-dódang awiia tchi jawendágosid kagigékamig?

What has a person to do in order to be happy eternally?

Ininiwidog, nikánissinadog! anin ged-ijitchigeiáng? Men, brethren! what shall we do?

Anin ékitoian? What sayest thou?

Anin enákamigak? What is the news?

REMARK. The second third person of awénen and awénenag, is awénenan, which exactly expresses the English whom.

F. i. Awenenan ga-anónadjin Jesus tchi gagikwenid enigokwag aki? Whom did Jesus employ to preach every where on earth?

Awenenan Jesus ga-apitchi-sagiadjin minik ga-dashinid o kikinoamaganan? Whom did Jesus especially love among all his disciples?

Awenenan ga-mawadissádjin kishime pitchinago?

Whom did thy brother visit yesterday?

V. INDEFINITIVE PRONOUNS.

Indefinitive Pronouns are those which denote persons things indefinitely or generally. There are four of this description in the Otchipwe language; viz:

FOR ANIMATE OBJECTS.

Awíia, one, somebody, some person, anybody.

Ka awíia, or kawin awíia, none, nobody, no person.

Awégwen, whoever, or whosoever, I don't know who.

pl. awégwenag.

FOR INANIMATE OBJECTS.

Wégotogwen, whatever, or whatsoever, all, I don't know what.

EXAMPLES.

Awíia o pakitéan ishkwándem; somebody knocks on the door. Awíia na aiá agwatching? Is there anybody without?

Kawin awíia mashi dagwishinsi; nobody (or no person) has arrived yet.

Kawin awíia o dá-gashkitossin, nij ge-dibénimigodjin tchi anokitawad; nobody can serve two masters.

Awégwen ge-nishkádisitawagwen wikanissan anisha, tamatchi-dodam; whosoever shall be angry with his brother without a cause, will do evil.

Ow o gi -inan Jesus o kikinoamáganan: Awegwen ge-gassiamawegwen o batádowinan, mi aw ge-gassiiigadenig. Jesus said to his disciples: Whosoever sins you remit, they are remitted unto them.

Wegotogwen ge-nandótamawagwen Weóssimind nind ijinikaso-wining, ki ga-minigowa; kid igonan

Jesus . Jesus says unto us: Whatsoever you shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

Wégotogwen wa-ikitogwen, kawin nin nissitótawassi; I don't know what he wants to say; I don't understand him.

REMARK 1. The second third person of awegwen and aweg-wenag, is awegwenan, which is expressed in English by: I don't know who, or, we don't know who. F. i.

Awégwenan ga-wabiigogwenan aw ga-gagibingwe- nigipan; gi-ikitowan onigiigon. We don't know who has opened the eyes of this born blind; said his parents.

Awegwenan ga- bi -ganonigogwenan nishime; geget nongom mino ijiwebisi. I do not know who came and spoke to my brother; he behaves now well.

REMARK 2. If you are asked: Awénen aw? Who is this or that person? Or, awenenag ogow? or, igiw? Who are these or those persons? And if you don't know, you will have to answer, for the singular: Awégwen: and for the plural: Awégwenag which both signify, I don't know who. F. i.

Awénen aw badássamossed? Awegwen. Who is that person there coming this way? I don't know.

Awénen aw ikwe ga-bi-ijad oma jéba? Awegwen. Who is that woman that came here this morning? I don't know.

Awénenag ge-mádjadjig wabang? Awegwenag. Who are those that will start to-morrow? I don't know.

Awénenag igiw ga-giossedjig pitchinago? Awegwenag. Who are those that have been a hunting yesterday? I don't know.

The second third person of this word of answer is: Awég-wenan, for both the singular and plural. F. i.

Awénenan ga- ánwenimadjin nimishóme? Awegwenan. Whom did my uncle reprimand? I don't know.

Awenenán ga-bi -ganonigodjin nishime? Awegwenan. Who came and spoke to my brother? I don't know...

Before we close the Chapter of Pronouns we must observe that there are no relative pronouns in the Otchipwe language. The sentences in which there are relative pronouns in English, (who, which, that, what,) are given in Otchipwe by what is called, in this Grammar, "The CHANGE of the first vowel," forming chiefly participles. We have already employed this "CHANGE" in some examples, but we have had till now no opportunity of mentioning it; and even now we mention it only because the relative pronouns are always expressed by the CHANGE.

But in the next Chapter, towards the end of the first Conjugation, you will find a full explanation of it. This explanation naturally belongs to the Chapter of Verbs, because the CHANGE never occurs but in verbs.

Here are a few examples in which you will see how the sentences with relative pronouns are given in Otchipwe. All this, however, you will better understand when you study it again after a careful perusal of the next Chapter.

Kije-Manito misi gego, ga-gijitod, misi gego gaie máninang, wenidjanissingin ki sagiigonan; God who made all things, and who gives us all, loves us like children.

Jawendágosiwag waiábandangig waiábandameg; blessed are they who see what you see.

Jawendágosi daiébwetang ano wabandansig; blessed is he that believes although he sees not.

Ininiwag ga-ano-nandomindjig, kawin gi-bi-ijassiwag; the men that have been called, did not come.

Inini ga-wabamag, ga-ganonag gaie. . . . The man that I have seen, and whom I have spoken to. . . .

Oshkinawe enónad gi- bí-ija oma jéba; the young man whom thou employest, came here this morning.

Ikwe wádigemag; the woman to whom I am married. wádige-mag; the man to whom I am married.

CHAPTER III.
OF VERBS.

A Verb is that part of speech which expresses an action or state, and the circumstances of time in events, or in a being.

The being which does or receives the action expressed by the verb, is called its subject; and the being to which relates the action, in some verbs, is called its object.

The verb is the principal and most important part of speech, especially in the Otchipwe language, which is a language of verbs.

DIVISION OF VERBS.

The principal grammatical division of verbs is in two classes, transitive and intransitive. Each of these two classes has its sub-divisions, which are detailed here. It was necessary to give to some sorts of verbs peculiar names, which do not occur in other Grammars. But in the Grammar of the Otchipwe language, which differs so much from other languages in its grammatical system, it seemed necessary to establish distinct denominations for certain peculiar kinds of verbs.

A. TRANSITIVE VERBS.

1. Active verbs, or transitive proper, express an act done (or that could be done) by one person or thing to another. F. i. Nin sagia noss, I love my father. Nind ojibian masinaigan, I write a letter. Nin da-ganóna wabamag, I would speak to him if I saw him.

2. Reciprocal verbs are those which designate a reaction of the subject on itself. Nin kikénindis, I know myself. Sagiidiso, he loves himself. Kitimagiidisowad, they make themselves poor.

3. Communicative verbs, So are called the verbs that express a mutual action of several subjects upon each other in a communicative manner. These verbs have only the plural number. F. i. Igiw nitam ga-bi-anamiadjig, weweni gi-sagiidiwag, gi-jaweni-ndiwag, mo jag gi-mino-dodadiwag, The first Christians loved much each other, were charitable to each other, and treated each other well.—It must, however, be remarked, that these verbs do not always signify a mutual action of several subjects upon each other; but sometimes they mean that the subjects of the verb act together, or are influenced together, in a common or communicative manner. F. i. Nind dibaamádimin, we are paid together. Nimiidiwag, they are dancing together. Widjíndiwag, they are going together.

4. Personifying verbs. We call, in this Grammar, those verbs personifying, which represent an inanimate object acting like a person, or another animate being. F. i. Nishtigwan nin nissigon, my head kills me, (I have a violent head-ache.) Masinaigan nin gi-bi-odissigon, a letter came to me. Ninde ki nandawenimigon, heart desires thee. Ishkotewabo ki makamigon kakina kid aiiman, ardent liquor (fire-water) is robbing thee of all thy things.

There is yet another kind of personifying verbs, which are formed by adding magad to the third person singular present, indicative, of verbs belonging to the I., II., and III. Conjugations. These verbs give likewise to inanimate objects the activity or quality of a person, or another animate being. F. i. Ijámagad, it goes, (ijá, he goes.) Nabikwan bibonishimagad oma, a vessel winters here, (bibónishi, he winters.) Mandan masináigan jaganáshimmomagad, this book speaks English, (jaganáshimo, he speaks English.)

REMARK 1. When the third person singular, above mentioned, ends in a consonant, you must first add to this third person the mutative vowel, and then the termination magad, to form these personifying verbs. The mutative vowel is that in which ends the third person singular, present, indicative; or with which commences the termination of the third person plural. F. i. Nin ikit, I say; third person singular, ikito, he says; this o is the mutative vowel. if you annex magad to this o, you will have the personifying verb ikitómagad, it says. But when the said third person singular ends in a consonant, you have to go to the third person plural, and see its conjugational termination; and the vowel with which this termination begins, is our mutative vowel. F. i. Dagwishin, he arrives; the third person plural is, dagwishinog; now this o is the mutative vowel; and now add to this o the termination magad, and you will have the personifying verb dagwishinomagad, it arrives, it comes on. In substantives the mutative vowel appears in the termination of the plural. F. i. Anang, a star; plural, anangog; o is its mutative vowel. Assin, a stone; plural, asinig; i is its mutative vowel. Biwabik; biwabikon.

REMARK 2. Sometimes abbreviations are employed in the formation of these verbs. F. i. Kitimagisi, he is poor. According to the rule we ought to form the personifying verb by adding magad to this third person, and say, kitimagisimagad; but they say, kitimagad, it is poor. Kitimagad endaiàn, my dwelling is poor. Kitimagad nind agwiwin, my clothing is poor.

B. INTRANSITIVE VERBS.

1. Neuter verbs, or intransitive-proper, are those verbs that express a state of being, or an action not going over on any object. F. i. Nin kashkendam, I am sorrowful, sad. Kid ákos, thou art sick. Minwendam, he is contented, glad, happy. Nibá, he sleeps. These are intransitive verbs, because they express a state of being. The following express an action confined to the actor, not passing over on any subject, and are therefore intransitive. Nin madja, I depart, I start. Ki dagwishin, thou arrivest. Wabange, he is looking on. Anishinabewidjige, he lives and acts like an Indian.

2. Reproaching verbs. So are called here the verbs which signify that the subject thereof has some reproachful habit or quality.

F. i. Aw kwiwisens nibaskki, this boy likes too much sleeping, (nibá, he sleeps.) Nimisse nimishki, my sister likes too much dancing, (nimi, she dances.) Ginawishkiwag, they are in the habit of lying. Gimódishki, he is a thief.

3. Substantive-verbs are those that are formed directly from substantives. F. i. Aking gi-ondji-ojitchigade kiiaw, minawa dash ki gad-akiw; out of earth was formed thy body, and thou shalt be earth again. (Aki, earth; nind akiw, I am earth; akiwi, he is earth.) Lot wiwan gi-abanábiwan, mi dash ga-iji-jiwitagan-iwinid; Lot's wife looked back and became salt (a pillar of salt.) (Jiwitagan, salt; nin jiwitaganiw, I am salt; jiwitaganíwi, he (she) is salt.) Nind anishinabew; nind ininiw; nind ikwew.

4. Abundance-verbs. These verbs are likewise formed from substantives, and they designate that there is abundance of the object signified by the substantive from which they are formed. They all end in ka, and are impersonal verbs, belonging to the VII. Conjugation. F. i. Nibika oma, there is much water here. Anishinábeke wedi, there are many Indians there. Tibikong gikitchi-anangoka, last night there was plenty of stars, (many stars were visible.) Assinika, there is abundance of stone. Gigó-ika, there is plenty of fish.

5. Unipersonal verbs are those that have only the third person. The verbs of the preceding number are unipersonal verbs. These verbs are commonly called by Grammarians impersonal; but the term impersonal is undoubtedly more adapted to them; because they are not entirely destitute of persons, but they have only one; so they are rather unipersonal than impersonal. F. i. Kissiná or kissinámagad, it is cold. Kijáte, or kijátemagad, it is warm. Gimiwan, it rains. Sanagad, it is difficult.

6. Defective verbs are those that want some of the tenses and persons, which the use does not admit. F. i. bwa, he says, (inquit.) Nin dind, I am, I do; anin endiian? How do you do.

There are many other kinds, or rather modifications of verbs, of which we will speak after all the Conjugations, under the head of Formation of Verbs.

There are no auxiliary, or helping verbs, in the Otchipwe language. The verbs of all the Conjugations of this Grammar are inflected or conjugated by themselves without the help of any other verb. The verbs to be and to have, which are auxiliary verbs in other languages, are principal verbs in the Otchipwe language. Instead of auxiliary verbs, the Otchipwe verbs take certain prefixes or signs, in certain moods and tenses.

There are five prefixes, or signs, in the Otchipwe Conjugations, by which the different moods and tenses are distinguished; viz: ga-, ge-, gi-, da-, and ta-.

Ga-, (pronounced almost ka-,) for the perfect and pluperfect tenses, (in the CHANGE,) and participle perfect and pluperfect.

Ga-, (gad-,) and ta-, for the future tense indicative.

Ge-, (ged-,) (pronounced almost ke-, ked-,) for the future tenses, subjunctive, and participle future.

Gi-, for the perfect and pluperfect tenses.

Da-, for the conditional mood.

REMARK. The English language has also several signs which are employed in the Conjugation of verbs; as, will, would, shall, should, ought, etc. But there is a great difference, in regard to the use of signs, between the two languages. The English signs are sometimes used by themselves, separately from their verbs; and one sign may serve for several subsequent verbs. Not so in Otchipwe. In this language the signs always remain attached to the verb, and can never be used separately; and the sign must be repeated before every verb which stands under the influence of the same.

This remark is rather a syntactical one; but speaking here of these signs, as attached to verbs etymologically, I make it here. You will better understand it when you return to it after the attentive perusal of the long Chapter of Verbs.

SOME ILLUSTRATING EXAMPLES.

In English you would say: I will work to-morrow all day; indeed I will. Here the sign, will, stands alone, separated from its verb, only referring to it.

But in Otchipwe you must say: Nin gad-anokí wabang kabe-gijig; geget nin gad-anoki. You cannot put the sign only and say: Geget nin gad. The sign can never be used separately from its verb; it must remain attached to it: you must say Geget nin gad-anoki.

So again you would say in English: He ought to pay thee; yes, he ought. The sign, ought, is separated from its verb.

In Otchipwe you have to say: Ki da-dibaamag sa. E, ki da-dibaamag, The sign, da-, remains attached to its verb.

In the following example you will see how the Otchipwe sign must be repeated at every verb to which it relates.

In English you would say, for instance: he would be loved, respected, and well treated, if he did not drink so much. The sign, would be, is put only once for the three subsequent verbs.

But in Otchipwe you must repeat the sign before every verb, and say: Da-ságia, da-minádenima, da-mino-dodawa gaie, osam minikwessig. You see how the sign, da-, is repeated before every verb to which it refers.

INFLECTION OF VERBS.

To the inflection of verbs belong voices, forms, moods, tenses, numbers and persons, and participles, We shall now consider each of these articles in particular, and state the peculiarities of the Otchipwe Grammar,

A. OF VOICES.

Voice in verbs shows the relation of the subject of the verb to the action, or state of being, expressed by it. We have two voices in the Otchipwe verbs; viz:

1. The Active Voice, so called because it shows the subject of the verb acting upon some object; as: Nind ashama bekaded, I feed the hungry. Ki kikinoamawag kinidjanissag, thou teachest thy children. O bibágiman ogin, he calls his mother.

2. The Passive Voice, so called because it shows the subject of the verb in a passive state, acted upon by some person or thing; as Ashama bekaded, the hungry person is fed. Kikinoamawawag kinidjanissag, thy children are taught. Wegimid bibagima, the mother is called.

B. OF FORMS.

There are two forms throughout all our Conjugations, the affirmative and the negative forms.

1. The Affirmative Form, which shows that some state of existence, or some action, is affirmed of the subject; as: Wawi-jendam, he is joyous. Nin wassitáwendam, I am sad. Kid adissoke, thou art telling stories. Gashkigwasso, she is sewing.

2. The Negative Form, which shows that some state of existence, or some action, of the subject of the verb, is denied; as: Kawin nin nibassi, I am not asleep. Kawin ki nibágwessi, thou art not thirsty. Kawin bigwakamigibidjigessiwag, they don't plough. Kawin kid agonwetossinoninim, I do not gainsay you. Ojibiigessigwa, if they do not write. Anokissig, if he does not work.

REMARK. It must be observed, as a peculiarity of the Otchipwe Grammar, that throughout all the Conjugations the negative form must be distinctly developed, fully displayed, because it is so peculiar, difficult, and varying, that no general rules can be abstracted for the formation of it. It must be exactly pointed out in every Conjugation, and in every part of it.

The negation is effected by placing before the pronoun and verb the adverbs ka or kawin, no, not; or kego, do not, don't. And it is also expressed in the verb itself. In many cases this latter kind of negation only is employed, and the above negation adverbs are not used.

C. OF MOODS.

Mood in verbs is the manner of indicating the state of exist-ence, of action, or passion, in subjects. The Otchipwe verbs have four moods; viz:

1. The Indicative, which simply affirms or denies something, or asks a question; as: Pijikiwag odabiwag, the oxen are drawing, hauling. Gagwédibenima, he is tempted. Kawin maminádisissi, he is not proud. Kawin awiia nin miskamássi, I don't insult anybody. Ki nishkénima na awiia? Hast thou angry thoughts against anybody? Kawin na ta-ijassiwag? Will they not go?

2. The Subjunctive, or Conjunctive, which represents some-thing under a doubt, wish, condition, supposition, etc. Verbs in this mood are preceded by some conjunction, tchi, kishpin, missawa, etc.; and they are preceded or followed by another verb not in the subjunctive; as: Nin minwendam, missawa kitimagisiiàn, I am happy, although poor. (Kitimagisiiàn is in the subjunctive mood.) Ki windamon iw, tchi kikendaman, I tell thee this, that thou mayst know it. (Kikendaman, subjunctive.) Wabamad kishime, ki gadina tchi bi-ijad oma; if thou seest thy brother, thou wilt tell him to come here. (Wabamad, that is, kishpin wabamad, if thou see him; kishpin is understood.)

3. The Conditional, which implies liberty, or possibility of a state or action, under a certain condition, expressed in another verb in the subjunctive, preceding or following the verb in the conditional; as: Wissinissiwàn nin da-bakade, if I did not eat, I would be hungry. (Nin da-bakade, is in the conditional mood.) Kishpin kibákwaigasossig, da-biija; if he were not in prison, he would come. (Da-bi-ija, is in the conditional.)

REMARK. The English potential mood is expressed in Otchipwe by the adverb gonima, or kema, perhaps; which is placed before the verb that is in the potential in English, but in Otchipwe it remains in the indicative; as: It may rain, gonimá to-gimiwan. He may preach or sing, kéina ta-gagikwe, kéma gaie ta-nagamo. But when the English potential implies condition, (which is only understood,) in Otchipwe the conditional is employed; as I would go, (if. . .) nin da-ija, (kishpin . . .) You should obey your father, ki da-babamitawawa kossiwa. . . (if you wish to do your duty . . .)

4. The Imperative, which is used for commanding, exhorting, praying, permitting or prohibiting; as: Dodan iw, do that. Ojiton ow, make this. Enamiangin bimadisiiog, live like Christians. Debémimiiang, bonigidetawishinam ga-iji-bata-diiàng; Lord forgive us our sins. Mádjan, go. Kégo madjaken, don't go.

REMARK. There is, properly speaking, no Infinitive Mood in the Otchipwe language, What some believe to be the Infinitive, as: Ikitom, tchi ikitong, tchi inendaming, etc., is not that mood; it is the indefinitive third person singular; which may be given in English with the indefinite pronoun one. Better yet it is expressed in French and German. F. i. Ikitom, signifies in French, "on dit," and in German, "man sagt." In English we may say, "one says," or "they say;" but this is not so expressive as, ikitom, or on dit, or man sagt, In the paradigms of the Conjugations we will express this person, at least in some tenses, in French, for such as understand this language.

D. OF TENSES,

Tenses in verbs are those modifications of the verb, by which a distinction of time is marked. There are naturally only three times; viz: the present , the perfect, and the future time. But to express more exactly the circumstances of time in events, actions, or states of existence, three other distinctions of time have been adopted. This makes six tenses we have in Gram-mars, viz:

1.The Present, which indicates what is actually existing or not existing, going on, or not going on; as: Bejigo Kije-Manito, kawin nississiwag; there is one God, there are not three. Nind ojibiige, kawin nin babamossessi; I am writing, not walking about.

2.The Imperfect, which represents a state, action, or event, as past, or as continuing at a time now past; as Nind inendánaban tchi ijaiàn gaie nin; I thought to go myself too. Wissiniban api pandigeiang; he was eating when we came it. Nimisse ákosiban ba-mádjaian; my sister was sick, when I started to come here.

3.The Perfect, which represents events, actions or states, as completely finished and past; as: Ninoshe; my aunt is dead. O gi-nissan o pijikiman; he has killed his ox.

4.The Pluperfect, which signifies that an action or event was over, when or before another began, which is also past; as: Nin gi-ishkwa- ojibiigenaban, bwa madwessing kitotagan; I had done writing, before the bell rang. Ki gi-gijitonaban na apáb-win, api pándigewad? Hadst thou finished the bench when they came in?

5.The Future, which represents actions or events, definitely or indefinitely, as yet to come; as: Wabang nin ga-bi-ija minawa; to-morrow I will come again, (definitely.) Nágatch nin minawa; by and by I will come again, (indefinitely.)

6.The Second Future, which indicates that an action or event will be over, when or before another action or event likewise future shall come to pass; as: Kakina ge gi-bimadisidjig aking ta-bitchibawag, tchi bwa dibakoniding; all that shall have lived on earth, will rise again before the general judgment.

E. OF NUMBERS AND PERSONS.

The Numbers are two in every tense and mood, the singular and the plural. And each number has three Persons, the first, the second, and the third.

The subjects of verbs are ordinarily nouns or pronouns. The pronouns that are employed to serve as subjects to verbs, are the two personal pronouns, nin, I, me, we; and ki, thou, thee, we, you, us. These two pronouns serve for both sexes and both numbers; nin for the first persons, and ki for the second.—The third persons have no personal pronouns in the immediate connection with verbs. In some Conjugations, indeed, the third persons are preceded by an o; but this o does not signify he, she, it, or they; it signifies him, her, it, or them, the object of the verb. F. i. O wabaman, he sees him, (her, them.) O wabandan, he sees it. O wabandanan, he sees them. This o is also a possessive pronoun signifying his, her, its, their, as we have seen in the preceding Chapter.

F. OF PARTICIPLES.

A Participle is a part or form of the verb, resembling, at the same time, an adjective, and occasionally also a substantive, and has his name from his participating of the qualities of the verb, the adjective, and the substantive.

The Otchipwe participles have two forms, all the six tenses, the three persons, and both numbers, singular and plural.

The two forms of the participles are:

1. The Affirmative Form; as: Gágitod, speaking, or he that is speaking. Dégwishing, he that arrives, arriving. Sénagak, what is difficult. Wénijishing, what is fair, good, (being fair.)

2. The Negative Form; as: Gágitossig, he that is not speaking. Dégwishinsig, he that arrives not, not arriving. Sénagassinok, what is not difficult; not being difficult. Wenijishinsinog, not being fair, good.

The six tenses of the participles are the same as stated above; viz: The present, the imperfect, the perfect, the pluperfect, the future and the second future; as: Gagitoiàn, I who am speaking. Gagitoiamban, thou who wast speaking. Gágigitod, he who has been speaking. Gágigitoiàngiban, we who had been speaking. Gégigitoieg, you who will be speaking. Gé-gi-gigitowad, they that will have been speaking.

Towards the end of the paradigm of the I. Conjugation you will find an important REMARK on the Otchipwe participles, which you will please mind well.

OF THE DUBITATIVE.

The Dubitative or Traditional is used when persons are spoken of, whom the speaker never saw, or who are absent; or other objects, that he never saw nor experienced himself; or speaking of events which happened not before the eyes or ears of the person speaking, or shall come to pass in future; as: Mi ga-ikitogwen aw akiwesi bwa nibod, so said that old man before he died. Anindi aiad kissaie? Moniang aiádog. Where is thy brother?— He is in Montreal; (or, I think he is in Montreal, but I am not certain.) Ki kikendan na ga-ijiwebadogwen endaieg awass bibonong? Dost thou know what happened in your house the winter before last?

they much mistrust each other; and consequently, when something is related or narrated to an Indian by his fellow-Indians, (or other men;) he will in-deed remember the narration, but with the idea in his mind of possibly being imposed upon. This he will manifest by the man-ner in which he will repeat the narration. He will speak in the Dubitative, and give the hearer to understand that the narration may not be true in all its parts.

This mood of speaking being now in their language, they will even apply it, (without any evil intention,) to the relating of Scriptural facts, or to Eternal truths. They will, for instance, say of a small child, (speaking of Christian Indians,) that died after baptism in angelic innocence: "Aw abinodji mino aiádog gijigong; which properly says: "I think that child is well in heaven, but I am not certain. Or; "I suppose that child is happy in heaven." This is the proper meaning of that Dubitative. They firmly believe that the child is in heaven and happy; but this manner of speaking being in their language, they will employ it occasionally, even in speaking of certain events and truths, but which did not happen before their eyes. So also I heard a good, faithful, Christian Indian, who firmly believes in the Omnipresence and Omniscience of God Al-mighty, say thus, using his Dubitative: "Mi gaie nongom nondawigwen Kije-Manito ekitoiàn"; which, if taken strictly, means: "I suppose, God hears me also now what I say."—This, however, ought not to be so. Speaking of certain facts and truths, we ought to speak in an assuring manner, although those facts did not come to pass before our eyes and ears. This is the reason why Missionaries especially ought to avoid the Dubitative as much as possible in relating Scriptural facts, or speaking of Eternal truths, or such future events and states of things, as we know by the Word of God. We can speak of all that very correctly and intelligibly, without employing the Dubitative.

Speaking of common uncertain events or objects, or of com-mon persons absent, or of times past, we may employ it with propriety. For this reason it is also called Traditional. It is also employed with the indefinite pronoun awegwen, whoever, or whosoever; as: Awegwen ged-ikitogwen . . . Whoever shall say . . . Awegwen ged-ijagwen . . Whosoever shall go . . .

But what shall we call this Dubitative or Traditional? We cannot call it a mood; it has moods itself, the indicative and subjunctive at least. We cannot call it a form either, because it has itself two forms, the affirmative and the negative. We can-not even call it a voice, as we find in it two voices, the active and the passive. I think the most appropriate name for it would be: Dubitative Conjugation.

The dubitative Conjugations have not all the tenses and moods of the common Conjugations. We shall exhibit in the paradigms of the dubitative Conjugations those tenses that are commonly used in them.

NOTE. When we observe the Indians in their speaking, we see that they have three manners of expressing themselves, when they speak of uncertain, or unseen and unexperienced events or persons.

1. They use the Dubitative, as established in the Dubitative Conjunction of this Grammar. F. i. Abidog, he is perhaps in; gonima gi-madjadogenag, they are perhaps gone away.

2. They use not the Dubitative, but they employ adverbs denoting uncertainty; as, gonima, ganabatch, makija, which all signify perhaps. F. i. Gonima abi, he is perhaps in; ganabatch gi-madjawag, they are perhaps gone away.

3. They use the Dubitative and these adverbs of uncertainty together. F. i. Gonima abidog, he is perhaps in; gonima gi-mad-jadogenag, they are perhaps gone away.

They have also, for the expression of such phrases, the words kiwe and madwí-, which signify, they say, or, it is said. F. i. Gi-nibo kiwe; or, gi-madwé-nibo, they say he is dead; Gi-dagwishinog kiwe, or, gi-madwé-dagwishinog, it is said that they have come.

CONJUGATION OF VERBS.

The Conjugation of a verb is a written or recited display of its different voices, forms, moods, tenses, numbers and persons, and participles. To accommodate and arrange with ease all the different kinds of verbs of this "language of verbs," we must assume no less than nine Conjugations.

REMARK. I must, however, make here a similar remark, as I did in the preceding Chapter, p. 53. I will lay here in the follow-ing Conjugations, where all kinds of the Otchipwe verbs are conjugated at large through all their voices, forms, moods, tenses, numbers and persons, and participles, I will lay, I say, a full and complete display of them before the eyes of the learner; because I think that by this method a thorough knowledge of the use of the Otchipwe verbs may be easier conveyed to his mind and memory, than by any other plan I could think of. But I say again here, as I said in the above cited remark, that this detailed display of verbs is principally intended to assist the beginner, and to show him at once the whole verb in all its inflections. But learners who are more advanced in the study of this language, may abridge the Conjugations, and contract several in one; My principal intention in writing this Grammar is to assist be-gin-ning learners, especially Missionaries, in the acquirement of this so peculiar language. Have they once ascended some de-grees of knowledge in this study, they will then go on easily, without my guidance.

The characteristical mark by which verbs are known, to which Conjugation they belong, is the third person singular, present, indicative, affirmative form. Besides this person, the quality of the verb must be considered. At the commencement of every Conjugation it will be said, which verbs belong to it.

The following table shows the nine different Conjugations, and the verbs belonging to each of them.

CONJUGATION TABLE.

Conj.	Quality of verbs.	Termination. n. of the 3rd. person.
I. Conj.	Intransitive (or neuter) verbs, ending in a vowel at the 3rd. person sing. pres. indic., the reproaching and substant. verbs; likewise the recip-rocal and communicative, although transitive.....	a, e, i, o.
II. Conj.	Intransitive verbs, ending in am at the 3rd. pers. sing. pres. indic, (and likewise so at the first person,)	am.
III. Conj.	Intransitive verbs, ending in in or on at the 3rd. pers. sing. pres. indic., (and likewise so at the first person,	on.
IV. Conj.	Transitive (or active) verbs, animate, ending in an at the 3rd. person sing. pres. indic.; (at the first person in a .)	an.
V. Conj.	Transitive verbs, animate, ending in nan at the 3rd. pers. sing. pres. indic.,

(and likewise so at the first person.).....
nan.

VI. Conj. Transitive verbs, inanimate; and the personifying,.....an, en, in, on.

VII. Conj. Unipersonal verbs, ending in a vowel.....a, e, i, o.

VIII. Conj. Unipersonal verbs, ending in ad.....ad.

IX. Conj. Unipersonal verbs, ending in an or in.....an, in.

REMARK. The order of these Conjugations may appear singular. It is so indeed; the intransitive verbs precede the transitive. But this plan and order again I have adopted to accommodate the beginning learner. The Conjugations of the transitive verbs are much more difficult and complicated than those of the intransitive. These are simple and easy; and may be considered as the first steps in the scale of the Otchipwe Conjugations, by which the learner will easily ascend to the more difficult ones. But if he had to commence with the Conjugations of transitive verbs, he would begin with the most difficult and embarrassing of all these Conjugations, with the fourth in the above table; and might possibly be frightened and discouraged.

I. CONJUGATION.

To this Conjugation belong the intransitive or neuter verbs that end in a vowel at the third person singular, present, indicative. There are also other verbs ending at the third person in a vowel, but they belong to the VII. Conjugation, being unipersonal verbs.

This vowel in which ends the third person above mentioned, and which is the characteristically mark of the intransitive verbs belonging to the I. Conjugation, may be a, e, i, or o. F.i.

INTRANSITIVE VERBS.

THIRD PERSON.

Nin mádja, I depart, I start,.....madja,

Nin mijagá, I arrive (in a canoe, etc.)...

mijaga,

Nin jawendjige, I practice charity,

.....jawéndjige,

Nind ijitchige, I do, I act,.....
ijitchige,
Nin bos, I embark,.....bósi,
Nind ab, I am (somewhere,).....abi,
Nin gígít, I speak,.....gígíto, Nin mindid, I am big,.....
mindido.

To this Conjugation also belong the reciprocal verbs, because they all end in o at the third person singular, present indicative; as: Nin kikenindis, I know myself; kikenindiso. Nin gagwedjin-dis, I ask myself; gagwédjindiso. Nin pakitéodis, I strike myself; pakitéodiso. The reciprocal verbs are in some respect transitive, because they express a reaction of the subject on itself. Still they don't belong to the transitive Conjugations, because the action of the subject does not go over upon another subject, but redounds on the same that is acting.

Likewise do all the communicative verbs belong to this I. Conjugation, although they are of a real transitive signification. They are used only in the plural, where they conjugate exactly like intransitive verbs, not bearing any marks of transition in their construction; as: Nin widókodadimin, we help each other; ki widokodadim, widokodadiwag. Ki pakitéodimin, we strike each other; ki pakitéodim, pakitéodiwag. Nin wábandimin, we see each other; ki wábandim, wabandiwag.

The reproaching verbs and the substantive verbs are intransitive, and all end in i at the third person above mentioned, and of course belong to this Conjugation; as: Nin minikweshk, I am in the habit of drinking; minikweshki. Nin bapishk, I am in the habit of laughing; bapishki. Nin mitigow, I am wood; mitigowi. Nind assiniw, I am stone; assiniwi.

REMARK 1. In the paradigms or patterns of the Conjugations, the terminations of all the moods and tenses are printed in Roman the better to show the inflection of the verb.

REMARK 2. In regard to the difference between nin and ki, we, see Rem. 3. page 45. And in regard to the euphonical d, see Rem. 1. page 43. These remarks must be well borne in mind, as they will be of use throughout the Conjugations.

REMARK 3. Remember well, dear reader, that in the patterns or paradigms of these Conjugations, we don't express both first persons plural, nin and ki, (or nind, kid,) we; we put only one, nin, (or nind;) the other one, ki, (or kid,) is understood. This will save many a line in this book. But remember well, that in all the forms, in all the moods and tenses of all these Conjugations, where there are first persons plural, both can be used, according to the above remarks. So, for instance, instead of saying in the paradigm:

Nind ikit, I say, etc. .
kid ikit,
ikito,
nind ikitomin, we say,
kid ikitomin, we say,
kid ikitom,
ikitowag;

we will say thus:

Nind ikit,
kid ikit,
ikito,
nind ikitomin, we say,
kid okitom,
ikitowag.

And you will have to supply yourself the second first person plural, which is ordinarily the same in the verb, the pronoun only is different. But where the verb itself differs in the two persons plural, there we express them both; as in the subjunctive mood, in participles, etc.

REMARK 4. In the paradigms of these Conjugations, we express the English verb only at the first person singular in every tense, and the others will again be supplied by you; because we don't teach here to conjugate in English, but in Otchipwe.

REMARK 5. The characteristical third person of the verbs belonging to this Conjugation, may end in any of the four vowels, in a, e, i, or o; and the end vowel of this third person remains throughout the whole Conjugation. To this character-istical vowel the terminations are attached; but the vowel itself does not belong to the terminations, which are always the same for all the verbs of this Conjugation; whereas the characteris-tical vowel is different in different verbs. In the following four verbs the end vowel of the third person is different in each of them; but the terminations are always the same.

Gaba, he debarks, nin gabamin, ki gabam, gabawag. Gagikinge, he exhorts, nin gagikingemin, ki gagikingem, gagi-kingewag.

Nimi, he dances, nin nimim, nimiwag.

Nibó, he is dying, nin nibomin, ki nibom, nibowag.

Here follows now the paradigm of the I. Conjugation, fully displayed. Endeavor especially to commit to memory the term-inations. If you know the terminations, and know the characteristical vowel of the third person singular, present, indicative you will easily conjugate every verb of this Conjugation. This characteristical third person is sometimes difficult to know. For this reason I took a particular care in the Dictionary to express it at every verb.

† NOTE. This pluperfect, and the imperfect tense, are not so sharply dis-tinguished in Otchipwe, as they are in English, or in other civilized languages. In Otchipwe they are used promiscuously. So, for instance, to express, "He said," the Indian will say: Ikitoban, or gi-itoban, etc. This note applies also to other Conjugations.

REMARK. The following Otchipwe participles cannot be given in English, throughout all the tenses and persons, in the shape of participles. There are no such participles in the English language. They must be expressed by the use of relative pronouns. Only the participle of the present tense, in the third person singular, could be expressed by a corresponding English participle; as: Ekitod, saying; baiápid, laughing, etc.

The Latin participles of the verbs called, verba deponentia, can answer three tenses of the Otchipwe participles, the present, the perfect, and the future; and not only the third person, but, by the use of personal pronouns, all persons and numbers. Let us take the verb, nin gagíkinge, I exhort, for an example, to illustrate the matter. It is deponens in Latin, exhortor.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Nin ge-gi-ikitoiàn, I who shall

Etc., as above in the FIRST FUTURE,

REMARK 1. The conjunctions, kishpin, if; missawa, though; tchi, that, to, in order to, and others, are often placed before the verbs in the subjunctive mood, to express a condition, supposition, wish, etc. But they do not necessarily belong to this mood. This is the reason why they are not always laid down in the Conjugations. If you say: Kishpin gego ikitoiàn; or only, gego ikitoiàn; both expressions have the same signification: If I say something.

REMARK 2. There is no imperfect tense in the subjunctive mood. The pluperfect has the grammatical appearance of the imperfect, but it is its own construction.

REMARK 3. This pluperfect tense is sometimes preceded by the particle gi-, forming: Gi-ikitoiámban, gi-ikitóiamban, etc. But this particle does not change its signification at all. If you say, Kishpin gi-ikitoiàmban iw, ki da-windamon; if I had said that, I would tell thee; or, Kishpin ikitoiàmban iw, ki da-windamon; it is all the same.

FUTURE TENSE.

ninawind ged-ikitossiàn, we who shall not say, kinawind ged-ikitossiwan, we who shall not say, kinawa ged-ikitossiweg,

winawa ged-ikitossigog.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Nin ge-gi-ikitossiàn, I who shall not have said, kin ge-gi-ikitossiwan.

always prefixing ge-gi- to the verb.

REMARK 4. The imperative in the second person singular is expressed in two manners, ikiton and ikitókan. The second manner, ikitókan, seems to be a kind of polite imperative, which is expressed in English by preposing the word please to the simple imperative, as: Bi- ijákan oma wabang, please come here tomorrow. (In the plural ikitokeg.)

REMARK 5. The participles can have personal pronouns before them, and have them often, as: Nin ekitoiàn, kin ekitoian, win ekitod, etc. But they could also do without them. For the better accommodation of the beginner the pronouns are expressed in the paradigms of our Conjugations.

REMARK 6. It is necessary to observe here, that the first persons of the plural, ending in iàng or àng, with the grave accent, are employed in the cases where nin, (nind), or nina-wind, is expressed or understood, according to the rules and remarks mentioned above, page 45. But in the cases where ki, (kid), or kinawind, is expressed or understood, the termination iang or ang has no accent; it is pronounced very short, and almost as ieng or eng. It is necessary to pay attention to this difference of pronunciation, because it changes the meaning of the sentence. If you say, for instance: Mi wabang tchi bósiiang; it means that to-morrow we will all embark; the person or persons waking, and the person or persons spoken to. But if you say: Mi wabang tchi bosiiang, (with the accent on the last syllable,) it means that only the persons speaking will embark to-morrow, not the person or persona spoken to. So also, F. i.

Endaiàng, in our house or dwelling, (the person or persons spoken to, excluded.)

Endáiang, in our house or dwelling, (the person or persons spoken. to, included.)

REMARK 7. Likewise in the first and second persons of the singular, ending in iàn or àn, and ian or an, nothing but the accent distinguishes the first person from the second. The termination of the first person, iàn or àn, is pronounced long; whereas that, of the second person, ian or an, is very short. Let the following example be pronounced to you by some person that speaks the Otchipwe language correctly, and try to get the right idea of this difference, in writing and pronouncing.

Ekitoiàn ta-ijiwebad; it will be (or happen) as I say.

Ekitoian ta-ijiwebad; it will, be (or happen) as thou sayest.

Apegish enendamàn ijiwebisiiàn; I wish to behave as I please. Apegish enendaman ijiwebisiiàn; I wish to behave as thou pleasest.

Apegish enendamàn ijiwebisiiian; I wish thou wouldst behave as I please.

Apegish enendaman ijiwebisiiian; I wish thou wouldst have as thou pleasest.

If you look on the four last sentences, they would appear if without accents, perfectly equal all of them. And nothing but the accent in writing, and the emphasis in pronouncing, effects the difference, which you will find material, if you consider the English sentences, REMARK 8. In regard to the syllable ban, which you will see attached to verbs in some tenses, in all our Conjugations, it must be observed, that sometimes it is necessary, and must remain with the verb to which it is attached. But sometimes it can be omitted without the least change of the meaning or sense of the verb to which it is attached, or the sentence in which the verb occurs. I have observed the Indians purposely on this point, and have noticed it a great many times, that they use or omit this syllable as they please, without any intention to effect a change of meaning by using, or by omitting it. Let us now see when it is necessary, and when it can be omitted.

1. It is necessary in the imperfect and pluperfect tenses of the indicative mood, and the participles, and in the pluperfect tense of the subjunctive and conditional moods. In all these cases the final syllable ban must remain attached to the verb; as you will see in all the Conjugations of this Grammar.

2. But it can be omitted in the present tense of the subjunctive mood, and consequently in all the tenses which are formed after the present tense, as you will see again in all our Conjugations. In these tenses the Indians sometimes attach the syllable ban to the verb, and sometimes they do not, which makes no difference in the meaning of the verb.

EXAMPLES.

Kawin nin gashkitossimin tchi bisan-abiiangidwa (or, abii-an-gidwaban) ninidjanissinanig. We cannot make our children be still.

Kawin nin da-gashkitossin weweni tchi dibadodamamban, or, tchi dibadódamàn. I am not able to tell it exactly.

Mi ge-dódamamban, or, ge-dódaman.—Mi ge-onijishingiban, or, ge-onijishing. It is thus thou shouldst do it.—That would be good, (fair, useful.)

Kawin nind inendansimin tchi ijaiàngiban nongom, or, tchi ijaiàng. We are not willing (or, we don't intend) to go now, (or, to-day.)

Nin da-gi-ina. Mi sa iw ge-gi-inagiban, or, ge-gi-inag. I would have told him. That is what I would have told him.

Respecting the annexation of the syllable ban, you have to observe that the final letter n of the verb to which ban is to be attached, is changed into m; which is always the case, where these two letters come together in compositions.

When the final letter of the verb is g, a vowel is inserted between this g and the syllable ban. This vowel is ordinarily i, as you see in the above examples; but in some instances the vowel o is inserted; as you will see in the Conjugations, in some moods and tenses, where the including first person plural (kina-wind) ends in goban.

When the final letter of the verb to which the syllable ban is to be attached, is d, this letter is taken off, and the syllable pan, instead of ban, is added.

EXAMPLES.

Kawin nongom o da-gashkitossin tchi ijad, or, tchi ijapan. He would not be able to go to-day.

Kawin gi-inendansi tchi gi-ganojid, or, tchi gi-ganojipan. He was not willing to speak to me.

Kawin gi-inendansiwag tchi gi-ganojiwad, or, tchi gi-ga-noji-wa-pan. They were not willing to speak to me.

Anawi o da-gi-gashkitonawa tchi gi-ojimowad, or, tchi gi-oji-mowapan. They could have fled away.

Kawin awiia aiassi ge-nishkiid, or, ge-nishkiipan. There is nobody to make me angry.

NOTE. Gi-ikitoiàn, means indeed, "as I have said," or, "because I have said;" F. i. Gi-ikitoiàn: "Nin gad-ija," mi ge-ondji-ijaiàn; because I have said: "I shall go," therefore I will go.—But at the same time it means, "when I shall have said," or, "as soon as I shall have said." F. i.

Gi-ikitoiàn wenijishing gego, nin ga-madja; when I shall have said something useful, I will go.

Gi- dagwishinang, ki ga-windamoninim gego; when (or, as soon as) we shall have arrived, I will tell you something.

Panima gi-nanagatawendamàn nin ga-gigit; afterwards, when I shall have reflected, I will speak.

Gi-gijitod, o ga- bidon oma; when (as soon as) he shall have made it, he will bring it here.

Remark that in all these cases a future time is signified, at which some action or event shall take place, although the first verb has the full appearance of the perfect tense. (This appearance of the perfect could be given also to the English verb; we could say: As soon as he has made it, he will bring it here." Even of the present: As soon as he makes it, he will bring it here.")

But when actions or events are signified, which have just past, the same verb in the CHANGE is employed, (which is the 3rd. Rule of the CHANGE, p. 136.) To illustrate the matter, let us take the same examples as above, applying them to events just past.

Ga-ikitoiàn wenijishing gego, nin gi-madja; when I had said (as soon as I had said) something useful, I went away.

Ga-dagwishinang, ki gi-windamoninim iw; when we had arrived, I told you that.

Panima ga-nanagatawendamàn, nin gi-gigit; afterwards, when I had reflected, I spoke.

Ga- gijitod, o gi-bidon oma; when (as soon as) he had made it, he brought it here.

Please remember well this Note; it is to be applied to almost all our Conjugations.

EXAMPLES ON THE I. CONJUGATION.*

INDICATIVE MOOD.

of heaven!

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Ge-gi-mino-ijiwebisid aking. ta-jawendagosi ajidabimadisi-wining; he who shall have behaved well on earth, will be happy in the other life.

Aw ge-gi-ishpenindisossig aking, ta-apitchiapitendagosi giji-gong; he who shall not have exalted himself on earth, shall be glorious in heaven.

THE CHANGE.

It is time now to speak of that famous CHANGE of the first vowel in verbs, which will occupy us in all our Conjugations, and which embarrasses much the beginning learner of this language. I have already mentioned it in the preceding chapter, page 82. But here I will give you a full explanation of it. We will call this grammatical operation with one word, the CHANGE.

Dear reader, I know you will not be able to understand well this instruction on the CHANGE, at first, before the study of this whole chapter. But I must give this instruction here; this is its due place. When you return to it, after the perusal of this Gram-mar, a second and a third time, you will understand it better.

In many instances the first vowel in verbs is changed in another, or in two or three others. The following table will show you, how this CHANGE is effected.

á. (accented) is changed into aiá; as: Akosi, he is sick; aiako-sid, a sick person; o ságian, he loves him; saiágiad, whom he loves: wabi, he sees; waiabid, who sees, seeing.

a. (without accent) is changed into é; as: Abí, he is; ébid, he that is, being; aiá, he is; eiad, who is, being; namádabi, he sits; némadabid, who is sitting.

é. (always accented) is changed into aié; as: Béjigo, he is one; baiéjigod, he who is only one; débwe, he tells the truth; daiéb-wed, who tells the truth; débisi, he is contented; daiébisid, a contented person.

í. (accented) is changed into á; as: Nibawi, he stands; nába-wid, who is standing; ními, he dances; námid, who is dancing; gí-ija, he is gone; gí-ijad, he that is gone.

i. (without accent) is changed into é; as: Nibó, he dies; nébod, a dead person; he kills; néshiwed, who kills, murderer; nishka-disi, he is angry; néshkadisid, an angry person.

ó. (accented) is changed into wá; as: Nódin, it blows; nwádin-gin, when it blows; bósi, he embarks; bwásid, he that embarks; bódawe, he makes fire; bwádawed, he who makes fire.

o. (without accent) is changed into wé ; as: Oóssima , he is father; wéossimind, who is father, (father;) ogwíssima, he is son; wégwissimind, who is son, (son;) ogimáwi, he is chief; wégima-wid who is chief: (chief.)

REMARK 1. Some verbs beginning with a d, make the CHANGE by prefixing the syllable en; as;

Nin dá, I dwell, I stop; endaiàn, where I stop or dwell; endad, where he stops, or who stops, dwells, etc.

Nin danís, I am in a certain place; endanisid oma, he who is or lives here; mi ima endanisiian, I am there, etc.

Nin danakí, I reside, or am native of a certain place; Moningwa-nekaning endanakidjig, the natives or the permanent inhabitants of Lapointe.

Nin dódam, I do; mi endodaman, I do so; mi endódaman, thou dost so; mi endodang, he does so.

Nin dapiné, I die in a certain place; nibikang endapinedjig, those that die in the water; nopiming endapined, he that dies in the woods.

Nin danakámigis, I play somewhere; abinodjîiag endanakami-gisidjig, playing children; endanakámigisiianin, where I am playing.

Nin danákis, I burn somewhere; anamakamig endanakisodjig, those that burn in hell-fire.

Nin dan, I have property endanidjig kawin bakadessiwag, those that are rich don't starve; kinawa endaniieg, you who are rich.

Nin danwéwidam, I talk; mojag endanwewidangig, those that talk always; endanwewidaman, thou who talkest.

Nin dajíkan, I am occupied in making something, or occupied with something; wegonen endajikaman? What art thou making?

Kind reader, I can give you no rule at all, by which you could know the verbs beginning with a d, that make the CHANGE in the above manner.

There are many, beginning likewise with a d, that make the CHANGE regularly, according to the above table; as;

Nin dagwishin, I arrive; dégwishing, he that arrives dassing dégwishinanin oma ki wabamin, every time I arrive here I see thee.

Nin dibádjim, I tell; débádjimodjig, those that tell; kawin nin debwetawassi aw anotch gego débádjimod; I don't believe him who tells so many different things.

Nin dibakoniwe, I judge; débakoniwed, a judge; dassing debakoniwéian, inmikwenim Debendjiged, as often as thou judgest, remember the Lord.

Nin dajingé, I calumniate; déjingedjig, those that calumniate, calumniators; déjingeian, thou who calumniates.

Nin dibénima, I am his, (her, its,) master, or proprietor: débénimad iniw oshkinawen, the master of this young man. Débénimag, whose master I am.

Nin dibaaki, I am surveying lands; débaakidjig, surveyors; débaakiianin nopiming nin babamosse, when I am surveying, I walk through the woods; débaakiieg, ye surveyors..

Nin dibaige, I measure, I pay; gwaiak débaigedjig, those whose measure is just; débaigeianin, when I am measuring, or paying.

Nin débweiendam, I believe; daiébweiendang, who believes, a believer; ki jawendagos, daiebweiendaman, thou art happy, believer; daiebweiendangin, when he believes.

Nin débissin, I ate enough; daiébissinid, a person that has eaten enough; daiébissinianin migwetch inenim Debendjiged, when thou hast eaten sufficiently, thank the Lord.

Nin débwe. I tell the truth; kaginig daiébwed, who always speaks the truth; daiébwessig jingendagosi, who does not tell the truth is hated; daiébwéiangon, when we are telling the truth.

As there is no rule which could point out the verbs beginning with a d, that belong to the first class, or to this second class, you will have to learn them by usage, and by the Dictionary.

REMARK 2. In the perfect, pluperfect and future tenses the CHANGE is not made in the verb itself, but in the particles or signs that precede the verb. These particles or prefixes are: gi-, ga-, gad-. Gi-, is changed into ga-; ga- into ge-; gad- into ged-. F. i.

Gi-gígito, he has spoken; mi aw ga-gigitod, this is the one that has spoken.

Gi-sígaandaso, he has been baptized; ga-sígaandasodjig, those that have been baptized.

Nin ga-dódam, I will do; wegonen ge-dodaman? what shall I do?

Ki ga-nóndam, thou wilt hear; ki kikendan na ge-nondaman?

dost thou know what thou shalt hear?

Nin gad-anikanotaage, I will interpret; awénen ged-anikanóta-wad? whom wilt thou interpret?

Nin gad-ija, I will go; anindi ged-ijaian? where wilt thou go?

REMARK 3. There are two other particles or signs, bi-, and wi-, which use to precede verbs; and the CHANGE is made in these signs; bi-, which indicates approaching or coming, is changed into ba-; and wi-, which ordinarily denotes intention, will, or wish, is changed into wa-. F. i.

Nin bi-ija, I come here; ba-ijaianin, when I come here; dassing ba-ijaiegon ki bidonawa gego, every time you come here, you bring something; ba-ijadjig, those that come here.

Nin bi-gagwédjima, I come here to ask him a question; ba-gag-wédjimag, he to whom I come to ask him a question; ba-gagwé-djimikig, those who come to ask thee a question.

Nin wi-madja, I intend to go away; mi igiw wa-madjadjig, those are the persons that want to depart; wa-madjabanig, those that intended to go; awénen wa-madjad who wants to go?

Nin wi-kikendan, I want or wish to know; wa-kikendang gagwedwe, he who wants to know, asks; wa-kikendamanin gego, when I wish to know something.

REMARK 4. When two of these signs precede the verb, the CHANGE is made in the first one. F. i.

Nin gi-bi-bimishká, I came here (I have come here) in a canoe; ga-bi-bimishkad, he who came here in a canoe; ga-bi-bimish-kadjig, those who came here in a canoe, boat, etc.

Nin gi-bi-bimosse, I came here (I am come here) on foot ga-bi-bimossedjig, those that came here on foot; nin gabi-imosseian, I who came here on foot.

Nin ga-wi-ija, I will go; awénen ge-wi-ijad? who will go? ge-wi-ijadjig, those that will go.

Nin ga-wi-dibadjimotawa, I will tell him; mi aw ge-wi-dibad-jimotawad, this one will tell him; nin ge-wi-dibadjimotawag, I who will tell him.

REMARK 5. Verbs that are preceded by certain particles or prefixes, by prepositions, adverbs, or adjectives, make the CHANGE in the first vowel of these words. When more than one of such words precede the verb, and relate immediately to it, the CHANGE is made in the first vowel of the first of them; and in writing we attach them with hyphens to the verb, beginning from the CHANGE. F. i.

Gego nind ondjiikit iw, I say that for some reason; wegonen wéndji-ikitoian iw? why dost thou say that?

Nin mino bimadis, I live well; méno-bimadisid, who lives well. Kitchi mino ijiwebisi aw inini, he is a very good man; aw kétchi-mino-ijiwebisid inini that very good man. Nind apitchi mino aia, I am very well; aiápitchi-mino-aiadjig, those that are very well.

Apitchi kitchi akosi, he is extremely sick;

aiápitchi-kitchi-akosid, a person extremely sick.

PROGRESSIVE SCALE OF CHANGE.

Aiá, he is;

aiad, he that is;

méno-aiad, he that is well;

kétchi-mino-aiad, he that is very well;

wa aiápitchi-kitchi-mino-aiad, he that is perfectly well; wa-apitchi-kitchi-mino-aiad, he that wishes to be perfectly well; ge-wi -apitchi-kitchi-minoaiad, he that intends to be perfectly well.

REMARK 6. In regard to the orthography of the above mentioned signs, viz:

	denoting the perfect or pluperfect tenses,
gi-; ga- ,
ga- , gad- ; ta-;	denoting the future tense,

etc. etc.

In regard, I say, to the orthography of these signs of prefixes, I wish to observe that I think it very proper and grammatical, to attach them with hyphens to their respective verbs, to which they are really incorporated, in the CHANGE as well as without it. You will perhaps say that in the English Conjugations we also have signs to express different significations and positions of the verb; as: have, shall, will, should, would, etc.; but we don't join them, in writing, to their verbs with hyphens.—Yes. that is true; but the analogy is not quite adequate. These English signs in Conjugations are at the same time words by themselves; whereas our Otchipwe signs are not words by them-selves, are never employed alone, but only used with verbs to give them the above mentioned significations. They must be considered as portions or parts of their verbs. This is the reason why some write them in one word with the verb; which I also did formerly myself. But considering the thing grammatically, I think it is better to let the verb appear by itself, and to join its sign by a hyphen to it.

For an illustration of the inadequateness of the above analogy, consider the following examples;

In English you say: I will go; and if asked: Will you go? your answer is "Yes, I will." Here you use only the sign will.

In Otchipwe you say: 'Nin gad-ija;' and if asked: Ki gad-ija na? your answer cannot be, "E, nin gad." You cannot use only the sign, gad; you must put the verb with it and say: "E, nin gad-ija."

In English again you say: "I have written five letters yesterday." And then affirming you will say: Certainly. I have."

In Otchipwe you say: "Nanan masinaiganan nin gi-ojibianan pitchinago." And then affirming you cannot say: "Geget nin gi." As soon as you pronounce gi, you must also express the verb, and say: Nin gi-ojibianan.

You see by these illustrations, that these Otchipwe signs are inseparably connected with their respective verbs: and that it is reasonable to join them to the verbs also in writing; but in a manner as not to disfigure the verb, and still to appear joined to it; which is effected by the use of hyphens.

And in grammatical consequence of this method of joining the signs to their verbs by hyphens, all the words between the sign and its verb, must come under the same rule. F. i. Nin bimadis, I live; nin ga-bimadis; nin ga-mino-bimadis; nin ga-kitchi-mino-bimadis; nin gad-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadis.—All these words between the sign and the verb, are in the immediate connection with the verb like one word with it and throughout all the move-ments and changes of the verb, they will remain in the same position to it, like a constellation. F. i.

Nin gi-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadis; ki gi-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadis; gi-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadisi;
etc.

Ta-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadisi;
ta-apitchi-kitchi-mino-bimadisiwag;

etc.

Kin ga-apitchi-kitchi-minobimadisiian; ga-apitchikitchi-mino-bimadisiid.

But where there is no such sign with a hyphen in the begin-ning, the adverbs or adjectives that precede the verb, will not be attached to it by hyphens; there is no grammatical reason for it; as: Nin mino bimadis; nin kitchi mino bimadis; nind apitchi kitchi mino bimadis.

We have now seen how the CHANGE is effected; let us here consider, when it is used.

RULE 1. It is used in all the participles of all the tenses, as you will see in all these Conjugations. F. i. Ekitod, who says; ga-inendang, who thought; nin ge- dagwishinàn, I who shall arrive; nin waiábamag, I who see him, etc.

RULE 2. It is employed in sentences which express periodical actions, events, or states of being. These sentences or expressions contain in English the words: each, every one, every time, when, whenever, as often as . . . F. i.

Anamiegijigad, it is Sunday, (VIII. Conjugation.)

Dassing enamiegijigakin, every Sunday, (as often as it is Sunday.) Enamiegijigakin, on Sundays.

Nin ganóna, I speak to him; gégonagin nin nakwetag, when I speak to him, he answers me; genonindwanin, when they are spoken to.

Nind ab, I am; ebiianin oma, bi-nasikawishikan, when I am here, come to me; dassing ébidjin wedi, minikwe, every time he is there, he drinks.

RULE 3. The CHANGE is likewise employed in sentences which express actions or events as just past, and contain in English the words, when, as soon as, etc. F. i.

Ga-madjad koss, gi-ikitowag iw; when thy father had gone away, (or, after he went away) they said that.

Ga-ishkwa-nagamowad anamie- nagamon, gi-madjawag; when they had sung a hymn, they went

Ga- sagaang nishime, pabige nin gi-mikan masinaigan; as soon as my brother had gone out, I found the book.

Panima ga-ishkwataieg kinawa, gi-madjita; when you had done, he began.

RULE 4. The CHANGE is employed after the interrogative adverbs anin? how? what? and aniniwapi? when? And after the interrogative pronouns awénen? awenenag? who? and wegonen what? Likewise after the adverb api, or mi api, when, at that time, then. F. i.

Anin eji-bimadisiiian? how dost thou do? (how lost thou live?) Anin ekitod koss? what says thy father?

Anin ejinikadeg ow? what they call this?

Aniniwapi ga-nibopan? when has he died?

Awénen ga-bi-pindiged? who came in?

Wegonen ged-ikitoian? what wilt thou say?

Api ge-naboiang, when we shall die.

After the interrogative adverb anindi? where? the CHANGE is made sometimes; but ordinarily it is not used. F. i. Anindi ijaian where art thou going? Anindi ateg? where is it? Anindi aiad Jesus nongom? where is now Jesus? The CHANGE is used after anindi?, when iw is expressed or understood F. i. Anindi ga-danisid Jesus bwa mashi gagikwed? where lived Jesus, before he began to preach? Iw is understood: Anindi iw ga-danisid? (where is that place where he lived?)

RULE 5. The CHANGE is used in sentences expressing compar-ison, and containing in English the conjunction as. F. i. Enéndaman nin gad-ijitchige, I will act as thou wilt. Enéndaman apegish ijiwebak, be it as thou wilt, (thy will be done.)

Weweni ijewebisin, swanganamiadjig
ejwebisiwad, live upright, as good Christians live.

Ekitoian mi ge-diian, be it done to me as thou sayest.

RULE 6. The CHANGE is used in sentences that express quality, and contain the adverbs minik, kakina, misi, all, all that, whatever; wegotogwen, whatsoever. F. i.

Minik ekitod Kije-Manito, debwewinagadini, all that God says is true.

Kakina minik eji-gagikimigoian, eji-wabandaman gaie ki masinaigan, kakina weweni ganawendan; whatever thou art taught in sermons, and all that thou readest in thy book, keep all well.

Wegotogwen ge- dodamogwen, ged-ikitogwen gaie; whatsoever he shall do and say.

Wegotogwen ge-nandotamawegwen Weossimind nind ijinikaso-wining, ki ga-minigowa; whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it to you.

RULE 7. The CHANGE is employed in some tenses of the sub-junctive mood in the Dubitative Conjugations; as you will see there. F. i. Ekitowanen, if I say perhaps. Ekitogwen, if he perhaps says.

Kishpin gwaiak ga-anamiassiwanen, if I have perhaps not well prayed.

RULE 8. Ordinarily, (not always,) the CHANGE is employed after mi. F. i.

Mi enendaman, mi ekitoan; so I think, so I say.

Mi ejiwebak oma aking, so it is here on earth.

Mi sa ga-ikitod, mi dash ga-iji-madjad; so he said, and went away.

Mi na eji-kikinoamagoian? art thou taught so? Mi gi-ishkwatang, madjada; all is over, let us go.

Mi gi-débissiniian; migwetch gi-ashamiian; I have eaten enough; I thank thee that thou gavest me to eat.

Mi na madjaian? art thou going?

(In the three last examples there is no CHANGE after mi.)

RULE 9. The CHANGE is always employed in sentences which contain in English a relative pronoun. (Examples you will find on page 83.)

This RULE 9., is to be considered as coincident with RULE 1. because relative pronouns in English sentences are always expressed in Otchipwe by participles.

Let us now consider the verb of our paradigm of the I. Conjugation, in the cases of the CHANGE,

The participles are displayed in the paradigm.
 In the sentences expressing periodical actions, events, or states of being, the verbs of the I. Conj. are formed thus:

AFFIRMATIVE FORM.

PRESENT TENSE.

Ekitossiànin, when I say, or, whenever I say, ekitóiain, ekitongin, (quand on dit,) ekitoiàngon, when we say, ekitóiangon, when we say,
ekitoiegon,
ekitowadjin.

NEGATIVE FORM.

PRESENT TENSE.

Ekitossiwànin, when I don't say,
ekitossiwanin,
ekitossigon,
ekitossingin, (grand on ne dit pas,) ekitossiwàngon, when we don't say, ekitóssiwangon, when we don't say, ekitossiwegon,
ekitossigwanin.

REMARK. In the sentences expressing periodical actions, events or states, not only the CHANGE is made, but also one of the syllables in, nin, or on, is added to the verb, as you see here above, and in the examples of Rule 2., page 136. This is done, when the adverb dassing, (which signifies, whenever, as often as, every time,) is expressed or understood. At the third persons, that end in d, the letter j is inserted between d and the syllable in, as you see above. (See an analogy of it in REMARK, p. 26.)

Please remember well this REMARK. It is applicable to almost all our Conjugations.

In the perfect and future tenses the terminations remain the same, and the CHANGE is made in the signs, or prefixes, and ga-or gad-; the former being changed into ga-, the latter into ge-, or ged-; as:

Ga-ikitoiànin, when (or whenever) I have said; ga-ikitodjin, when he has said; ga-ikitoiegon, etc. . .

ged-ikitoiànin, whenever I shall say, ged-ikitoianin, ged-ikitowadjin, etc. . .

Ga-ikitossiwanin, when I have not said; ga-ikitossigon, when he has not said; ga-ikitossiwegon, etc. . .

ged-ikitossiwanin, whenever I shall not say, ged-ikitossiwanin, ged-ikitossigwanin, etc. . .

In the other cases of the above Rules, p. 137, and 138, the CHANGE is made in the same way as here stated; only the end syllables, in, jin, nin, or on, are taken off; as: Ekitoian; ekitossiwan. Ga-ikitoian; ga-ikitossiwan; ged-ikitoian; ged-ikitossiwan. Examine the examples of the said Rules.

REMARK 1. Respecting the conjunction iji, (in the CHANGE, ejî-,) which you see often to precede verbs, it must be remarked, that it is never employed alone, but always in connection with a verb, which it precedes immediately; and the CHANGE in the verbs preceded by iji, is made in this conjunction, which is then attached to the verb with a hyphen, in the cases of the CHANGE, not otherwise; according to the rules stated above. The signification of this conjunction is: as, as-so, as-as . . F. i.

Eji-sagidisoian, ki da-sagiag kidj' anishinabeg; as thou lovest thyself, thou oughtst to love thy neighbor.

Eji -kikendaman kid iji windamon; as I know it myself, so I tell it to thee.

Ga-iji-jawenimiian gi-akosiian, kid iji jawenimin ákosiian; as thou hadst pity on me when I was sick, so I have pity on thee while thou art sick.

But sometimes the conjunction iji seems to accompany the verb superfluously, because it can be omitted without the least CHANGE of the meaning of the sentence. F. i.

Atchina oma gi-aia, mi dash ga- iji-madjad; he was here a short time and went away; or, mi dash gi-madjad.

Mi dash ga-iji-kitchi-nishkadisid; and he flew in a passion; or, mi dash gi-kitchi-nishkadisid.

Kid iji pagossenimin, Debenimiian, tchi jawenimiian; Lord, I pray thee, to have mercy on me; or, ki pagossenimin. . .

Ki windamon ga-iji-wabandamàn, or ga-wabandaman ki win-damon. Both sentences equally mean: I tell thee what I have seen.

REMARK 2. If you examine the paradigm of this I. Conjugation, and the examples till now related, you will see how all is formed and derived from the third person singular present indicative. If you know this third person, you have only to add to it the terminations, and make the CHANGE according to the above rules, and you will find no verb belonging to this Conjugation, which you would not be able to conjugate correctly. The terminations are fully displayed in the above paradigm or pattern of this Conjugation; but the third person and the CHANGE (participle) must be learned by practice and the Dictionary. This REMARK again is applicable to all our Conjugations.

REMARK on Remarks. I request you, dear reader, to mind well, perfectly well, all these Remarks on the I. Conj.; because they are applicable also to other Conjugations, but they cannot be repeated at every subsequent Conjugation.

Ossaieian iniw ekitonipanin, it was his brother who said it.

After these two tenses you may form the others of these participles.*

* In the original document the first half of this sentence is at the bottom of page 152. The second half on the bottom of page 153. I have consolidated both halves here in what appears to be their proper place. DRB.

Wegonen iw ged-ijitchigessinig ossaieian? What is that which his brother shall not do?

Wegonen ged-ikitossinig oshimeian? What will his brother not say?

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Ossan ningot ikitossinigoban, kawin ningot da-gi-ijiwebass-inon, had his father not said anything, nothing would have happened.

Ogwissan gwaiak ijiwebisissinigoban, da-gi-animisiwan, had his son not behaved right, he would have been punished.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin Debeniminang o sagiassin enamiassinigon, the Lord does not love pagans, (or, a pagan.)

Kawin enamiad o da-wissokawassin gwaiak ejiwebisissinigon; the Christians, (or, a Christian.) ought not to associate with those that behave not well.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Mekatewikwanaie nongom o gi gashkian iniw oshkinawen, gwaiak ejitchigessinigobanin, the Missionary (priest) has now converted that young man who did not act well.

Mi na ossaieian iniw gwaiak ekitossinigobanin? Is he that did not say right, his brother?

II. CONJUGATION.

To this Conjugation belong all the intransitive or neuter verbs ending at the characteristical third person in am. They likewise end so at the first person singular, present, indicative. This m, in which all the verbs of this Conjugation end, is put among the terminations, as you see in the paradigms. The reason is, because it does not remain in all the tenses, but is sometimes changed into n.

NOTE. In the I. Conjugation, I displayed the negative form in full, (on the opposite page.) In order to save room, I will put, in the subsequent Conjugations, only the terminations of the negative form, the body of the verb remaining the same in this form, as in the affirmative. F. i. Nind inendam, neg. Kawin nind inendansi. Kid inendam, neg. Kawin kid inendansi. Inendam, neg. Kawin inendansi, etc.

Here are some verbs belonging to this Conjugation:

First Person.	Nin
Nin nánagatawendam , I meditate	songéndam , I have a firm thought;

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Nin ge-gi-inendamàn , (I who	nsiwàn , shall have thought,)
kin ge-gi-inendaman ,	nsiwan .

Etc., as above in the first future, always prefixing ge-gi-, to the verb.

REMARK. The letter n before the syllable si, in the negative form, is commonly not heard in pronouncing. F. i. Kawin inendansi, is ordinarily pronounced: Kawin inendasi, etc. But this n must be in, grammatically, because otherwise there would be two s in the negative form, as this always is the case between two vowels; and the above word would then be, inendassi; but it does not sound so. Correct speakers pronounce the n enough to be perceived by an attentive ear.

Let us now consider the CHANGE of the verbs of the II.

Conjugation.

The participles, which have always the CHANGE, are fully displayed in the above paradigm.

In the sentences expressing periodical actions or states of being, the verbs of this Conjugation are formed thus:

AFFIRMATIVE FORM.

NEGATIVE FORM.

PRESENT TENSE.

Enendamànin , when (or	nsiwànin
whenever) I think,	,
enéndamanin ,	nsiwanin
enendangin ,	, nsigon ,
enendamingin ,	nsingon ,
enendamàngin , when we.	nsiwàngin
enendamangon , when we.	n ,
enendamegon ,	nsiwang
enendamowadjin ,*	on ,
	nsiwego
	n ,
	nsigwani
	n .

In the perfect and future tenses the terminations are the same as here above, and the CHANGE is made in the prefixes, gi-, and ga-, or gad-. Gi- is changed into ga-; and ga-, or gad- into ge-, or ged-. F.i.

Ga-inendamànin , when (or when-	nsiwàni ever) I have	n ,
thought,
ga-iniéndamanin ,
ga-inendangin ,

Ged-inendamànin, when I shall think,
ged-inendamàngin,
ged-inendamowadjin,

nsiwanin,
nsigon,
nsiwànin,
nsiwàngin,
nsigwanin,

* See Remark, p. 26.

In the other cases of the CHANGE, (see p. 137. and 138.) it is made in the same way as here stated; only the end-syllables, in, (jin), nin, or on, are omitted; as: Enendamàn; ga-inendamàn, ged-inendamàn, etc. .

EXAMPLES ON THE II. CONJUGATION.* INDICATIVE MOOD. PRESENT TENSE.

Pakaákwe bónam, kakina gaie bineshúag bonamog; the hen lays eggs, and all the birds lay eggs.

Pabige anijitamog, kawin songendansiwag; they give up immediately, they have no firm resolution.

Kaginig modjigendamog gijigong ebidjig, kaginig minawanig-wendamog; those that are in heaven are always Métchi -ijiwebisidjig káginig ta-kotagéndamog anámakamig; those that are wicked will suffer eternally in hell.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Nin ga-gi-gíjendam tchi bwa minawa wábamiian; I shall have taken a resolution before thou seest me again.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Apegish mojam mino inendamàn, wika dash tchi matchi inenda-nsiwàn; I wish I had always good thoughts and never bad thoughts.

Apegish mashkawendamowad tchi anamiawad; apegish wika bakan inendansigwa. I wish they would think firmly to be Christians; I wish they would never think otherwise.

Kishpin kashkendaman, kotagendaman gaie oma aking mik-wéndan kagige wánakiwin gijigong;

if thou art sad and suffering here on earth, think on the eternal repose in heaven. Manadad, pabige tchi nishkadendaming; it is bad to have immediately angry thoughts.

* See Note, p. 116.

Onijishin tchi mashkawendaming, wenijishing gego tchidoda-ming; it is right to think firmly (or to have a firm will,) to do something that is fair, (or good.)

PERFECT TENSE.

Gi-wewibendaman, mi waiba ga-bi-ondjigiweian; because thou hast made haste, therefore thou hast come back soon.

Wika gi-bejigwendansigwa, mi sa ga-ondji-ánijitamowad; they never have united in their thoughts, therefore they have given up.

Mi gi-bónendaman ga-iji-kitchi-matchi-dodagoian; I have now forgotten, (I have done thinking,) how ill I have been treated.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Dodansiwegoban ga-dodameg, kawin ki da-mino-aiassim nongom; if you had not done what you did, you would not be well now.

Gi-bi-sagaamdàgiban gi-bwa-pindiged, mi ga-ondji-bisán-abid; because we were gone out before he came in, therefore he was quiet.

Winawa gikawidansigwaban, kawin awiia bakan da-gi-matchi-ikitossi; had they not quarrelled, nobody else had said any bad words.

FUTURE TENSE.

Ki ga-windamen ge-dodamàn; I will tell thee what I shall do. Pisindan gagikwewin, mi ge-ondji-mashkawendaman tchi mino ijiwebisiian; listen to preaching, and thou wilt firmly resolve to behave well.

Mikwendamog ge-dibaamagoieg, mi dash iw wika ge-on-dji-anijitansiweg eji-anamiaieg; think on the reward you shall receive, and you will never give up your religion.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Ki ga- windamon ge-gi-inendaman; I will tell thee
what I shall have thought.

Minik ge-gi- dodameg oma aking, mi iw ge-mikameg dibako-nige -gijigak; whatever you shall have done on earth, you will find it on the day of judgement.

CONDITIONAL MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Ki da-minwendàm na tchi wabameg kinigiigowag?

Would you be glad to see your parents?

Kishpin bekádisiamban, kawin ki da-gikawidansi mojang; if thou wert of a quiet disposition, thou wouldst not always quarrel.

Da-mamakadendamog kishpin wabandamowad Kitchi-mekate-wikwanaie od anamiewigamig; they would wonder if they saw a cathedral.

Ki da-debwéiendam nwàndamanin gagikwewin; thou oughtst to believe when thou hearest a sermon.

PERFECT TENSE.

Nin da-gi-kitchi-wassitawendam, mikwé-nimassiwagiban Debendjiged; I would have been very sorrowful, had I not thought on the Lord.

Nawàtch nin da-gi-minwendamin, kakina dagwishinowapan; we would have been more contented if they had come, all of them.

Kawin wika nin da-gi -nánagatawendansi ged-ijiwebak ningot-ing, nondansiwàmban Kije-Manito od ikitowin; I would never have meditated on what shall once come to pass, had I not heard the word of God.

Kawin ki da-gi-segendansim, ki da-gí-songendam sa; nawatch da-gi-onijishin. You ought not to have been afraid, you ought to have had a strong thought (resolution;) that would have been better.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Débwéiendan, kego ágonwetangen, kego gaie matchi inendan-gen; believe, do not contradict and think not evil.

Mino dodamokan, ninidjaniss, ki ga-jawéndagos;
do good, my child, and thou wilt be happy.
Ta-mashkawendam; kid ig mekatewikwanaie; ki gad-ina. Tell him, the Missionary says: Let him be firm in his resolution.

Ta-wéwibendam aw inini; let that man make haste. Minwéndanda, minawánigosida, enamiaieg, ki jawendágosi- min! Let us be contented, let us be joyful, Christians, we are happy!

Kego wika mátschi inendansida, kego mishkadendansida; let us never think evil, let us never have angry thoughts.

Kego kashkendangegon, minwendamog; weweni nanagatawen-damog ga-ijiwebak. Be not sad, be contented, think well on what happened.

Kego anijitangegon, apine bejigwendamog; do not give up, have always the same thought.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Nin jawénimag wassagendangig; I pity those that suffer. Jawendagosi enamiad meno-inendang; happy is the Christian that has a good will.

Kinawa wika menwendansiweg, ki sanagisim; you that never are contented, you are difficult to be dealt with.

Géwanandang mémindage kitimágisi; he that dies of hunger, is very much worth of pity.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Igiw ininiwag aiágonwetangibanig, nongom weweni debweta-mog; those men that contradicted before, believe now.

Kinawa swangendansiwegoban waieshkat, anin nongom enendameg? You that had no firm resolution at first, what you think now?

Mi aw oshkinawe menwéndansigoban; this is the young man that was not willing.

PERFECT TENSE.

Nond ga-sagaangig kawin o gi-nondansinawa gagikwewin; those that went out too soon, did not hear the sermon.

Kin ga-apitchi-kashkendaman, keiabi na ki kashkendam? Thou that hast mourned so much, art thou yet sad?

Awenen aw ga-gijendang tchi madjad wabang?
Who is the person that resolved to start tomorrow?

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Ga-apitchi-debweiendangibanig oma aking, nongom apitchi mino aiawag gijigong; those that had a perfect faith on earth, are now exceedingly happy in heaven.

Kinawa ga-initamegoban matchi dajindiwin, ki gi-deb-wéta-nawa na? You that had heard the calumny, have you believed it?

Win ga-segendansigoban wika, nongom o gotan nibowin; he that never feared before, is now afraid of death.

FUTURE TENSE.

Mi sa igiw ged-anijitangig waïba; these are the persons that will soon give all up.

Aw ge-mashkawendang tchi mino dodang, o ga-songendami-igon Debendjigenidjin; the Lord will give strength to him who shall firmly resolve to do right.

Ge-matchi-dodansig wika, ta-jawendagosi; he that shall never do wrong, will be happy.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Ge-gi-mino-dodangig aking, kaginig ta-dibaamawawag gijigong; those that shall have acted right (done well) on earth, shall be eternally rewarded in heaven.

EXAMPLES ON THE II. DUBITATIVE CONJUGATION.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

*Aw aiakosid inini kitchi masitágosi;
wissagendamodog apitchi.*

This sick man groans much; he must suffer exceedingly.

Kawin kid inendansimidog mashi, tchi wi-anwenindisoian, kawin sa mashi maianadak gego ki bonitossin. It seems that thou dost not yet repent, because thou hast not yet abandoned anything wicked.

Nij nishimeiaq wassa aiawag bakan aking. Kashkendamodoge-nag, kitchi inendamodogenag tchi bi-giwe-wad. Two younger brothers of mine are far off in a foreign country. They must be home-sick; they probably wish very much to come back again.

PERFECT TENSE.

Ki gi-agonwetamwadog gi-nondameg gagikwewin, kawin ki gi-debwetansimwadog. I think you have contradicted when you had heard the sermon, you have probably not believed.

Kawin keiabi bi-ijassiwag biwabikokewininiwag: gi-anijitamo-dogenag. The miners don't come here any more; they have probably given up.

Aw oshkinawe kawin bapish od odapinansin ishkotewabo; gi-gijendamodog tchi minikwessig wika. This young man does not accept any ardent liquor; he has probably made a resolution to drink no more.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Nishime John kawin kiwe waieshkat gi-minwendansigoban, kikinoamading wi-ijad; nongom dash kitchi minwendam, kitchi dadatabi gaie kikinoamagosid masinaigan. My brother John had not been willing at first to go to school,

(as I under-stood;) but now he likes it very much, and is learning very fast to read.

Igiw nij oshkinaweg gi-kitchi-inendamogwaban nissatchiwan tchi ijawad, bwa nibonid ossiwabanin; kawin dash nongom ganabatch ta-ijassidogenag. I heard that these two young men had thought much of going below, before their father died; but now they will probably not go.

FUTURE TENSE.

Kawin waiba ganabatch ta-gijendansidogenag tchi bonitowad minikwewin. They will perhaps not soon take a resolution to give up drinking.

Iaigwa waiba ta-inendamodog tchi anamiad. He will probably soon have a mind to become a Christian, (to pray.)

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Anawi anamia aw anishinabe; endogwen dash meshkawenda-mogwen mojang tchi anamiad. This Indian indeed is a Christian; but it is doubtful whether he has a strong resolution, (thought,) to be always a Christian.

Kashkendamog, kawin wika minwendansiwag; wegogogwen wendji-kashkendamowagwen. They are dejected, (low-spirited,) they are never contented; I don't know why they are so dejected.

Kawin naningim anamiewigamigong ki bi-ijassim; mi sa swangendansiwegwen tchi anókitaweg Debendjiged. You don't come often to church, (house of prayer;) it is, I suppose, because you have no strong will to serve the Lord.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kishpin ga-nishkadendamogwen, kawin nin nin gi-nishkiassi. If he has had perhaps angry thoughts, it was not I that made him angry.

Gonima ga-segendamowanen gi-kitchi-noding; thou hast perhaps been afraid, when it blew so hard.

Ga-initamowegwen ningotchi matchi dajindiwin, pabige ki gi- debwetanawa. You have perhaps heard somewhere the ill report, and you have forthwith believed it.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Kishpin gijendamogobanen wi-madjad, da- gi-bosi nabikwaning pitchinago. If he had, (I suppose,) made up his mind to go away, he would have gone on board the vessel yesterday.

Minwendansiwagobanen kakina endashiwad, kawin ganabatch

o da-gi-widigemassin iniw ikwewan. If they had (perhaps) not all been willing, he would not have married that woman.

FUTURE TENSE.

Ged-ako-mashkawendamowegwen, kawin ki ga-waiejimigoss-iwag metchi-ijiwebisidjig. As long as you shall have a strong resolution, (thought,) you will not be seduced by the wicked ones.

Nin wi-nondawa aw inini; namandj ged-inendamowànen kishpin nondawag. I will hear that man; I don't know what my thought (will, mind,) shall be when I hear him.

Namándj ge -dodamowagwen, kawin nin gi-gagwedjimassig. I don't know what they will do; I have not asked them.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Aw inini wika saiegendansigwen, ta-segendam api ge -nibod. That man who seems never to fear, will be afraid at the time of his death.

Kin metchi-inéndamowanen, mikwenim Debendjiged; o kiken-danan sa win kid inendamowinan. Thou who hast perhaps evil thoughts, remember the Lord; he knows all thy thoughts.

Kawin nongom bi-anokissiwag igiw aianijitamogwenag. They don't come to work today those that are supposed to give up.

PERFECT TENSE.

Mi aw inini nond ga-sagaamogwen gi-gigitong. This is the man who went out, (as I heard,) before the council was over. Kinawa ga-matchi-dodamowegwen, ningoting ki ga-kikendago-sim ga-ijiwebisiwegwen nongom. You who have perhaps done evil, you will once be known, how you have (perhaps) behaved now.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Igiw waieshkat ga-debweiendamogobanenag, gi-kitchi-mino-ijiwesigwaban. Those who had believed in the beginning, (the first Christians,) behaved very well, (as we read.)

Kin ga-songendansiwambanen waieshkat, awashime kin nongom ki song, debwetam, kid inawemaganag dash. Thou who at first hadst perhaps had no strong belief, (thought,) thou believest now stronger than thy relations.

Kinawa ga-kotagendamowegobanen bibonong nopiming, ki mino aiam nongom oma. You who had suffered last winter in the woods, (as I understood,) you are now well here.

FUTURE TENSE.

Aw ge-kashkendansigwen, ge-nishkadendansigwen gaie, gego wenitodjin, nibwakawinining ta-apitenima. He that shall not be sad, nor shall have angry thoughts, when he loses some-thing, will be esteemed a wise man.

Awegwenag wika ge-pisindansigwenag matchi babamadjimo-win, bisan ta-bimadisiwag aking. Those who never shall listen to bad reports, shall live quietly (in peace) on earth.

IV. CONJUGATION.

Here now, dear reader, you are at the most important and the most difficult of all our Conjugations.

To this Conjugation belong all the transitive or active verbs animate, ending at the third person singular, present, indicative, in an. The object upon which acts the subject of these verbs, is always contained in the verb itself. So, nin wábama, does not mean: I see; but, I see him, (her, it.)

All the verbs belonging to this Conjugation end in a at the first person singular, present, indicative. This final a is placed among the terminations, to facilitate the conjugating process of these verbs; and this a does not belong to the body of the verb. See the imperative mood of this first paradigm, and the passive voice, p. 224.

NOTE. In the following two paradigms you will find the singular in the first column of the page in full, and the terminations of the plural in the second column.

Here are some verbs of the IV. Conjugation.

FIRST PERSON.

Nin wábandaa, I show him,
(her, it;)
Nin nibeá, I put him (her, it,) to sleep;
Nin ságia, I love him, (her, it;)
Nind ámoa, I eat him, (her, it;)
Nin nóndawa, I hear him, (her, it;)
Nin wábama, I see him, (her, it;)

THIRD PERSON.

Nin

REMARK. As the Otchipwe language makes no distinction of the two sexes in the personal pronouns, the pronouns of all the three genders ought to be expressed in English, in some instances. But, to make it shorter and easier, we will ordinarily express only the masculine pronouns; and the feminine and neuter will be understood. So, for instance, Nin wabama, can mean, I see him, I see her, I see it, (some animate object.) Waiabamád, can mean, he, she, or it, who sees him, her, or it. Instead of this we will only say: Nin wabama, I see him; waia-bamád, he who sees him, etc., etc. The feminine and neuter pronouns will be understood,

EXAMPLES ON THE WHOLE ACTIVE VOICE *

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Nin ságia Kije-Manito, nin ságiag gaie kakina nidj' anishina-beg, kawin awiia nin jingénimassi. I love God, and I love all my fellow-men, I hate nobody.

Nin gagíkimananig mojang ninidjanissinanig; eniwek dash bisán abiwag. We speak always to our children, (we exhort them,) and they are tolerably quiet.

Nin kíkémína noss, kinawa dash kawin ki kikenimassiwawa. I know my father, but you don't know him.

Aw kwiwisens o kitchitwáweniman ossan, ka wika od ágonwe-tawassin. This boy honors his father, he never disobeys him.

* See Note, p. 122. See Remark 4. p. 45.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Nind ánikanotawaban aw inini megwa oma aiad. I interpreted for that man during his stay here.

Nishime kawin wika o ganonassibanin iniw ininiwan, nongom dash weweni ganonidiwag. My brother never spoke to that man, but now they speak friendly to each other.

Aw oshkinawe mekatewikwanaien od anokitawabanin bibo-nong. This young man worked for the Missionary last winter.

Kawin wika od iji babamitawassiwabanin onigiigowan, nongom eji-babamitawawad. They never obeyed so well their parents, as they obey them now.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kawin weweni nin gi-nissitotawassi aw inini ga-ikitod. I have not well understood that man, what he has said, (I have not well understood what that man said.)

Kitchi nibiwa jimaganishag nin gi-nagishkawaninig, kawin na gaie kinawa ki gi-wabamassiwawag? We met a great many soldiers, did not you also see them?

Weweni nin gi-ganóma, kawin nin gi-matchi inássi. I spoke to him in a fair manner, I did not give him any bad words.

Judawininiwag o gi-kotagiawan, o gi-nissawan gaie Debendji-genidjin. The Jews made the Lord suffer, and put him to death.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Nin gi-ishkwa -kikinoamawabanig abinodjiiag api pandigewad anishinabeg. I had done teaching the children when the Indians came in.

Kawin na kin ki gi-awassiban aw mígwan, bwa-ojibiiged aw ikwesens? Hadst thou not used this pen, before that girl wrote?

Midasswabik jóniian a gi-atáwamabanin witan. He had borrowed ten dollars of his brother-in-law.

Kinawana ki gi-bamiawabanig nijodensag, bwa pindiganindwa akosiwigamigong? Had you taken care of the little twins, before they were brought to the hospital.

FUTURE TENSE.

Ki ga-babámitawa na nongom koss?

Ki ga-minádenima na? Kawin na minawa ki ga-matchi -nakwé-tawassi? Wilt thou obey now thy father? Wilt thou respect him? Wilt thou not give him any more bad answers?

Kishpin enamiangin ijiwebisiieg, ki ga-wabamawag kinidjani-ssiwag gijigong ebidjig. If you behave like Christians, you will see your children that are in heaven.

Debéniminang o ga-dibákonan kakina anishinaben; menojiwe-bisinidjin dash gijigong o gad- assan. Our Lord will judge all men, and the good ones he will place in heaven.

Kawin nongom nin ga-násikawassi aw inini, panima wabang nin gad-ijanan. I will not go to that man to-day, to-morrow I will visit him.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Tchi bwa onagwishig nin ga- gi-kikenima enendang. Before evening I shall have known his idea.

Kawin ganabatch mashi ki ga-gi-ganonassi iwapi. You will probably not yet have spoken to him, by that time.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Weweni gijendan tchi sagiad Kijie-Manito, tchi anokitawad gaie; wika dash tchi wissokawassiwadwa metchi-ijiwebisid-jig. Firmly resolve to love God, and to serve him; and never to join the company of the wicked.*

Kishpin jawánimegwa kétimagisidjig, mino dódawegwa gait, win igo Jesus ki mino dódawawa. If you have mercy on the poor, (afflicted,) and treat them well, you treat well Jesus himself.

Waiéjimað awiia, gimódimað gaie, kin tibinawé ki matchi dodas, awáshime win eji-matchi-dodawad. If thou cheatest somebody, and stealest something from him, thou wrongest thyself more than him.

Ginwénj wabamássiwangidwa nind inawémiganinanig, nin kashkendamin. If we don't see our relations a long time, we are sad. (The person or persons spoken to, not included. —See REMARK 3. p. 45.)

PERFECT TENSE.

Nin gi-minwendamin gi- nondawangid mekatewikwanaie gi-anamiegijigak. We were satisfied (contented) when we heard the Missionary last Sunday. The person or persons spoken to, not included.)

Kawin ki gi-gashkitossimin tchi gi-gagwédjimang gego aw inini, osam sa atchána oma gi-aia. We could not ask that man any questions, he was here too short a time. (The person or persons spoken to, included.)

Aniskwin gi- babamitawassiwadwa kinigiigog?

Why hast thou not listened to thy parents?

Gi-babámenimassiwegwa ki pijikimiwag, mi ga-onji-nibowad.

Your oxen died because you did not take care of them.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Weweni ganawenimangidwaban nin joniiaminanig, kawin nongom nin da-kitimagisissimin. Had we well taken care of our money, we would not be poor now.

Da-gi -nibo aw aiákosid, weneni gi -bamiassiwángidiban. This sick person would have died, had we not well taken care of him. (The person spoken to, not included.)

* See Remarks, p. 116.

Ginaamawapan odánan, kawia wedi da-gi-ijassiwán. If he had forbidden it to his daughter, she would not have gone there.

Kikinoamawegwaban kinidjanissiwag gwaiakobimadisiwin, kawin da-gi-dodansiwag gadodamowad. Had you taught your children uprightness, they would not have done what they did.

FUTURE TENSE.

Aniniwapi ga-násikawag Jesus? When shall I go to Jesus?

Eji-minwendameg tchi dodagoieg, mi gedodawegwa kidj' anishinabewag. What you like that should be done to you, even that you should do to your fellow-men.

Gonima ningóting kawin ki gad-aiáwassi pakwéjigan ged-amoad. Perhaps the time will come when thou shalt have no bread to eat.

Kije-Manito kid apitchi dibenimigonan; mi ge-ondjianokita-wang mo jag, mi ge-ondji-agonwetawassiwang wika. God is our absolute master; therefore we will serve him always, and we will never disobey him.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Enamiad ge-gi-iji -sagiad Kije-Maniton, mi ged-iji-aiad kagige bimadisiwining. As the Christian shall have loved God, even so be shall be it, life everlasting, (happy or unhappy.)

Ge-gi-iji-kikinoamawad abinodji, mi iw ge -dodang ketchi-anishinabewidjen. What thou shalt have taught the child, that he will do when he is a grown man.

CONDITIONAL MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kishpin wábamad Kije-Manito, win ejiwábamik, ki da-gossá, ki da manádjia gaie, kawin dash ondjita ki da-nishkiassi. If thou couldst see God as he sees thee, thou wouldst fear him, thou wouldst respect him, and thou wouldst not purposely offend him.

Wabameg osawa joniia, gonima osam ki da-missawenimawa. If you see gold you would, perhaps, too much covet it.

Ki da-násikawa aw ga-nishkiik, ki da- mino-ganóna dash. Thou oughtst to go to the person that has offended thee, and thou oughtst to speak friendly to him, (her.)

Kawin netá-minikenidjin o da-wissókawassin. He ought not to frequent the company of drunkards.

PERFECT TENSE.

Nin da-gi-anwenimag wabamagwaban. I would have repri-manded them had I seen them.

Kawin nin da-gi- biassi, kikenimagiban ginwenj tchi bijjassig. I would not have waited for him, had I known that he would not come so long.

Odenang isáiangoban, Kitchi-mekatewikwanaie ki da-gi-waba-manan. Were we gone to town, we would have seen the bishop.

Mewija ki da-gi-dibaamawawa atawéwinini; mi ge-gi-onijish-ingiban. You ought to have paid the merchant long ago; that would have been fair.

*Mi iw ge-gi-inag, or, ge-gi-inagiban. That, is what I would have told him.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Anwenim kinidjaniss, kishpin matchi dodang; babámenim ejiwebisid, kego pagidinaken, win enendang tchi dodang. Reprimand thy child; when he does wrong; turn thy attention to his conducts don't permit him to do as he pleases.

Ashamákan békaded, jawenimákan kétimagisid, ki ga-sa-giigig dash misi gego Waiábandang. Feed the hungry and be charit-able to the poor, and He who sees all will love thee.

O ga-nandoman anishinaben, o ga-windamawan dash gainag.

Let him call the Indians, and let him tell them what I told him.

Kego o ga-matchi-dajimassin widj' ikwewan. Let her not speak ill of her fellow-women.

* See Remark 8, page 119.

Weweni sagiada Debénissinang, mamoiawamada; kego dash wika agonwetawassida. Let us love our Lord, let us be thank-ful to him; and let us never disobey him.

Mikwenimádanig naningim gijigong eiadjig aiápitchiawenda-gosidjig; kego gaie wanenimassidanig anámakamig ebidjig kaiágigekotagitodjig. Let us often think on those that are in heaven, who are exceedingly happy; and let us not forget those that are in hell, who suffer eternally.

Takobinig onindjing, osidang gaie, sagidjiwebinig dash kashkitibikadong. Bind him hand and foot, and cast him into outer darkness.

Kego awiia jingenimakegon, kego gaie awiia batamakegon.

Don't hate anybody, and don't calumniate anybody.

Winawa nongom o gad-awawan pijikiwan. Let them today use the oxen.

Kego animoshag o gad-amoássiwawan iniw pakwéjiganan.

Let not the dogs eat up this bread.

O ga-ságidinawan gawashkwébinidjin. Let them turn out the drunkards.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Jawendagosi waiabamád Kije-Manton gijigong. Happy is he who sees God in heaven.

Nenibikimassigog onidjanissiwán ta-animisiwag dibakonidiwi-ning. Those who don't reprimand their children, will suffer at the judgment.

Kinawa maiáwandjieg joniia, jewenimassiweg ketimagisidjig, méshkwat kinawa ki ga-kitimagisim gi-ishkwa-bimadisiieg. You that accumulate money, you that have no charity towards the poor, you will be poor in your turn after this life.

Batainowag igiw mánadjig ge-bisikamowad. Those are many to whom thou givest clothing.

Ki mino dodam kin mánad gego ketimagisidjig. Thou doest well in giving something to the poor.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Aw oshkinawe néganadiban pichinago, jéba gi-dagwishin. The young man whom thou leftst behind yesterday, arrived this morning.

Noss enonapanin gi-gímiwan tibikong. The person whom my father hired, deserted last night.

Winawa enonegobanig weweni gi-anokiawag. The persons whom you hired, worked well.

Nind inawémaganag waiábamassiwegobanig sigwanong, nongom minawa oma aiawag. My relatives whom you did not see last spring, are now here again.

PERFECT TENSE.

Gi-jawendagosiawag igiw ga-wabamadjig Jesusan , ga-nonda-wadjig gaie; awáshime dash gi-jawendagosiawag ga-babámi-tawadjig. Happy were they who saw Jesus and heard him; but happier yet were those who obeyed him.

Mi aw ikwésens, wika ga-ágonwetawassig onigiigon. This is the girl that never has disobeyed her parents.

Kinawa ga-pagidinassiwegwa kinidjanissiwag nimiiding ki gi-mino-dodám. You who have not permitted your children to go to a ball, you have done right.

Kinidjanissiwag ga-pagidinassiwegog matchi minawanigosi-wining, ningoting ki ga-màmoiawamigowag. Your children whom you did not permit to go to sinful pleasures, will once thank you.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Igiw anishinabeg ga-gagansomangobanig naningim, nongom weweni anamiawag. Those Indians to whom we had spoken so often, are now good Christians. (The person or persons spoken to, included.)

Anishinabeg ga- gagansomangidibanig, gi-madjawag. The Indians to whom we had spoken, (whom we had exhorted,) are gone. (The person or persons spoken to, not included.)

Kinawa wika ga-nasikawassiwegoban mekatewikwanaie, nongom weweni mawadissig. You who never had gone to the Missionary, pay him now a visit.

Mi aw inini ga-atáwamadiban anokasowinan. This is the man from whom thou hadst borrowed tools.

Mi aw kwiwisens ga-awiássiwagiban nin masinaigan; osam sa o banadjiton. This is the boy to whom I had not lent my book, because he spoils it too much.

FUTURE TENSE.

Aw weweni ge-pagossénimad Debendjigenidjin, o ga-jaweni - migon. He who shall well pray to the Lord, will obtain mercy.

Enamiad ge-sagiassig widj' anishinaben, ge-bonigidetawassig gaie, kawin gaie win ta-bonigidetawassi. The Christian who shall not love his neighbor, and shall not forgive him, he shall not be forgiven either.

Ge-nóinanadjig gijigong ébinidjin, ta-dagwishinog wedi gaie winawa. They that follow those who are in heaven, will also themselves arrive there.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Aw ge-gi-ishkwa- wissokawád netá-giwashkwábinidjin, o ga-boniton gaie win matchi minikwewin. He who shall have given up the company of habitual drunkards, will stop also himself bad drinking.

Win ge-gi-sagiassig Kije-Maniton oma aking, kawin pitchinag wedi ajida-bimadisiwining tamadjitassi wi-sagiad. He who shall not have loved God on earth, shall neither in the next life begin to love him.

REMARK. When a verb in the passive voice in the third person, has no report to another third person in the sentence, the term-inations of the first kind, in a, awag, etc., are employed; (see p. 224.) F. i. Wabama aw kwiwisens, that boy is seen; wabamawag igiw ikwesensag, those girls are seen; without any report to another third person. But when there is a second third person in the sentence, the terminations of the second kind, in igon, igowan, etc., are used. F. i. Ossan o wabamigon aw kwiwisens, that boy is seen by his father. Ogiwan o wabamigowan igiw ikwesensag, those girls are seen by their mother. Ossan, his father, and ogiwan, their mother, are the second third persons in these sentences. (See page 73.)

The verbs of this Conjugation ending in awa, are conjugated exactly after the paradigm Nin wabama, throughout the whole active voice. But in the passive voice they differ a little.

We shall point out here below the moods and tenses, in which the verbs ending in awa, differ from the verb Nin wabama. We take the verb Nin nondawa, I hear him, (her, it,) for an example. Here we don't put only the final a among the terminations, as we did in Nin wabama, but the w also; because we use to consider (in Conjugations.) as the body of the verb only those syllables and letters, which remain unchanged throughout the whole Conjugation.

REMARK. There are some verbs belonging to this IV. Conj., which end in owa. It must, however, be observed, that the letter o, before the syllable wa in these verbs, is hardly heard, or rather not at all, in some moods and tenses; as: Nind ininája-owa, I send him; nind agwánaowa, I cover him; nin pakitéowa, I strike him; nin kibákwaowa, I shut him up; nin nandonéowa, I look for him; nin bashíbaowa, I stab him, etc. In hearing these verbs pronounced, we should think they ought to be written: Ininajawa, agwánawa, pakitéwa, kibákwawa, nandonéwa, bashíbawa, etc. But it is grammatically certain that there is an o before wa. In some inflections of these verbs this o appears openly, (as you will see below,) and we could never grammatically account for its appearance, if we did not assume, that these verbs really end in owa at the first person singular, present indicative active voice. An accurate speaker will let it sound a little.

Let us now examine, how far the verbs ending in owa, differ in conjugating from those ending in awa, which we have considered above.

In the active voice they conform to the paradigm Nin wabama; like those ending in awa; except in the imperative mood, as you will see by and by. But in the passive voice there is some difference. The indicative mood does not differ. Take off the end-syllable wa, as you do in Nin nondawa; and then attach the terminations of the paradigm Nita nondago, and you will correctly conjugate the indicative. F. i. Nin pakitéogo, I am struck; nin pakitéogonaban, I was struck; nin gi-pakitéogo, I have been struck,

The subjunctive mood differs a little, in the third persons, as follows:

REMARK 1. Sometimes, in hearing the above imperative pronounced, we should think there is an n before j; as: nanj, wawinj, etc. But it is heard so seldom and so indistinctly that I think we need not care about it.

REMARK 2. I know no general rule which could point out those verbs ending in na, that make the above exception in the imperative mood. There are many, likewise ending in na, that make no exception in the imperative; as:

VERBS.

2nd PERS.

Nin dibakona , I judge him, (her, it;)	takón.
Nin takona , I seize him, (her, it;)
Etc. etc. . . .

REMARK. It seems, however, that we can say with security, that all the verbs of this Conjugation, ending in ana, change the last syllable na into j, at the second person singular of the imperative mood. But for those ending in ina and ona, no rule is known to me. Some of them, as you see, change the last syllable na into j, at the said person of the imperative; and some do not, they have a regular imperative.

SECOND KIND.

The verbs of this Conjugation, ending in ssá, at the first person singular of the indicative mood, change this termination in shí, at the second person singular of the imperative mood; as:

VERBS.

Nind odissá, I go to him, (her it;)

Etc. etc. . . .

THIRD KIND.

The verbs ending in owa, (see page 233,) form their second person singular of the imperative mood, by cutting off this whole termination. And they form their second person plural of the imperative, by changing the last syllable wa into g; as:

Nind awá , I make use (of some an obj.,)	awí
Nind iná , I tell him, (her, it;)	ijí
Nind ondji-naná , I kill him, (her, in,) for such a reason, (for religion's sake, etc.)	ondji-naní.
Etc. etc. . . .

REMARK. The verbs of all these kinds are irregular only in the imperative mood; but throughout all the other moods and tenses they are perfectly regular, as far as the preceding paradigms are concerned, which we have conjugated till now. But in the "Cases" this irregularity will come forth in all those tenses that are derived from the second person singular of the imperative mood; as you will see in the paradigms of the "Cases."

The greatest peculiarity as well as difficulty in this IV. Conjugation, consists in the connection of the verbs belonging to it, with the personal pronouns me, thee, us, you. We will display here the Two Cases, in which are comprised all possible modifications of the verbs of this Conjugation in connection with the above personal pronouns.

As the right use of these Cases is all important in conversation and allocution, the learner is desired to mind well the terminations, these participles, as: Nin ga-wabaminan, I who have seen thee . . . Nin ga-waba-minàmban, I who had seen thee. . . Nin ge -wabaminàn, I who will see thee... Nin ge-gi-wabaminàn, I who shall have seen thee

REMARK. In the present tense of the indicative mood, (p. 224,) we have, Ki wabamigo, for, "we see thee," and ki wabamigom, for "we see you." Properly, ki wabamigo, means, thou art seen; and ki wabamigom, you are seen. (See p. *) But it is certain that the Otchipwe language expresses it as above. You may ask, a hundred times, Otchipwe Indians that understand English: How do you say in Otchipwe: We see thee; we see you? They will always answer you: Ki wabamigo, ki wabamigom. The Otchipwe dialect of the same language has: Ki wabaminimi, for "we see thee," and ki wabaminimmi, for "we see you;" but this cannot be used in the Otchipwe dialect.

The verbs ending in awa at the first person singular indicative, make some little deviations from the preceding paradigm, as you see here below. We take again the verb, Nin nóndawa, as an example.

In conjugating these verbs in our "First case," we take of the whole termination awa, and then apply the terminations of the paradigm; because, (as you see,) nothing of this termination remains unchanged in the conjugating process of this Case.

Enigok bibágimissinogiban, kawin ki da-gi-bigiwessi. If he had not called thee very loud, thou wouldst not have returned.

FUTURE TENSE.

Jesus Debenimiian, aniniwapi ge-wabaminan ki kitchitwawis-iwining? Lord Jesus, when shall see thee in thy glory?

Awénén ge-naníbikimineg wika, Kishpin mo jag mino dodameg?

Who shall ever rebuke you, if you always do right?
Osam naningim ki giwanim, nit jaigwa ge-ondji-debwetossin-ogwa bemádisidjig; thou tellest lies too often; that is the reason why people will now not believe thee.

CONDITIONAL MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kishpin wenágwishigin wi-bi-ijaieg oma ki da-kikinoamoninim, anotch gaie gego wenijishing ki da-windamoninim. If you would come here evenings, I would teach you to read, and I would tell you many useful things.

Kawin awiia anisha ki da-minigossi gego, ged-apitchgashkito-ian tchi anokiian; nobody would give thee anything for nothing, as long as thou art able to work.

Ki da-ságiigowa, ki da-jawénimigowa Kijé-Manito kishpin wi-ánwenindisoiegoban; God would love you and would have mercy on you, if you would repent.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kawin ki da-gi-matchi-dajimigossig, kawin gaie ki da-gi-bápi-igossig, nawátch nibwakáiamban. They would not have spoken ill of thee, and they would not have laughed at thee, hadst thou been wiser, (more prudent.)

Ki da-gi -windamagom ejiwebak, dibádjimoiegoban gawaban-dameg; we would have told you how it is, had you mentioned what you have seen.

Ki da-gi-wábamin anamiéwigamigong, pindigéiamban; I would have seen thee in the church, hadst thou come in.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Debenimiian saiagiinan, inenimishin tchi apitchi sagiinan enigokodeeian. Lord, whom I love, be it thy will to give me grace to love thee from all my heart.

Kin wika waiábamigossiwan oma aking, gijigong ki wabaminagos. Thou whom we don't see here on earth, thou art visible in heaven.

Winawa minik kedeniminegog, dibadjimowag ejejiwebisiieg; all those who know you, tell how you behave.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Gi-madja aw inini mojad menaikiban ishkotewabo; that man is gone away who always gave thee to drink ardent liquor.

Win igo waiabaminegoban dibadjimo ga-dodameg; he himself who saw you, tells what you have done.

PERFECT TENSE.

Winawa wika mashi ga-nondossinokig oma eiadjig bemadis-idjig, wabang ki ga-nondagog. Those who live here and have never yet heard thee, will hear thee to-morrow.

The other tenses are formed after these two.

REMARK. You see that here (p. 282) the singular and the plural are equal. Speaking to one person only, or to several, you have to use the same inflection of the verb. This peculiarity occurs several times in this "Second Case."

The verbs ending in awa make also here some little exceptions from the preceding paradigm. The difference is especially perceptible in the third persons. In order to conjugate easily these verbs in the Second Case, you will have to take off the last syllable wa, and place instead of it the terminations of the following paradigm.

The remaining tenses of these participles are formed after these two.

The second kind of irregular verbs comprehends the verbs ending in ssá. (See page 244.) These verbs are perfectly regular in the active and passive voices, except in the second person singular imperative in the active voice. They also perfectly agree with the paradigm of the "First Case," Ki wabamin; but they deviate a little from the paradigm of the "Second Case," Ki wabam. You will see the difference here below.

We have seen, (p. 244.) that these verbs change their termin-ation ssá into shi, at the second person singular imperfect and this sh appears in the moods and tenses, which are irregular; as you will see in the following paradigm.

EXAMPLES ON THE SECOND CASE.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Debénimiian, mójag ki ganawábam, ki nóndaw gaie ningót ekitoian; kid apitchi kikenim ejiwébisiian. Lord, thou lookest always upon me, and thou hearest me when I say something; thou knowest me perfectly how I am, (or, how I behave.)

Kawin ganabátch ki nissitotawissim ekitoiàn; kawin weweni ki pisindawissim. Perhaps you don't well understand me what I am saying; you don't well listen to me.

Ki ságiigonan Debéniminang, kid inénimigonan gaie, kàginig tchi jawendágosiianggijigong. The Lord loves us, and it is his will, that we should be eternally happy in heaven.

Kawin ninidjanissinanig mo jag nin babamitagossinanig. (The person spoken to, not included.) Our children don't always obey us.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Ki ganójinaban, békish gaie kissaie nin ganónigoban; kawin dash nin kikéndansin ga-ikitoian. Thou spokest to me, and at the same time thy brother spoke to me; and so I don't know what thou hast said.

Ki bonigidetawaninig kakina ga-nishkiinangog, ga-mino-ganonissinowangog gaie. We forgive all who have offended us, and who have not spoken kindly to us. (The person spoken to, included.)

Nin bonigidetawaninig kakina ga-nishkiiiangidjig, ga-mino-ganonissiwangidjig gaie. We forgive all who have offended us, and who have not spoken kindly to us. (The person spoken to, not included.)

FUTURE TENSE.

Debenimiian, kin ge-dibakoniian waiba, gassiamawishin nin matchi dodamowinan, tchi bwa nandomiian. Lord, who shalt soon judge me, blot out my iniquities, before thou callest me.

Kinawa, mo jag ge-wi-nishiieg, awenen aw endashiieg ge-debimipan, "gi-bata-dodam," tchi iid? You who want always to kill me, who is the person among you that would tell the truth, if he said of me, "he has sinned?"

Ninidjanissidog, ta-kitchi-mino- dodam aw wika ged-agonwetawissig. My children, he that never shall disobey me, will do very right.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Igiw ge-gi-anojiiangidjig tchi bwa sigwang, gega anisha ta-anokitawawag. Those that shall have employed us before spring, will have their work done almost for nothing.

EXAMPLES ON THE TWO CASES OF THE IV. DUBITATIVE CONJUGATION.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kego ow ikitoken: Nin wabamigodog Kije-Manito.

—Gwaiak nin wabamig misiwe; ikiton mojang. Do not say: I suppose God sees me, (or perhaps he sees me.) Always say: He sees me certainly everywhere.

Osam ki sagiigodogenag kinigiigog, kawin wika ki bashanje-ogossidogenag, mi wendji-matchi-ijiwebisiian. Thy parents probably love thee too much. they perhaps never whip thee, therefore thou behavest so bad.

Ki kikénimininadog, anisha dash nongom kawin ki nissitawi-nossinoninadog. I think I know thee, but I cannot now recog-nize thee.

PERFECT TENSE.

Ki gi-nóndawidog gi-bibagiminàn, kawin dash ki gi-nakwéta-wissi. Thou but perhaps heard me when I called thee, but thou hast not answered me.

Kawin ki gi-mikwenimigossinadog gi-migiwed od aiiman; kawin sa gego ki gi-minigossinan. He has perhaps not remem-bered us when he gave away his things, because he has given us nothing.

Ki gi-wabamigowadog gi-dagwishineg; waiba tabi-ija. He has probably seen you when you arrived; he will soon come here.

FUTURE TENSE.

Ki ga-jingenimidog gegapi , osam mojak kid anwenimin. Thou wilt perhaps hate me by and by, because I reprimand thee always.

Kawin awiia ki ga-ginaamagossiudadog, kawin ningot awiia ki gad-igossiudadog, kishpin wi-madjaieg. I think nobody wilt forbid it to you, (or hinder you,) nobody will say anything to you, if you want to depart, (to go away.)

Aw oshkinawe ki ga-nandomigodog gaie kin nimiiding; kego dash ijaken. That young man will perhaps invite thee also to dancing, but don't go.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin nin kikendansin gemódimigwen, waiejimigwen, endajimigwen. I don't know whether he steals anything from me, whether he cheats me, whether he speaks ill of me.

Endogwen ekonigóssiwanen oma, kishpin bonitossiwan ishko-tewabo. I don't know whether we drive thee not away, if thou dost not abandon ardent liquor.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kawin nin kikendansin ga-bataminowanen; Kawin awiia nin gi-nondagassidog. I don't know whether I have accused thee falsely; I suppose nobody has heard me.

Oma ga-danéniissiwanen, mi ga-ondji-matchi-ikitoian; kawin dash wika ki da-matchi-ikitossi. Because thou hast probably not thought me present, therefore thou hast said bad words, but thou oughtst never to say any bad words.

Mi ga-ondji-bata-diiàn, Debenimiian, weweni ga-sagiissino-wanen. Lord, I have behaved sinfully, because, I think, I have not loved thee enough.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Kishpin kinigiigog kikeniminogwabanen gadodaman, ki da-gi-bashanjeogog ganabatch. If thy parents had known what thou hast done, they would perhaps have whipped thee.

Gagansomissiwangibanen, kawin ganabatch wika nin da-gi-anámiassimin. Had you not exhorted us, we would perhaps never have become Christians.

Wabaminowangwabanen ningotchi, gonima ki da-gi-nandomi-gonanig. If they had seen us somewhere, they would perhaps have called us.

FUTURE TENSE

Aniniwapi idog ge-jawénimiwanen, ge-mino-dodawiwanden? When shall the time come when thou shalt have pity on me and treat me well.

Niogisiss nin gad-inend; mi dash api ganabatch gewábamiwe-gwen minawa. I will be absent four months; and then (I think) you will see me again.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Aw anishinabe waiábaminowegobanen nopiming, ki wiganoni-gowa. That Indian, who saw you in the woods, (as he says,) wants to speak to you.

PERFECT TENSE.

Mi sa ogow kwiwisenag wika ganabatch ga-agonwetawissino-wegwenag; weweni ki babamitagowag. These are the boys that perhaps never have disobeyed you; they listen well to you.

Nin bonigidetawag kakina ga-gimodimigwenag anotch nind aiiman, megwa wedi gi-aiaian. I forgive all those who may have stolen from me some of my things, during my stay here.

Kawin nin wi -kikenimassiwananig ga-dajimiwangidenag. We don't want to know those that have spoken ill of us.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Kin ga-wábamiwambanen megwa kwiwisensiwiian, keiabi na ki mikwenim? Thou who hadst seen me (as they say) when I was a boy, dost thou yet remember me.

Aw inini wika ga-ganonissinogobanen, ki bi-anamikag. This man, who perhaps never had spoken to thee, comes to salute thee.

FUTURE TENSES.

Awegwen ge-jaweniminogwen, ge-matchiganonissinogwen gaie wika, nin ga-kitchi-minwendamiig.

Whosoever shall do charity to thee, (have pity on thee,) and shall never give thee bad words, he shall do me pleasure.

Anishinabedog, awegwenag wika geminaissinowegwenag iskkotewabo, ta-minododamog. Ye Indians, those who He that shall never give you ardent liquor to drink, shall do well.

Aw ged-ijiwininogwen matchi minawanigosiwining, ki ga-kitchi-banadjig. He who shall seduce thee into sinful pleasure, shall do thee great damage.

Remark. In regard to the second third person in the "Two Cases," we have to observe that in the I. Case it does not alter the verb. We say: Aw oshkinawe ki wabamig, that young man sees thee; and likewise: Aw oshkin awe ossan ki wabamig, that young man's father sees thee.

But in the II. Case there is some difference, F. i.

After these two tenses all the others of the participles are formed.

Remark 1. You see in these Examples, that the syllable im is inserted between the body of the verb and the terminations; and this syllable indicates the report to a second third person in the sentence.

Remark 2. The number makes no difference in these expres-sions. Nin wabamiman ogwissan, means, I see his son, or, his sons. O wabandamawan odanan, means, he sees his daughter, or, his daughters.

V. CONJUGATION.

Besides the transitive or active verbs animate, belonging to the preceding Conjugation, which all terminate in a, there is another kind of these verbs, ending in nan, at the first person singular indicative; and likewise so at the third person. And these verbs belong to this V. Conjugation.

Here are some verbs of this Conjugation.

Remark. The verbs of the V. Conj. cannot be given in the Two Cases by themselves, but only by the help of the following sub-stantives with possessive pronouns, viz: niiaw, my body; kiiaw, thy body; wiiaw, his (her) body; niiawinanin, our bodies; kiiawinanin, our bodies; kiiawiwān, your bodies; wiiawiwān, their bodies; which are employed to express the personal pronouns, I, me; he, she, it, him, her; we, us; you, ye; they, them. In the "Examples on the V. Conj.," and "on the V. Dubit. Conj.," you will find several which contain the above words, by which, as you will see, the "Two Cases" are expressed, (I . . . thee; thou . . . me.) These expressions are so natural to the Otchipwe language, that they are correctly applied even to the Lord God, who has no body; because they stand for the personal pronouns, and are not used with the intention to signify a material body.

Here follow some Examples illustrating the use of the above surrogates of personal pronouns.

Mi aw inini bemitod niiaw; (mi aw inini bemiid, nin widigema-gan.) This is the man that takes care of me, (my husband.)

Nin jawendan niiaw; (nin jawenindis.) I have pity on myself. Kishpin matchi ijiwebisiian, nin kikendan jingendamàn niiaw; (jingenindisoàn.) If I behave bad, I know that I hate myself.

O gi-niton wiiaw ga-apitch-kashkendang; gi-nissidiso.) He was so sad, that he killed himself.

Jesus o gi-kitimagiton wiiaw, kinawind ondji;(gi-kitimagii-diso.) Jesus made himself poor for our sake.

Aw oshkinawe o mino dodan wiiaw mino ijiwebisid; (mino dodaso.) This young man does good to himself in behaving well.

Nin wi-mino-ganawendamin niiawinanin tchi-bataijiwebisiss-iwang; (nin wi-minoganawenindisomin.) We will take well care of ourselves, that we may not sin; (the person spoken to, not included.)

Ki banadjitomin kiawinanin, kishpin babamendansiwang anamiewin; (ki banadjiidisomin.) We ruin (injure) ourselves, if we don't care for religion; (the person spoken to, included.)

Enamiaieg, weweni ganawendamog kiiawiwan, tchi matchi ijiwebisissiweg; (weweni ganawenindisoig.) Christians, take well care of yourselves, in order not to behave had.

Enamiassiweg, jawendamog kiiawiwan; (jawenindisog;) kagige kotagitowining kid apagitonawan kiiawiwan. kishpin jingen-dameg anamiewin; (kid apaidisom.) Pagans, have mercy on yourselves; you are precipitating yourselves into eternal misery, if you hate religion.

Osam nibiwa wassinidjig od akositonawan wiiawiwan: (akosiidisowag.) Those that eat too much, make themselves sick.

Nind inag abinodjiiag tchi binitowad wiiawiwan, tchi bwa bi-ijawad kikinoamading, (tchi biniidisowad.) I tell the children to clean themselves before they come to school.

The Indians are fond of these expressions. This you will experience very soon, if you observe them attentively when they are speaking.

EXAMPLES ON THE V. CONJUGATION.

Kawin nin da-atawessinag nin bebejigoganjimag, kitimagisi-ssiwán. I would not sell my horses, were I not poor.

PERFECT TENSE.

Nongom ki da-gi-ijamin kimissenan, osam dash kissinamagad, sogipo gaie. We would have gone to-day to see our sister, but it is too cold, and it snows.

Kawin aw anishinabe ki da-gi-apenimossinan, osam waiejin-geshki. Thou oughtst not to have relied on that Indian, he is too deceitful.

* See Remark 8. p. 119.

Debendjiged ki Kije-Manitom eta enigokodeeian apenimon, kego dash gwetch awiia bemadisd apenimoken. Trust in the Lord thy God only from all thy heart, but don't trust much in anybody living on earth.

Ijakan aw aiakosid inini, jawenim, geget kitchi kotagito. Go to that sick man, be charitable to him, he suffers much indeed.

O gad-atawenan od opwaganan, kego dash o moshweman o gad-atawessinan; nind ina aw anishinabe . I say to that Indian thus: Let him sell his pipe, but let him not sell his handkerchief.

Ijadanig anishinabeg awi-gagikimangwa; kego dash atawewinini nongom ijassida. Let us go to the Indians to preach to them, (to exhort them,) but let us not go today to the trader.

Enishinabewiieg, kego gimodikegon opinig kitiganing; ki gad-animisim. Ye Indians, don't steal potatoes in the field you will be punished for it.

O gad-ashangenawan kokoshan, pakwejiganan gaie. Let them give pork and flour, (for food, not for sale, etc.)

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin wika nin ga-wanenimassig epenimodjig niiaw, kaginig nin ga-widokawag; ikito Debeniminang. I will never forget those who trust in me, I will always assist them, saith the Lord.

Epenimod anishinaben, naningim waiejima; Kije-Maniton dash epenimod, ka wika waiejimassi. He that trusts in man, is often deceived but he that trusts in God, is never deceived. Apitchi matchi dodam aw masinitchiganan menitoked. Enamiassigog mi igiw menitokedjig masinitchiganan.

He that adores an image, (idol,) does exceedingly wrong. Pagans (heathen) are those who adore images, (idols.)

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Nibiwa enamiadjig gwetch epenimossigobanig kiiáw, Debenimiiang, nongom anwenindisowag. Many Christians who did not much trust in thee, O Lord, are now repenting.

Winawa epenimopanig anishinaben, nongom ágatchiwag gi-waiejimindwa. Those who trusted in man are ashamed now, because they were deceived.

Kinawa wika etawangessiwegoban joniiia, ki kitchi jawenda-gosim. You who never borrowed any money, you are very happy.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kinawa wika ga-apenimossiweg joniiia, osawa joniiia gaie, geget ki kitchi danim, ki jawendagosim gaie . You who never put your trust in silver and gold, you are truly rich and happy.

Aw ikwe ga-anokid akikon, o ga-bi- nanan. The woman that ordered a kettle, may come and fetch it.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Igiw ga-manitokepanig masininin, nongom meshkwat Kije-Maniton eta o gad-anokitawawan. Those that had worshipped images (idols) before, shall now in return serve God only.

Kinawa ga-apenimoiegoban aw inini, gi-bwa-kikenimeg, ki wabandanawa nongom, gi-gíwanimigoieg. You who had trusted in that man before you knew him, you see now that you have been belied, (deceived.)

FUTURE TENSE.

EXAMPLES ON THE V. DUBITATIVE CONJUGATION.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin Kije-Maniton od apenimossinadogenan, mi apitchi wendji-segisid. He does probably not put his trust in God; that is the reason he fears so much.

Kawin abissiwag; anishinaben od ijanawadogenan. They are not at home; they probably are visiting the Indians, (on a visit to the Indians.)

Kid apenimomwadog niiaw, ininiwidog, mi ganabatch wendji-nasikawieeg nongom. Men, I suppose you place your confidence in me; that is perhaps the reason you come to me to-day.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kid inawemaganag ki gi-ijanadogena pitchinago; kawin sa kabe-gijig ki gi-wabamissinon. Thou hast probably been to see thy relations yesterday; so I did not see thee all day.

Aw oshkinawe osam o gi-apenimonadogenan, kakina gego anisha tchi ondinamagad; kawin dash gi-anokissi. That young fellow relied perhaps too much on him, that he would let him have all things for nothing; and so he did not work.

Kawin mashi o gi-ijassinadogenan mekatewikwanaien, panima wabang ganabatch o gad-ijanan. He has probably not yet been to see the Missionary; he will perhaps go to him tomorrow.

FUTURE TENSE.

Nin gi-agónabanig awassonago nind agimag wedi éjad aw anishinabe; o ga-gimodinadogenan nind agiman. I had hung up, the day before yesterday, my snow-shoes, there where that Indian is going; he will perhaps take my snow-shoes.

Ininiwidog, kawin nongom gwetch ki gad-apenimossimwadog niiaw, kawin sa wika ki babamitossinoninim. Men, you will now probably not put much confidence in me, because I never do what you ask me.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin nin kikendansin daié-apenimowanen Debendjiged aiapitchi-kijewadisid, misi gego gaie kekendang. I know not whether I trust enough in the Lord who is so exceedingly merciful, and who knows all.

will come, when thou shalt not associate any more with card-players and drinkers.

VI. CONJUGATION.

To this Conjugation belong all the verbs transitive or active, inanimate. The object, upon which acts the subject of these verbs, is always comprised in the verb; as: Nin wabandan, does not mean only, I see; but, I see it, (some inanimate object. See page 18.)

All the verbs of this Conjugation end in n, (an, en, in, on,) at the first person singular, present, indicative; and likewise so at the characteristical third person.

Here are a few verbs belonging to this Conjugation.

1st. person.	3rd. person.
Nin débwetan , I believe it,	o debwetan
Nin kikéndan , I know it,	, o
Nin minikwén , I drink it,	kikendan , o
Nind apándjigen , I eat it with some other thing,	minikwen ,
Nin mídjin , I eat it, (some in, obj.,)	od
Nind agwín , I put it on, (clothing,)	apandjigen .
Nin bidon , I bring it,	o midjin ,
Nin bíton , I wait for it,	od
	agwin ,
	o bidon ,
	o biton .

NOTE. In the paradigm this final n, is placed among the terminations, because it does not always remain with the verb.

In all the moods, tenses and persons, not mentioned here above, this verb is exactly conjugated after Nin wabandan.

Remark. 2. All the verbs of this Conjugation, ending in an, are exactly conjugated after the preceding paradigm, Nin waban-dan. But the verbs ending in en, in, and on, undergo a little difference in some moods and tenses. We shall point out here this difference. The moods and tenses which are not mentioned in the following paradigm, are conformable to the above paradigm, Nin wabandan.

We take the verb, Nin ságiton, I like it, for an example; but the verbs in, en, and on, are conjugated exactly like those in on.

In the Affirmative form the whole indicative mood of Nin sagiton, is exactly conjugated as in Nin wabandan.

But in the Negative form you have to remember, that in the terminations of this form, the letters ns in the preceding paradigm, are always changed into ss, for the verbs in en, in, and on. So, for instance, you say: Kawin nin wabandansin; change this ns into ss, for the verb, Nin sagiton, and you will have: Kawin nin sagitossin. And so on, always changing ns into ss. This is the only little difference between Nin wabandan and Nin sagiton, etc., for the whole indicative mood. But in the subjunctive mood there is some more discrepance; as you see here below.

REMARK. Respecting the verbs ending in en, in and on, (page 349,) you will please remember, that in all the cases where the verbs ending in an, take the syllable mo in the Dubitative Conjugation, this syllable is taken out, for the verbs ending in en, in, and on. So you say: Waiabandamowánen, waiabanda-mogwen, etc... but you will not say: Saiagitomowànen, saiagitomogwen; but: Saiagitowànen, saiagitogwen; and so forth, always taking out the syllable mo, for the verbs in en, in, and on.

VII. CONJUGATION.

In order to accommodate all the verbs of the Otchipwe language, we must establish three more Conjugations, for the unipersonal verbs; (see page 87.) One of these Conjugations will be for the unipersonal verbs ending in a vowel; the two others will be for those ending in a consonant.

To this VII. Conjugation then belong all the unipersonal verbs ending in a vowel. This vowel may be a, e, i, or o.

Here are a few verbs belonging to this Conjugation.

Kissná, it is cold, (speaking of the weather.)

Sasagá, it is full of brushes, or underwood.

Jibéia, there are no brushes, no underwood.

Ijinikáde, it is called, (some inanimate object.)

Ijitchigáde, it is made, constructed.

Dagonigáde, it is mixed with . . .

Kijáte, it is warm, (speaking of the weather.)

Dimí, it is deep, (a river, etc.)

Mashkawágami, it is strong, (a liquid.)

Miskwágami, it is red, (a liquid.)

Makatéwagami, it is black, (a liquid.)

Dagó, there is, it is.

Sógipo, it snows.

To this Conjugation also belong all the verbs which we call Abundance-verbs, (see p. 87,) which all end in ka, and are unipersonal. You will find a few of these verbs on the same page. And some of the in. Numeral verbs, which have only the plural, ending in wan. Some verbs of this Conjugation have only the third person singular, as: Kissina, kijate, sogipo, etc. Others have the third person singular and plural, as: Ijinikade, ijinikadewan; até, atéwan, etc.

Gi-apitchi-áteban kid ishkotemiwa bwa bi-madjaian. Your fire had been quite out, before I started to come here.

Kawin gwetch gi-sogipossinoban bibonong bwa Nibáanamiegi-jigak. Last winter it had not much snowed before Christmas-day.

FUTURE TENSE.

Waïba ow wákaigan ta-bigobidjigade, bekanak dash nawatch metchag ta-ojitchigade. This house will soon be taken down, and another one larger than this will be constructed.

Kawin ta-webinigadessinon ow wágakwad, tannaitchigade dash, ginwenj dash keiabi ta-onijishin. This axe will not be thrown away, but it will be repaired, and will be useful yet a long time.

Pindigadoiog nibiwa missán; ta-kissinadog tibikad; ta-kissinti-bikad,) Bring in much wood; I think it will be cold to-night.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kawin weweni anokissim, kishpin osam kijateg; kawin gaie mino bimossessim, kishpin sogipog kabe -gijig. One does not work well when it is too warm and one does not travel well when it is snowing all day.

Kishpin pangi eta bodawadeg kijapikisiganing, pabige kitchi kijide oma pindig. When a little fire only is made in the stove, it is immediately very warm in this room.

Endogwen degonigadessinogwen ishkotewabo oma mishimin-abong. I don't know whether there is no ardent liquor mixed with this cider.

PERFECT TENSE.

Anamikodading gi-odjitchisseg, mi api gawabamag ishkwatch. When New Year's day was arrived, (on New Year's day,) I have seen him the last time.

Gi-sanagad ganabatch minissing bibonong, midjim gwetch gi-atessinogwen.* It has probably been distressing on the island last winter, because there have not been many provisions there, I think.

*See Note, p. 97.

Osam gi-kissinag kabe-gijig, mi ba-ondji-ijassigwen. He did probably not come, because it has been so cold all day.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Gwaiak ganawendjigadegiban ki kitiganiwa, kawin pijikiwag da-gi-pindigessiwag. Had your field been well guarded, (taken care of,) cattle would not have come in.

Weweni ijibiigadessinogiban ki masinaigan, kawin nin da-gi-nissitawinansin. Had thy letter not been written well, (distinctly,) I would not have been able to read it.

FUTURE TENSE.

Aniniwapi ged-odjitchisseg Pak?—Mi api ged-ishkwa-sogipo-gwen. When will Easter be, (arrive?)—I suppose it will cease snowing at that time.

Aniniwapi ged-ishkwa-ateg maianadak oma aking?—Gi-ish-kwa-akiwang sa. When shall no more evil be on earth?—When earth shall be no more.

CONDITIONAL MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Akosiwin, nibowin gaie kawin da-atessinon, kishpin batadowin atessinog. There would be no sickness and no death, if there be no sin.

Da-kitchi-kijate nongom, kishpin nodinsinog.—Da-gijigate nongom tibikak, kishpin mijakwak, (mijakwanitibikak.) It would be very warm to-day if there be no wind.—It would be light this night, if there be clear weather.

PERFECT TENSE.

Mewija onow wakaiganan da-gi-sakidewan, kakina da-gi-tchagidewan, oma aiassiwàmban, These houses would have caught fire long ago, and would have all burnt down, had I not been here.

Kawin mashkossiwan da-gi-debissessinon kabe-bibon, bejig pijiki nissassiwindiban. Hay would not have been sufficient all winter, had one of the oxen not been killed.

Nibiwa mino dodamowinan jaigwa da-gi - wabandjigadewan oma odenang, nond nibossigoban aw inini gamino- gagikimad oma enamianidjin. Many good works would have been seen here in the village, were that man not dead so soon, who exhorted so well these Christians.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Wewib ta- bosidjigadewan nind aiiman, nin wi-madja. Let my things be shipped immediately, I'll go away.

Kego ta-bodawadessinon, kawin sa kissinassinon, abawa jaigwa. Let no fire be made, it is not cold, the weather is already mild.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Minik ejibiigadeg Kije- Manito o masinaiganing, apitchi debwewinagad. All that is written in the Bible, (in God's book,) is perfectly true.

*Kakina aking eteg kawin nin babamendansin, mekwendamànin minik gijigong endagog. For all that is on earth I don't care, as soon (or, as often) as I remember what is in heaven.

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Wegonen iw endagogobanen kitchi kitiganing, gadaji-bimadi-siwad nitam ánishinabeg? What is that that was (or, what was) in the great garden, (Paradise,) where the first men lived?

Pitchinago kakina nind aiiman misiwe etegibanin nin gi-mawandjitanan; nongom weweni nin wiganawendanan. Yesterday I gathered all my things together, that were scat-tered about; I will now well take care of them.

PERFECT TENSE.

Mi mandan masinaigan ga-apitchi-songitchigadeg; kawin awiia o ga-bigobidossin. This is the document which has been so much strengthened; nobody shall break it, (make it void.)

Nin bidon kakina ga-ishkwasseg gi -ojitoian ki babisikawagan I bring all that has remained when I have been making thy coat.

* See Remark 1, p.130

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Iw assini-ajogan mewija nawátch ga-ojitchigadegobanen, kawin mashi nin wabandansin. That stone bridge which had been constructed (built) a considerable time ago, I have not seen it yet.

Nongom pitchinag nin nondamin iw wenijishing ikitowin, wika mashi ga-wawindjigadessinogiban oma. Now only we hear that excellent word, (doctrine,) which never had been announced here before.

FUTURE TENSE.

Anin iw minik ge-debisseg?—Namandj minik ge-debissegwen. How much will be enough?—I don't know how much shall be enough.

Minik nongom metchi-dodameg gimodj, mi iw kakina ge-kikendjigadeg dibakonige-gijigak. All that you are doing now wrong, secretly, that will all be known on the day of judgment.

Some Examples in regard to the second third person, expressed by an inanimate object.

Wawiiatan ijinikadeni odena endanisid; kawin bakan ijinikadessinini. The city where he lives, is called Detroit, it is not called otherwise.

Gagikwe-masinaiganan ijinikadeniwan o masinaiganan, kawin bakan ijinikadessininiwan. His books are called sermon books, they are not called otherwise.

Kishpin bakan ijinikadenig ow od aiim; kishpin gaie onow od aiiman bakan ijinikadenig, (or, ijinikadenigiban,) ki da-win-damon. If this his property (his thing,) be called otherwise; and if these his things be called otherwise, I would tell thee.

Kishpin bakan ijinikadessininig ow od aiim, kishpin gaie onow od aiiman bakan ijinikadessininig, ki gi-debwe. If this his thing be not called otherwise, and if these his things be not called otherwise, thou hast told the truth.

VIII. CONJUGATION.

To this Conjugation belong all the unipersonal verbs ending in ad, as:

Sanagád, it is difficult, hard, disagreeable; dear, high in price.

Wénipanad, it is easy; cheap.

Manadad, it is bad, wrong, malicious.

Mindokad, there is dew on the ground.

Anakwad, it is cloudy.

Mijakwad, the weather is fair, clear, no clouds.

Etc. etc.

NOTE. The verbs of the preceding Conjugation become often verbs of this VIII. Conjugation, by taking the termination magad, which does not alter at all their signification, as:

Kijéte, it is warm weather; kijátemagad,

Kissina, it is cold weather; kissinámagad,

Sógipo, it snows; sógipomagad,

Mitcha, it is big, large; mitchámagad,

Agássa, it is small, narrow; agássamagad.

To this Conjugation also belong the personifying verbs of the second kind, (see p. 85,) which are formed by adding magad to the third person singular, present, indicative, of verbs belonging to the I. II. and III. Conjugations. (See Examples of these verbs on the same page.)

NOTE. Some verbs of this Conjugation have only the third person singular; others have the plural also.

Here is the paradigm of a verb of the VIII. Conjugation, Kitchi aiékosim bimosseng, kishpin osam abawag, jakagonagag gaie. A person is very much tired by walking, when the weather is too mild and the snow soft.

PERFECT TENSE.

Nin migwetchitoendam gi -dawishinomagassinog kitchi akosi-win oma endanakiiang. I am thankful that the great sickness, (plague, epidemic,) has not come here where we live.

Sigwanong waiba nin gi-bimishkamin, waiba gi-jagigamiwang. Last spring we have traveled soon in canoes, (boats, etc.,) because the ice has cleared out soon.

Gi-wendak apitchi anokadjigan, mi sa nibiwa ga-onджи-gishpi-nadoian. I have bought much, because merchandise has been so cheap.

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Osam sanagassinogiban bimossewin, mino gijigakiban gaie, pitchinago nin da-gi-dagwishinimin. Had walking not been so difficult, and had the weather been fair, we would have arrived yesterday.

Minwanimakiban, kimiwansinogiban gaie, jéba ki da-gi-bosi-min. Had the wind been fair, and had it not rained, we would have embarked this morning.

FUTURE TENSE.

Sigwang mi api ge-kitchi-sanagadogwen oma, kiwe. Namándj ged-ijiwebadogwen. Next spring, they say, it will be distress-ful here. I don't know what shall happen.

Aniniwapi ge-madjissemagak kid anonigosiwin? Nissogwana-gak mi api ge- madjisseg. When will the time of thy employ-ment begin? In three days it will begin.

Kawin nin kikendansin api ged-odjitchissemagak nin nibowin. I do not know when the time of my death shall come.

CONDITIONAL MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Da-kitchi-sanagad kakina gego, kishpin bejig eta atawéwinini oma aiad. Every thing would be very dear, if there be only one merchant here.

Kawin bapish da-minwendagwassinon oma, geget da kitchi-kashkendagwad, kishpin kin madjaian. It would not be agree-able at all here, it would be very sad indeed, if thou shouldst go away from here.

PERFECT TENSE.

Iaigwa da-gi-jágigamiwan nongom; osam dash anwatin, kawin wika nodinsinon. The ice would already have gone away now; but it is too calm, it never blows

Da-gi-beshowad anamiewigamig, oma wakaigéiangoban. The church would have been near, had we built our house here.

Kawin da-gi-ijiwebassinon, oma aiaiamban. It would not have happened had I been here.

Mewija da-gi -onijishin mangiji, nawátch waíba dagwishingiban aw inini. All would have been well (right) here long ago, had that man come here sooner.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Ta-wasseiamagad. gi -ikito Debeniminang Kije-Manito; mi dash ga-iji -wasseiamagak. Let there be light, said our Lord God; and there was light.

Kego osam ta-sanagassinon kid aiiman, mano ta-wendadon; nin gi-ina atawewinini. Let your goods not be too dear, let them be cheap; said I to the merchant.

PARTICIPLES.

PRESENT TENSE.

Kakina gego maianadak, keshkendagwak gaie, atemagad oma aking; gijigong dash aiapitchi-minwendagwak eta dagoma-gad. All that is evil, and all that causes sorrow, is here on earth; but in heaven is only that which gives the greatest contentment, (joy.)

Ojindan kakina wenijishinsinogin ikitowinan. Shun all words that are not fair, (indecent.)

IMPERFECT TENSE.

Kakina gego wenijishinsinogiban nin gi-bonitomin nongom. All that was not good, (not fair) we have given it up now.

Kitchi nibiwa anokadjigan, oma atawéwigamigong etemagado-gobanen, gi -tchagidemagad tibikong.
A great many goods that were in this store, (as I understood,) have burnt down last night.

PERFECT TENSE.

Kego debwetangegon iw babamadjimowin gadagwishinoma-gak oma. Believe not the report that has been brought here. Wegotogwen gajjiwebadogwen; gonima ta-matchi-inakami-gad. I don't know what may have happened; perhaps we will hear bad news.

Ki gi-gishpinadonan na papagiwaianan ga-apitchi-wendakin?

Hast thou bought the shirts that have been so very cheap?

PLUPERFECT TENSE.

Ki gi -wabandanawa na kitchi anamiewigamig gategiban oma bwa sakideg odena? Have you seen the large church that was here, before the town burnt down?

Eko-aiamagak anamiewin oma, nin wabandamin, wika ga-wabandjigadessinogiban oma; nin nondamin gaie, wika oma gannondagemagassinogiban gaiat. Since religion is in this place, we see, what never had been seen here before; and we hear, what never before had been heard here.

FUTURE TENSE.

Nabikwaning, nitam ge-bagamassinogwen sigwang, mi ima ge-bosiián. I will embark in the vessel, which shall first arrive here next spring.

Kego missawendangegon daniwin waiba ge-banadak; nanda-wendamog dash iw wika gebanadassinog daniwin gijigong.

Don't wish for (or covet) riches that will soon decay, (perish;) but seek those riches in heaven, which never will decay, (perish.)

Osam ki babamendan kiiaw waiba ge- nibomagak, aw dash ki tchitchag wika ge-nibossig, kawin ki babameni massi. Thou takest too much care of thy body, which will soon die; but of thy soul which never will die, thou dost not take any care.

SECOND FUTURE TENSE.

Dibakonige-gijigak kakina ta kikendjigade, minik ge-gi-ijiwe-bak oma aking. On the day of judgment all will be known that shall have happened here on earth.

Kakina ge-gi -kádjigademagak nongom aking, wedi mijishá ta-nagwad. All that shall have been hid now on earth, will appear there openly.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Defective verbs are called those which are not used in all the moods, tenses and persons of common verbs. There are some defective verbs in the Otchipwe language; as: Iwa, he (she, it) says, (inquit.)

Iwíban, he (she, it) said.

Iwíbanig, they said.

Gi-iwá, he (she, it) has said.

This is all I ever heard of this verb. There is another defective, and also irregular verb, which is somewhat more complete than the above. In the following paradigm are exhibited the moods, tenses and persons, which are commonly used of this verb. It has several significations; it signifies: I do, I am, I conduct myself, etc.

AFFIRMATIVE FORM.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.

Nind ind, I do, I am,
kid ind,
 (di,) ino, he (she it) is,
 ino, it is, (in. object,) win ga-did, (ga-digid), iw ga-ing, it that has been, (in. obj.)

Nin ga-dissiwàn, I who have not done, kin ga-dissiwàn, thou who, etc. . .

Etc., after the present tense.

FUTURE TENSE.

Nin ge-diian, I who shall be, do, etc.,

kin ge-diian, thou who shalt do, etc., win ge-digid, (ge-did), he (she, it) who .

iw ge-ing, it that shall be, (in. obj.)

Nin ge-dissiwàn, I who shall not be, do, kin ge-dissiwàn, thou who, etc. . .

Etc., after the above present tense.

* See Remark at the end of this paradigm.

Here are some of the most common cases of CHANGE in this defective verb.

PRESENT TENSE.

Mi endiian, it is thus I am, I do,
I behave, mi endiian, it is thus thou art, thou art so, mi endid, mi eng, it is thus, it is, it is so, mi endiiang, (ninawind,) mi endiiang, (kinawind,) mi endiieg, mi endowad, it is thus they are, they do so, etc., Endiianin, *when I am so, when I do so, etc., éndiianin, when thou art so, etc., endidjin, endiiangon, (endiiangon,) endiieg, endowadjin,

PERFECT TENSE.

Mi ga-diiàn, it is thus I have done, I have been, etc., mi ga-diiàn, mi ga-did, (ga-digid,) mi ga-ing, it was thus it happened, it has been so, etc.,
mi ga-diiàng,
mi ga-diiang,
mi ga-dowad, so they have been, done, etc.,

*See Remark at the end of this paradigm.

FUTURE TENSE.

Mi ge-diiàn, it is thus I shall be, so I will do, mi ge-diian, mi ge-digid, (ge-did),
mi ge-ing, it is thus it shall happen, it will be so, or, be it so, (in the imperfect mood,) (ainsi soit-il.)

Remark. The prefix en in endiian, éndiian, etc., is only an effect of the CHANGE (see p. 130.) It is omitted in compositions; as: Ga-diiàn, ge-diiàn; nin baiatá-diian, I a sinner: baitá-digid, a sinner; baiatá-didjig, sinners, etc. The end-syllable in, in endiianin, etc., is likewise an effect of the CHANGE, in another case; (see pages 139. and 140.)

Here are some specimens of the Dubitative of this defective verb.

Endowanen, I don't know how I am, how I do, etc., endowanen, I don't know how thou art, etc., endogwen, I don't know how he (she, it) does, etc., endowàngen, I don't know how we are, do, behave, etc., endowangen, I don't know how we are, do, behave, etc., endowegwen, I don't know how you are, do, . . .
endowagwen, I don't know how they are, behave, etc. Endogobanen, how he (she, it) was, did, endowagobanen, how they did, were, etc., Ga-dowaen, how I have been, how I have done, ga-dowanen, how thou hast been, etc., ga-dogwen, how he, . . .

ga-inogwen, how it has been,
(in. obj.) ga-dowangen, how we have been, etc.

Etc. . .

Ge-dowànen, how I shall be, how I will do, etc., ged-inogwen, how it shall be, how it will happen, ge-dowàngen, how we shall be, how we will do, behave, etc.

Etc.

A few Examples on the Defective Verbs.

Wabang nin wi-madja, kitchi ginwenj dash nin gad-inend, iwá. He says; I will depart (start) to-morrow, and will be absent very long.

Ki gi-wabama na? nind ano gagwedjima.—Kawin ki wiwindamossinan, iwá dash. I ask him indeed: Hast thou seen him? but he says: I will not tell thee.

Nin ga-gosimin wabang; iwibanig pitchinago. They said yester-day: We will move to-morrow.

Wegonen ga-ikitod awishtoia?—Nin gad-ojiton wagakwad; gi-iwá sa. What has the blacksmith said?—He has said: I will make the axe.

Egatchingin nind indimin, mojang bata-diiang. We behave shamefully, because we are sinning always.

Kawin gwaiak nind indissimin; nin pagwanawadisimin. We do not act right, (not behave well,) we live in darkness, (in uncertainty.)

Wejimongin ani -ino matchi minawanigosiwin. Sinful pleasure is like a thing that flies away.

Eshwamanissongin ino aw inini, kawin gwaiak dissì. He is like a man that is afraid; he is not well.

Kinawa baiatá-diieg, aiándj kid indim nishkiiieg; ki gad-animisim anwenindisossiweg. Ye sinners, you always behave so as to offend me; you will suffer if you do not repent.

Debenimiian, bi- widokawishin tchi mino diian. Lord, help me, (assist me,) that I may behave well.

Wanendamawishin ga-bi-diiàn: kawin minawa nin ga-widissì.

Forget what I have done; I will not do so any more.

Debenimiiang, widokawishinam ningot endiiangin; angotamawishinam gaie (ga-bi -diiang.) Lord, assist us when anything happens us; and take from us what we have done, (committed,) (our sins.)

Enénimiwanen mi ge-diiàn.—Eji-minwendaman, mi kaginig ge-wi-diiang. Whatever is thy will in regard to me, so I will do.—We will always behave according to thy pleasure. Endiiang nongom, mi endowagobanen gaiat ga-bimadisigo banenag aking. As we are now, so were probably those who had lived on earth in olden times.

Debenimiian, ganawenimishin minik ge-dowànen.

Lord, take care of me, whatever may happen to me, (however I may be.)

Aianjeniwiian, anin dash iw ged-inogwen? Angel, how will that be?

Debenimiian, kaginig dibendan ge-dowàngen, minik gaie ge-kitimagisiwàngen. Lord, always govern, (be master of,) what-ever we shall be, and whatever misery (poverty,) shall befall us.

Anin endiian nongom? Endiian sa nind ind. How dost thou do to-day? I do as I do.

FORMATION OF VERBS.

There are several kinds or modifications, of verbs in the Otchipwe language which are formed from principal verbs,* or substantives, to express different circumstances.

We will exhibit here those kinds of verbs, and give the rules for their formation, in as much as Rules can be indicated for those modifications.

I. RECIPROCAL VERBS.

They show a reaction of the subject on itself. They all end in as or dis, at the first person singular, indicative, present; and at the third person in o, belong to the I. Conjugation. Here are the Rules for their formation.

* We call principal verbs, the transitive proper, and the intransitive proper verbs.

RULE 1. Transitive verbs ending in awa change their last syllable wa into s in order to form reciprocal verbs.

EXAMPLES.

Nin babámitawa, I obey him; nin babamitas, I obey myself.

Nin nóndawa, I hear him; nin nondas, I hear myself.

Nin kikinoamawa, I teach him; nin kikinoamas, I teach myself

Nin pisindawa I listen to him; nin pisindas, I listen to myself.

Nind anokitawa, I work for him; nind anokitas, I work for myself.

RULE 2. Transitive verbs ending in aa, ea, ia, oa, or a with a preceding consonant, (excepting m and w,) change the final a into idis.

EXAMPLES.

Nin minaa, I give him to drink; nin minaidis, I give to drink to myself.

Nin wabandaa, I show it to him; nin wabandaidis, I show it to myself.

Nin bakadéa I make him starve; nin bakadeidis, I make myself starve.

Nin gagibishéa, I make him deaf; nin gagibisheidis, I make my-self deaf.

Nin ságia, I love him; nin sagiidis, I love myself.

Nin bápia, I laugh at him; nin bápiidis, I laugh at myself.

Nin nódjimoa, I save or cure him; nin nódjimoidis, I cure my-self.

Nin móa, I make him weep; nin móidis, I make myself weep Nin nissá, I kill him; nin nissidis, I kill myself.

Nin ganona, I speak to him; nin ganonidis, I speak to myself.

RULE 3. Transitive verbs ending in owa, change their last syllable wa into dis.

EXAMPLES.

Nin pakiteowa, I strike him; nin pakiteodis, I strike myself.

Nin bashanjeowa, I whip him; nin bashanjeodis, I whip myself.

Nind agwanaowa, I cover him; nind agwanaodis, I cover myself.

Nin bashibaowa, I stab him; nin bashibaodis, I stab myself.

RULE 4. Transitive verbs ending in ma, change this syllable into ndis.

EXAMPLES.

Nin wábama, I see him nin wabandis, I see myself.

Nin kikénima, I know him; nin kikenindis, I know myself.

Nin jawénima, I have mercy on him; nin jawenindis, I have mercy on myself.

Nin kitimágenima, I pity him; nin kitimagenindis, I pity myself. Nind ánwenima, I reprimand him; nind anwenindis, I repremand myself.

II. COMMUNICATIVE VERBS.

These verbs show a mutual action of two or more subjects upon each other. They have only the plural number, and they all end in dimin, at the first person plural, indicative, present. (To the I. Conj.) They are formed after the reciprocal verbs, according to the following Rules.

RULE 1. In the reciprocal verbs ending in as, change this as into adimin, in order to make communicative verbs.

EXAMPLES.

Nin nondas, I hear myself; nin nondadimin, we hear each other. Nin nissitotas, I understand myself; nin nissitotadimin, we understand each other.

Nin mino dodas, I do good to myself; nin mino dodadimin, we do good to each other.

Nin pisindas, I listen to myself; nin pisindadimin, we listen to each other.

Nind anokitas, I work for myself; nind anokitadimin, we work for each other.

RULE 2. In the reciprocal verbs ending in dis, change this syllable into dimin.

EXAMPLES.

Nin bamiidis, I take care of myself; nin bamiidimin, we take care of each other.

Nin nishkiidis, I make myself angry; nin nishkiidimin, we make each other angry.

Nin gashkiidis, I prevail upon myself; nin gashkiidimin, we prevail upon each other.

Nin pakiteodis, I strike myself; nin pakiteodimin, we strike each other.

Nin jingenindis, I hate myself; nin jingenindimin, we hate each other.

Nin gagikindis, I recommend to myself; nin gagikindimin, we recommend to each other.

Nin ganawenindis, I take care of myself; nin ganawenindimin, we take care of each other.

NOTE. The personal pronoun ki is to be employed instead of nin in the communicative verbs in the first person, when the person spoken to is included. (See Remark 3, p. 45.)

III. PERSONIFYING VERBS.

They serve to represent an inanimate thing as doing actions of an animate being. There are two kinds of these verbs; the one ending in on, and the other in magad.

I have already spoken of the formation of these verbs, and I have here only to refer you for the formation of those of the first kind to page 362 and of the second kind to Page 85.

IV. REPROACHING VERBS.

A reproaching verb is used in order to signify that its subject has a habit or quality, which is a reproach to him. They are all derived from intransitive verbs of the I. Conjugation, and they also all belong to this Conjugation, because they all end in i at the characteristical third person.

The only Rule for their formation is this: Take the verb you want to transform into a reproaching verb, in the third person singular, indicative, present, affirmative form, and add shk to this person, and you have the reproaching verb.

EXAMPLES.

Nin niba, I sleep; 3rd. person niba; nin nibashk, I sleep too much.

Nin minikwe, I drink; 3rd. person minikwe; nin minikweshk, I drink too much; I am a drunkard.

Nin masinaige, I make debts; 3rd. person masinaige; nin masinaigeshk, I make always debts.

Nin maw, I weep, cry; 3rd. person mawi; nin mawishk, I cry too much or too often.

Nin nim, I dance; 3rd. person nimi; nin nimishk, I dance too often, too much.

Nin migas, I fight; 3rd. person migas; nin migasoshk, I am in a habit of fighting.

V. SUBSTANTIVE VERBS PROPER.

This kind of verb is derived from substantives. They end in i at the third person. (I. Conj.) In regard to the formation of these verbs, two Rules are to be observed, viz :

RULE 1. To a substantive animate or inanimate, ending in a vowel, only a w is added, to form a verb.

EXAMPLES.

Inini, man.....nind ininiw, I am a man.

Ikwe, woman;....nind ikwew, I am a Woman.

Ogima, chief;.....nind ogimaw, I am a chief.

Aki, earth;.....nind akiw, I am earth.

Sibi, river;.....nin sibiw, I am a river.

Exception. To a substantive ending in a vowel that has the nasal sound after it, (*â, ê, î, ô, ) you have to add the syllable iw, to form a verb.

EXAMPLES.

Akiwesî, an old man; nind akiwesîiw, I am an old man.

Mindimóiê, an old woman; nin mindimoiêiw, I am an old woman.

Abinodjî, a child; nind abinodjîiw, I am a child.

Gigô, a fish; nin gigôiw, I am a fish.

RULE 2. To a substantive, animate or inanimate, ending in a consonant, the syllable iw is added, to make a verb of it. Only those substantives ending in a consonant, whose mutative vowel is o, † (which make their plural in og, and some in wag,) take the syllable ow, to become verbs.

EXAMPLES.

Wábigan , clay;	nin wabiganiw , I am
Jiwitagan , salt;	clay. nin jiwitaganiw , I
Assin , a stone;	am salt; nind assiniw , I
Pakwéjigan , bread;	am a stone. nin
Jishibens , a little	pakwejiganîw , I am duck; Jaganash , an	bread.
Englishman;	nin jishibensiw , I am a man.	little duck. nin
	Jaganashiw , I am an English-

Gisiss, the sun;.....nin gisissow, I am the sun.

Mitig, a tree;.....nin mitigow, I am a tree.

Amik, a beaver;.....nind amikow, I am a beaver.

Biwabik, iron;.....nin biwabikow, I am iron.

* See page 10. No. 3.

† See page 85.

NOTE. There is yet another kind of substantive-verbs in this language. They are unipersonal and belong to the IX. Conjug-ation. They are derived from inanimate substantives ending in win; and their formation consists in adding iwan to the end syll-able win.

EXAMPLES.

Minawánigosiwin, joy;.....minawanigosiwiniwan, there is joy.
kashkéndamowin, sorrow;...kashkendamowiniwan, there is sorrow.

Bápiwin, laughter;.....bapiwiniwan, there is laugh.

Mawiwín, weeping;.....mawiwiniwan, there is weeping.

Bakadewin, starvation;.....bakadewiniwan, there is starvation

VI. ABUNDANCE-VERBS.

These verbs are also substantive-verbs, being formed from substantives. But as they signify at the same time abundance of what they express, they justly form a distinct class of verbs, called as above. They are unipersonal verbs, belonging to the VII. Conjugation.

There are two Rules for their formation, somewhat relating to those of the preceding number.

RULE 1. To form an abundance verb, add the syllable ka to a substantive ending in a vowel, may it be animate or inanimate.

EXAMPLES.

Anishinabe, Indian;...anishinabeka, there is plenty of Indians.

Sagime, moscheto;....sagimeka, there is plenty of moschetos.

Nibi, water;.....nibika, there is much water.

Animiki, thunder;.....animikika, there is a thunder storm.

Namé, a sturgeon;.....naméka, there is abundance of sturgeon.

Exception. Substantives ending in a vowel which has the nasal sound, take ika, to become abundance verbs.

EXAMPLES.

Gigô, fish;.....gigôika, there is plenty of fish.

Abinodjî, a child;.....abinodjiika. there is abundance of children.

Assabikeshî, a spider;...assabikeshîika, there is abundance of spiders.

Mishiké, a turtle;.....mishikeika, there is plenty of turtles.

RULE 2. Substantives, animate or inanimate, ending in a con-sonant, require the addition of ika or oka, to be transformed into verbs of this class. (The mutative vowel o requires oka.)

EXAMPLES.

Mikwam, ice;.....mikwámika, there is much ice.

Gon, snow;.....gonika, there is much snow.

Ashishk, dirt, (on.....ashishkika, there is much dirt, mud.
the road, etc.)

Namégoss, trout;.....namegossika, there is abundance of trout.

Miskwimin, a raspberry,..miskwiminika, there is plenty of rasp-berries.

Awing, a star;.....anangoka, there are many stars.

Mitig, a tree;.....mitigoka, there is abundance of trees.

Wábos, a rabbit;.....wabosoka, there are many rabbits.

VII. POSSESSIVE VERBS.

These verbs indicate possession or property, in a very peculiar manner. They are substantive-verbs, being derived from sub-stantives, animate or inanimate, by prefixing o or od, and the personal pronoun nin or nind in the first person, etc.; and they belong to the I. Conjugation, being intransitive verbs, ending in a vowel at the characteristical third person; that is, in i or o. (This o refers to the mutative o.)

Those that terminate in a consonant at the first person singular, indicative, present, do ordinarily not take the possessive terminations. (See page 53.) Some may take them occasionally.

But those that end in a vowel at the said person, take the possessive terminations. These all end in i at the characteristical third person.

EXAMPLES.

Tchiman, canoe;.....nind otchíman, I have a canoe.

Mokoman, a knife;.....nind omókoman, I have a knife.

Odaban, a sledge;.....nind ododaban, I have a sledge.

Noss, (n-oss,) my farther;.....nind ooss, I have a father.

Ningwiss, my son; (nin-gwiss,) nind ogwiss, I have a son.

NOTE. These end in i at the third person, otchimani, etc.

Wagákwad, an axe;.....nind owágakwad, I have an axe.

Makak, a box;.....nind omakak, I have a box.

Akik, a kettle;.....nind odakik, I have a kettle.

Mitig, tree or wood;.....nind omitig, I have a tree or wood.

NOTE. These end in o at the third person, owagakwado,

Joniia, silver, money;.....nind ojoniiam, I have money.

Pijiki, a cow;.....nind opijikini, I have a cow.

Opin, a potatoe;.....nind odopinim, I have potatoes.

Aki, earth, land;.....nind odakim, I have land.

Ishkote, fire;.....nind odishkotem, I have fire.

NOTE. These have the possessive terminations, ending in i at the third person, ojoniiami, opijikimi, VIII. WORKING VERBS.

The verbs of this class signify the doing of a work; and so I think they are properly called, working verbs. They are substant-tive verbs, all being derived from substantives, animate or inanimate, and follow the same Rules in their formation, as the abundance verbs of No VI. These verbs belong all to the I. Conj.

To make a working verb out of a substantive, you have to prefix to it nin or nind, and to add ke, ike, or oke, according to the same Rules, as you added ka, ika or oka, in No. VI.

EXAMPLES.

Mikana, path, road;.....nin mikanake, I make a road.

Ishkote, fire;.....nind ishkoteke, I make fire.

Akakanje, charcoal;.....nind akakánjeke, I burn coal.

Joniia, silver;.....nin joniiake, I work silver.

Mashkikiwabo, medicine;.....nin mashkikiwaboke, I prepare medicine.

Ishkwandem, a door;.....nind ishkwandemike, I make a door.

Mitchikanákobidjigan, fence;..nin mitchikanakobidjiganike, I am making a fence.

Tchiman, a canoe;.....nin tchimanike, I am making a canoe.

Gigô, fish;.....nin gigoîke, I am storing up fish.

Sisibakwad, sugar;.....nin sisibakwadoke, I am making sugar.

Makák, box, barrel;.....nin makakoke, I make barrels.

Biwábik, iron, metal;.....nin biwabikoke, I make metal, I work in a mine.

IX. FEIGNING VERBS.

These verbs are used to designate feigning or dissimulation. A verb of this kind represents its subject doing something for show only, or by dissimulation. They all terminate in kas, at the first person singular, indicative, present; and in o at the characteristic third person; and consequently belong to the I. Conjugation. Some of them are derived from other verbs, and some from substantives.

Those derived from substantives, follow in their formation ex-actly the Rules established in No. VI. All you have additionally to do is, to add s to an abundance verb, and to prepose nin (nind,) and you have a feigning verb, as: Anishinabeka; feigning verb, nind ánishinabekas, I play or act the Indian, I feign to be an Indian. Abinodjiika; feigning verb, nind abinodjiikas, I play the child. Wabosoka; feigning verb, nin wabosokas. I feign to be a rabbit, (in fables.)

Those feigning verbs that are derived from verbs, add the syllable kas to the characteristical third person of the verbs from which they are formed.

EXAMPLES.

Nin niba, I sleep; 3rd. person, niba; nin nibákas, I feign to sleep.

Nin gagibishe, I am deaf; 3rd. person, gagibishe; nin gagibishékas, I dissemble to be deaf.

nind akos, I am sick; 3rd. person, akosi; nind ákosikas, I feign to be sick.

Nin nib, I die; 3rd. person nibo; nin nibókas, I feign to die.

X. CAUSING VERBS.

These verbs are called so, because they indicate that the sub-ject of such a verb causes some animate object to be in a certain circumstance, or to do something. They are all animate verbs, belonging to the IV. Conjugation. They are obtained from the characteristical third person of intransitive verbs, by adding a, ia, or oa: according to the following Rules.

RULE 1. when the characteristical third person ends in a vow-el, the letter a only is added, to form a causing verb.

EXAMPLES.

Nind abitchiba, I rise from the dead; 3rd. person, abitchiba; nind abitchibaa, I raise him from the dead.

Nin manisse, I chop; 3rd. person, manisse; nin manissea, I make him chop wood.

Nin widige, I am married; 3rd. person, widige; nin widigea, I make him be married.

Nind anoki, I work; 3rd. person, anoki; nind anokia, I make him work.

Nin wab, I see. 3rd. person, wabi; nin wabia, I make him see. Nind ogimaw, I am a chief; 3rd. person ogimawi; nind ogima-wia, I make him a chief.

Nin jáabos, I purge myself; 3rd. person, jaboso; nin jabosoa, I cause him to take a purge.

RULE 2. When the characteristical third person ends in a consonant, the syllable ia or oa is added to make a causing verb. (The syllable oa refers to the mutative vowel o.)

EXAMPLES.

Nin kashkendam, I am sad; 3rd. person, kashkendam; nin kashkendamia, I make him sad.

Nin mashkawendam, I am firmly resolved; 3rd. person mashkawendam; nin mashkawendamia, I cause him to be firmly resolved.

Nin dódam, I do it; 3rd. person dodam; nin dodamoa, I make him do it.

Nin twáshin, I break through the ice; 3rd. person twashin; nin twashinoa, I cause him to break through the ice.

NOTE 1. All the verbs of the II. and III. Conjugations, when transformed into causing verbs, ought to end in oa; because their mutative vowel is o. But usage seems to require to add ia to those that are composed of inendam, (he thinks,) as the first two of these Examples; and many others.

NOTE 2. It must be observed here, that not all the verbs of the first three (or other) Conjugations use to be transformed into causing verbs; and some have their own way of becoming verbs of this kind, as: Niba, he sleeps; nin nibeá, I cause him to sleep. Kitimagisi, he is poor: nin kitimagia, I make him poor. Widigendiwag, they are married together nin widigendaag, I marry them together. O wabandan, he sees it; nin wabandaa, I cause him to see it, I show it to him. O kikendan, he knows it; nin kikendamona, I cause him to know it, I make it known to him, etc., etc. These are verbs by themselves.

XI. FREQUENTATIVE VERBS.

This kind of verbs is used to indicate a repetition or reiteration of the action expressed by the verb. The contrivance which makes common verbs become frequentative, is, to double the first syllable of the verb.

EXAMPLES.

Nin pakitéowa, I strike him; nin papakiteowa, I strike him repeatedly.

Nin tángishkawa, I kick him; nin tatángishkawa, I kick him several times.

Nin bashanjeowa, I whip him; nin babashanjeowa, I whip him repeatedly.

Nin bapinodawa, I mock or scoff him; nin babapinodawa, I continue to scoff him.

Nin ganona, I speak to him; nin gaganona, I converse with him a certain length of time.
Etc. . . etc. . .

But sometimes, especially when the first syllable of the common verb has the vowel i, this i is changed in a in the first syllable of the frequentative verb.

EXAMPLES.

Nin gigit, I speak (a short time;); nin gágigit, I speak long, much.

Nin pindige, I come in; nin pápindige, I come often in.

Nin nibaw, I stand; nin nánibaw, I stand here and there.

Nin migiwe, I give; nin mámigiwe, I give often, or to several persons.

Nin mina, I give him; nin máminag, I give to several persons.

XII. PITYING VERBS.

This modification of verbs is used to manifest pity, which the subject of these verbs has on himself, or on others. In English it requires a whole phrase to express the meaning of such a verb. We will exhibit here some of them and below are the English phrases which express their meaning.

Pitying. verb		Subj. mood
1st. pers.	3rd. person.	pres.
Nin debimash; *	debimáshi;	debimashan.
Nin bakadesh; †	bakadeshi;	bakadeshan.
Nin gagibishesh;		gagibisheshan
‡	gagíbisheshi;	.
Nind akosish; 	ákosishi;	akosishan.
Nind ijibesish;
††	ijiwébisishi;	ijiwesishan

* It is but too true what they say of me.

† I am worth pity, being so hungry.

‡ I am worth pity, being deaf.

* I am worth compassion, being sick. †† I am miserable, being so.

Debimáshinadog; I think, what they say of that poor fellow, is but too true. (Thirteen words for one.)

REMARK 1. Many. active verbs ending in amawa, indicate by this termination something belonging to the object of the verb, or relating and alluding to it. This modification of verbs is much used in the Otchipwe language, and is expressive.

SOME EXAMPLES.

Nin wabandamawa od inanokiwin; I see his work.

Nin gi-wabandamawa od ojibiigan; I have seen his writing.

Nin jingendamawa o batadowin; I hate his sin.

Nin jingendamawa o gaginawishkiwin; I hate his habit of lying.

Nin kikendamawa od ijiwebisiwin; I know his conduct.

Nin wi-kikendamawa o dodamowin; I want to know his doings.

Nin gi-nondamawa o matchi gijwewin; I heard his bad speaking.

Nin wi-nondamawa nagamowin; I want to hear his singing.

Nin gi-ojitamawa babisikawagan, I have made his coat. (Nind ojiton.)

Nin nitamawa gego, I kill something for him. (Nin niton.)

Nin bósitamawa nibágan, I embark a bed for h.

(Nin bositon.) Etc. . . etc.

You could, indeed, say: Nin wabandan od inanokiwin; nin jingendan o gaginawishkiwin; nin kikendan od ijiwebisiwin; nin nondan o matchi gijwewin; etc. .

This would be understood by Indians, but it is not genuine Otchipwe.

You see by these Examples, that the last syllable of the verb, (which always is a verb of the VI. Conj.,) from which a verb of this discription is formed, is changed into amawa, (which makes it become a verb of the IV. Conj.) But in some verbs ending in on, this last syllable is not changed in amawa, but in awa: as:

Nin mádjidon, I carry it away nin madjidawa, I carry it to him.

Nin bidon, I bring it; nin bidawa, I bring it to him.

Nind aton, I put it; nind atawa, I put it to him, or for him.

Nin kadon, I hide it; nin kadawa, I conceal it to him.

Nin sagiton, I like (keep) it; nin sagitawa, I don't give it to him.

Etc. . . etc. . . .

It is evident that the verbs ending in an, change invariably this syllable in amawa, to become verbs of this description. But for those ending in on, I can discover no Rule which could show us those that change this on in amawa, and those that change it in awa.

Try to get the right use of this kind of verbs, by an attentive observation of correct speakers of this language.

Remark 2. Let me now say a word of contracted verbs. The Otchipwe language is full of them. There are no fixed Rules for this contraction; usage contracted or abbreviated them, and established them in the language. Nor is it the business of the Grammar, to give a detailed account of them; this is the duty of the Dictionary. I will here only give you a few specimens of contracted verbs, and at the same time a hint, to be attentive and diligent in the analyzing of compound and contracted verbs and other parts of speech. Here are a few specimens.

Nin nádondám, I fetch and bring it on my back, (Nin nádin, I fetch it; nin bimondán, I carry it on my back.)

Bidássimishka, he is coming here in a canoe. (Bi, denoting approach; ondass, come here; bimishka, he goes or comes in a canoe, boat, etc.)

Nin bidadjim, I come and tell something. (Bi, denoting coming; nin dibadjim, I tell it.)

And innumerable others.

CHAPTER IV.
OF ADJECTIVES.

An Adjective is adjected or added to a substantive to express its quality or manner of existing.

The Otchipwe adjectives, like the English, are perfectly invariable, respecting gender, number and case. So we say: Minó kwiwisens, a good boy; minó ikwesensag, a good girl; minó dodamowin, a good action. As long as they are adjectives, they are invariable; but they are ordinarily transformed into verbs, and then they are conjugated.

There are only a few adjectives proper in the Otchipwe language, they are almost all adjective-verbs.

1. Here are some of the first sort, adjectives proper.

Minó, good. Geget mino inini kissaie; thy brother is indeed a good man.

Minó ikwéban o gi-kitchi-nita-jaweniman widj' anishinaben; she was a good woman, she was very charitable towards her neighbor.

Minó akí na éndaji-kitigeieg? Is the soil good where your field is?

Matchí, bad, evil. Matchí manito ki wi- mínigonan matchí inen-damowinan; the evil spirit suggests us bad thoughts.

Matchi anishinabeg anótch matchi ijiwebisiwinan od aiana-wan, matchi nibi gaie o sagitonawa; bad Indians have many evil habits, and they also like liquor, (bad water.)

Matchi abinodjiiag; bad children.

Geté, old, ancient. Geté anishinabeg gi-kitchi-batainowag; the Indians of old were very numerous.

Nin Geté masinaigan nin bidon, bekanak dash mijishikan; I bring my old book, please give me another one.

Gete kitiganan; old fields.

Oshkí, new, recent; young. Oshki masinaigan ki bi-nandota-mon; I come to ask thee for a new book.

Oshki nagamónan ki wi-kikinoamoninim; I will teach you new hymns.

Oshki abinodjî, a young child. Oshki ininiwag, young men.

Gwaiák, good, just, right, upright, straight.—

Gwaiák inini, a good or just man; gwaiák atawéwininiwag, good traders. Geget kitchi apitendagwad gwaiak ijiwebisiwin; a good upright conduct is greatly valuable.

Kagigé, eternal, everlasting.—Gwaiák enamiadjig kagigé bimadisiwin gijigong ta-minawag; to good Christians life everlasting will be given in heaven.

Kagigé minawánigosiwin dagomagad gijigong; there is eternal joy in heaven.

Ki dá-gotán iw kagigé ishkoté anámakamig; thou oughtst to fear that eternal fire in hell.

Kiichitwá, holy, saint.—Kitchitwa Marie; Saint Mary. Kiichitwá Paul; Saint Paul. Kitchitwa Anamiéwigamig; the holy Church.

Nibiwa, much, many. Nibiwa aki o gi-gishpinadon; he bought much land.

Nibiwa odenawan o gi-wabandanan gi-babamadisid; he saw many cities on his travel.

Jesus nibiwa ketimagisinidjin a gi-jaweniman, nibiwa aiakosi-nidjin o gi-nodjimoan. Jesus did charity to many poor people, and healed many sick persons.

Pangí, some, a little, a few.—Pangijiwitagan mijishikan; give me some salt.

Pangi o opinin o gi-ashaman; he gave him a few potatoes to eat.

Pangi bimidé mijishinam, gi -átewan sa nin wassakwanén-djiganinanin. Give us a little of your oil, for our lamps are gone out.

NOTE. These two adjectives, nibiwa and pangi, are oftener adverbs than adjectives.

2. Here are some of the second sort, adjective verbs.

Nibwaká aw inini; this is a wise man.

Nita-anoki aw ikwé; this is an industrious woman.

Néta-anokidjig kitigéwininiwag

kitchi daniwag;

 industrious

farmers are wealthy.

Kakina ninidjanissag ákosiwag, my children are all sick. Bakadé, he is hungry; nibágwe, he is thirsty; he is poor; jawen- dagosi, he is happy.

Kissiná, it is cold; kijate, it is warm; anwatin, it is calm; nodin, it is windy.

Remark 1. Where we use in English an adjective with the auxiliary verb (to be,) the Otchipwe language will employ a verb, in which the adjective and the auxiliary verb are joined in one verb. For this reason we call these words adjective-verbs. So, for instance, in the above sentences, nibwaká, does not signify only wise, but, he is wise ; bakadé, means not only hungry, but, he is hungry; kissina, not only cold, but, it is cold, etc.

Remark 2. These adjective-verbs are true verbs denoting quality, and are conjugated. They don't belong all to the same Conjugation. The characteristical third person and the quality of the verb indicate the Conjugation to which an adjective-verb belongs. The enumeration of these verbs is the business of the Dictionary. Here in the Grammar we will merely give some Examples of adjective-verbs belonging to different Conjugations, as:

Nin wabishkis, I am white; nin makatewis, I am black; nin jawendagos,* I am happy; nin sagiigos, I am amiable, (or loved.) To the I. Conjugation.

Nind agódjin, I am hanging; nin minoshin, I am well placed, (lying down.) To the III. Conjugation.

Wabishka, it is white bigoshka, it is broken; wasséia it is light; minosse, it is convenient, (it goes well, fits well.) To the VII. Conjugation.

Wabishkamagad, it is white; manadad, it is bad; kashkendag-wad, it is melancholy, sorrowful. To the VIII. Conjugation.

Gwanátchiwan, it is beautiful; songan, it is strong; onijishin, it is fair, useful. To the IX. Conjugation.

DEGREES OF COMPARISON IN ADJECTIVES.

There are three degrees of qualification or comparison which can be expressed in adjectives, the Positive, Comparative and Superlative. In the Otchipwe language these degrees of comparison are expressed in the adjective-verbs, by placing before them certain adverbs, as the Examples of No. 2 and 3 will show.

* By the intercallation of the syllable wi, between the final o and s, in the last syllable of adjective-verbs ending in gos, the Otchipwe language gives to these verbs the signification of the influence of Divine Power or Goodness. F. i. Nin jawendagowis, I am happy through the goodness of God. Nin sagiigowis, I am loved by God, (God loves me.)

1. THE POSITIVE.

Adjectives in the Positive express the quality of objects simply, without respect to other objects, as:

Bekádisi, tabassénindiso gaie aw oshkinawe; this young man is meek and humble, (without respect to the meekness and humility of others.)

Giwashkwébiwag igiw anishinabeg; these Indians are drunk, (without expressing whether they are more or less drunk than others.)

Gwanátchiwan ki kitigan; thy field is beautiful.

Onijishin ow mashkiki; this medicine is good.

NOTE. All the adjectives proper, and the adjective-verbs of the Dictionary are in the Positive.

2. THE COMPARATIVE.

Adjectives in the Comparative express the quality of an object in a higher or lower degree than that of another; and according to these two kinds of comparison, the comparative also is double,—the comparative of superiority, and the comparative of inferiority.

A. The comparative of superiority is formed, in the Otchipwe language, by placing the adverbs awáshime or nawatch before an adjective-verb in the positive. These two adverbs have both the same signification; they signify more.

EXAMPLES.

Paul nawátch kitimi, John dash; Paul is more lazy than John. Awashime apitendagwad anamiewin, kakina dash aking endagog; religion is more worth than all other things on earth.

Nin jawéndagos geget, awáshime dash kin ki jawéndagos; I am happy indeed, but thou art more happy, (happier.)

Nawátch gisiss wassési, tibikigisiss dash; the sun is brighter (more bright) than the moon.

B. The comparative of inferiority is formed by placing before an adjective-verb the two adverbs nawátch pangí, which signify less, or not so much, as:

Nawátch pangi kissinamagad nongom, bibinong dash; it is not so cold now than it was last winter.

Nawátch pangi ákosi nongom, pitchinago gadigid; he is not so sick to-day, than he was yesterday.

3. THE SUPERLATIVE.

Adjectives in the Superlative express the quality in a very high or low, or even in the highest or lowest degree in one object compared with one or more others; and according to this distinction, the superlative also is double, relative and absolute.

A. The relative superlative (which expresses a very high or low, but not the highest or lowest degree of all,) iag, constructed by placing the adverbs apitchi, or kitchi, before an adjective verb. These adverbs signify very, very much. Sometimes also, to drive more strength to the superlative, both adverbs, ápitchi and kitchi, are put together.

EXAMPLES OF THIS SUPERLATIVE.

Kitchi ginósi aw inini; this man is very tall, (but not the tallest of all.)

Apitchi mino bimadisi awe kwiwisens; this is a very good natured boy.

Kitchi minwendágosiwag ogów abinódjiiag; these are very amiable children.

Apitchi kitchi ákosi; he is extremely sick.

Apitchi kitchi kitimagisi netá-giwashkwébid; a drunkard is extremely miserable.

B. The absolute superlative, (which expresses the highest or lowest degree of all,) is constructed by placing before an adjective verb, the adverb mámawi, which signifies together, or, at all. (In the CHANGE it sounds maiámawi.)

EXAMPLES OF THE ABSOLUTE SUPERLATIVE.

Mi aw maiámawi-ginósid inini; this man is the tallest of all.

Aw kwiwisens mamawi nibwaka endashiwad nin kikinoamaka-nag; this boy is the wisest of all my scholars.

Maiámawi-niganisid Kitchi-mekatewikwanaie;
the Sovereign

Pontiff; (the highest or foremost Bishop.)

Maiámawi-Ishpéndagosid; the Most-High.

Remark. By the right use of the above adverbs, the strictest distinction of the degrees of comparison can be expressed. It must, however, be observed, that in common speaking the adverb apitchi is often employed to denote the absolute superlative. F. i. Kije-Manito apitchi kijéwadisi, apitchî gaie gwaiák ijiwebisi; God is most merciful and most just, (in the highest degree, of course.)

CHAPTER V.
OF NUMBERS.

Numbers, (which are properly adjectives, adverbs and verbs,) serve to express exactly the quantity and succession of objects that can be counted.

There are In the Otchipwe language five distinct sorts of num-bers. These sorts of numbers I have arranged here according to their derivation from each other. This order is unusual in Gram-mars, but natural in the Otchipwe Grammar. (Nij, nénij. Nijing, nénijing, éko-nijing.)

1. Cardinal numbers, which express an exact quantity of objects without any report.

2. Distributive numbers, which denote distribution and repartition.

3. Multiplying numbers, which indicate reiteration or repetition.

4. Multiplying-distributive numbers, which combine the idea of multiplication and distribution in one expression.

5. Ordinal numbers, which mark the order and succession of objects.

Midasswak dasso
midasswak,	1,000,000.
Etc., etc.

REMARK 1. To express 2000, they also say:
nijtanak; 3000, nissímidanak; 4000, nimidanak;

5000, nanimidanak; 6000, ningotwassimidanak; 7000, níjwassimidanak; 1000, nishwássimidanak; 9000, jángassimidanak. This is the same as: twenty hundred, thirty hundred, forty hundred, etc.

REMARK 2. In counting from eleven up to twenty, they ordinarily omit midasswi, and only say: ashi bejig, eleven; ashi nij, twelve; ashi nisswi, thirteen, etc.

REMARK 3. In common quick counting they say jang, instead of jangasswi, nine; and kwetch, instead of midasswi. This is however not to be imitated.

EXAMPLES.

Adam, nitám inini, jángasswak ashí nissímidana dassó bibón gi-bimádisi oma aking. Adam, the first man, lived nine hundred and thirty years on earth.

Nisswak ashi ningotwassimidana ashi nanan gijigadon, mi bejig kikinonowin. 365 days make a year.

Awáshime nánwak masináiganan nind aianan. I have more than 500 books.

Nimidana dassó tibáigan kitagígin nin gi-gíshpinadon, níjtana ashi náno tibáigan dash manitówegin. I have bought forty yards of calico, and twenty-five yards of cloth.

Nijo bibón gi- anoki, mid dash nánwak dasswabik jóniian gi-gashkiad. He has worked two years and earned 500 dollars.

Naning midasswak ininiwan Jesus o gi-ashaman pagodakamig, nánan dash eta pakwejiganan o gi-awan. Jesus fed 5000 men in the desert with only five loaves of bread.

Debeniminang Jesus nissimidana ashi nisso bibon gi-bimadisi aking. Our Lord Jesus lived 33 years on earth.

Ningwiss midassogwan eta gi-bimadisi, mi dash gijigong gi-ijad. My son lived only ten days, and went to heaven.

Nisswi kwíwisensag keiábi nind aiáwag. I have yet three boys.

REMARK 1. The Cardinal numbers from one to ten undergo a little change before substantives signifying measure, of time or of other things; and these substantives always remain in the singular number. Instead of bejig, nij, nisswi, etc., we say before those substantives: ningó, níjo, nissó, nío, náno, ningotwáссо, níjwassо, nishwáссо, jangasso, midasso. Some instances of this you have seen in the above Examples, and I will give you some more here.

Ningo gisiss nin gi-anonig. He hired me for a month, or for one month.

Kawin na ki dá-mijissi ningó tibiaigan. Wouldst thou not give me a yard of cloth.

Nijo bibón gi-aiá Moniang. He was two years in Montreal. Nissó tibiaigan papagiwaiánigin ki minin. I give thee three yards of cotton.

Géga ningotwáссо gisiss gi-inéndi. He was absent nearly six months.

Midasso tibiaigan ashi niwin, or midáссо tibiaigan ashi nió tibiaigan, or ashí nío tibiaigan. Fourteen yards.

Midáссо bibon ashi náno bibon nin gi-danís Wawiiátanong. I lived fifteen years in Detroit.

REMARK 2. Cardinal numbers from ten to nineteen, when before substantives denoting measure, are expressed in three manners, viz:

1. Midasso bibon ashi bejig, eleven years. Midasso bibon ashi nij, twelve years. Midasso bibon ashi nanan, fifteen years, etc.

2. Midasso bibon ashi ningo bibon, eleven years. Midasso gisiss ashi nijo gisiss, twelve months. Midasso dibaigan ashi jangasso dibaigan, nineteen bushels, etc.

3. Ashi ningo bibon, eleven years. Ashi nisso dibaigan, thirteen yards, bush., feet., etc. Ashi nano gisiss, fifteen months, etc.

NOTE. These three manners of expressing numbers are to be applied also to the subsequent Remarks; mutatis mutandis.

REMARK 3. When the Cardinal numbers before substantives denoting measure, are expressed in round numbers, twenty, thirty, fifty, hundred, thousand, etc., the word dasso * is put between the number and the substantive, this latter remaining invariably in the singular. But when numbers under ten are joined to the round numbers, the rules of the foregoing REMARK take place. You have already seen some cases of this in the above Examples, and here are some more.

* NOTE. The word dasso signifies nothing in itself; it is only used in con-nection with words signifying measure, of time or of other things.

Gwaiák nijtana dasso bibon gi -bimadisi nindánissiban. My deceased daughter has lived just twenty years.

Nimidana dassó tibáigan séniba nin gi-gíshpinana.
I bought forty yards of ribbon.

Nijwak dassó tibábishkodjigan anokadjigan o bimóndan. He carries on his back 200 pounds of goods.

Wika nongom awiiá ningotwak dassó bibón bimádisi; gaiát dash ánind ningotwásswak, anind dash awáshime jángasswak dassó bibón gi-bimádisiwag. Nowadays seldom a person lives a hundred years; but in ancient times some lived 600, and some upwards of 900 years.

Nimishómissiban ningótwak dassó bibon ashi níjo bibon gi-binádissi. My deceased grand-father lived a hundred and two years.

Nissímidana ashi náno tibáshkodjigan pakwéjiganan nin gi-ashamig. He gave me thirty-five pounds of flour.

REMARK 4. When the substantive following a Cardinal num-ber, from one to nineteen, signifies objects of wood, stone, metal, etc., or when days are mentioned, the Cardinal number is connected with certain syllables alluding to the material, or shape, of the object expressed by the substantive; according to the following scheme.

- a. With the syllable gwan, to indicate days; as:
Nijogwan nin gi-bimossé. I walked two days.
Jaigwa nissógwan kawin wissinissi. He has eaten nothing now three days.
Nánogwan gi-aiá omá. He stayed here five days.
Niogwan, nishwássogwan, midássogwan; midássogwan ashí níjogwan, or only: ashi nijogwan, etc.
 To express one day, they will say, nino gijig.
- b. With the syllable ssag, to denote wooden vessels, such as barrels, kegs, boxes, etc., as:
Ningotossag mandáminag nin ga-gishpinanag. I will buy a barrel of corn.
Nijossag pakwéjigansan od aiawan. He has two barrels of crackers.
Jángassossag sagáiganan. Nine kegs of nails.
Nijossag joníia. Three boxes of money.
Níossag, nánossag, midassossag; midassossag ashi bejig, etc.
- c. With the syllable weg, to mark clothing materials, as:
Béjigweg wabóian. One blanket.
Nijweg wabóianan, níweg dash papagiwaiánan, nissweg dash móshweg, mi minik ga-dibaamagoiàn. My pay consisted of two blankets, four shirts and three handkerchiefs. Nánweg, ningotwassweg, midassweg; midassweg ashi bejig. . . .
- d. With the syllables watig to allude to wood or lumber; as: Kawin gánage béjigwatig nabágissag nind aiáwassí. I have not a single board.

Midásswatig missán bídon. Bring ten sticks of wood.

Nisswátig abwín. Three paddles.

Ningotwásswatig ajéboianan. Six oars.

Nijwatig, nánwatig, níjwasswatig; midasswatig ashi bejig, midasswatig ashi niwin; ashi nanwatig.

- e. With the syllables wabik, to signify metal, stone, or glass; as: Béjigwabik joniia ki ga-dibaamon. I will pay thee one dollar.
Midásswabik wassétchiganabikon. Ten window-glasses, (ten panes of window-glass.)
Nisswábik kijabikisiganan. Three stoves.
Nánwabik jigwanabikog nin binag. I bring with me five grindstones.
Niwabik, nishwásswàbik ; midásswabik ashi nijwabik, or, midasswabik ashi nij, or only ashi nijwabik, ashi nisswabik,
- f. With the syllables minag, to designate globular objects, as: Béjigominag tchiss ganagé ashamakan. Give him at least one turnip.
Nissóminag mishíminag ki ga-minin. I will give thee three apples.
Niominag opinig. Four potatoes.
Midássominag anwín. Ten musket-balls.
Midassominag ashi bejig; midássominag ashi nij; middassominag ashi niominag; ashi nanominag, ashi jangassominag.

There are many other syllables of this description in the Otchipwe language, which are attached to Cardinal numbers to allude to some particular object.

Here are again some of them.

- g. wéwan, alluding to a pair or pairs, as:
Ningotwéwan makisinin, a pair of shoes;
nijwewan, nisswewan, niwewan; nanwewan pijikiwag, five pair or yoke of oxen.
Midasswewan ashi bejig; midasswewan ashi ningotwasswewan; ashi jangasswewan, nineteen pair.
- h. óshkin, to allude to a bag or sack, as:
Ningotoshkin opinig, a bag of potatoes;
nijóshkin, nissóshkin, nanoshkin;
nijwassoshkin mishiminag, seven bags of apples; midassoshkin ashi nanan, fifteen bags.
- i. ónag, to allude to a canoe, boat, vessel, etc., as:
Ningotónag, nijonag; nionag tchimanen nin wabandanan, I see four canoes; nanonag; midassonag nabikwanan, ten vessels; midassonag ashi nanonag ishkotenabikwanan gi-nibomagadon, fifteen steamboats have perished.
- j. ník, alluding to the outstretched arms of a man measuring a fathom, as:
Ningotonik, nijonik, nissonik, nionik, nanonik: midassonik biminakwan, ten fathoms of cord; midassonik ashi ningotwassonik, sixteen fathoms.
- k. síd, alluding to the measurement by the foot, as: Ningotosid, nijosid, nissosid, nanosid, nishwassosid; midassosid, ten feet; midassosid ashi bejig; midassosid ashi nijosid; ashi nissosid, thirteen feet.

- l. wákwoagan, alluding to the measurement by the span, as: Ningotwákwoagan, nijwákwoagan, nisswákwoagan; midasswákwoagan, ten span; midasswákwoagan ashi nanwákwoagan, fifteen span.
- m. nindj, alluding to a finger, for the measurement by the inch, as: Ningotonindj, one inch; nijonindj, nissonindj; jangassonindj, nine inches; midassonindj ashi bejig, eleven inches.

REMARK 5 . The same syllables are also annexed to the interpolation-word dasso, under the circumstances referred to in the preceding REMARK 3., when the Cardinal numbers before the substantive above described are round numbers; as twenty, thirty, forty, eighty, hundred, thousand. —The following Exam-ples will illustrate this REMARK.

- a. gwan, nijtana dassogwan, twenty days; nánimidana dassog-wan, fifty days.
- b. ssag, ningotwák dassóssag bimidé, a hundred barrels of oil; nissimidana dassonag gigô, thirty barrels of fish.
- c. weg, ningotwassimidana dasswég wabóanan, sixty blankets; nímidana dasswég adópowiniginon, forty tablecloths.
- d. watig, níjwassimidana dasswátig gíjikag, seventy cedars; nijtana dasswátig abajín, twenty lodge-poles.
- e. wabik, nishwássimidana dasswabik joníia, eighty dollars; midásswak dasswábik sagáiganan, one thousand nails.
- f. minag, nissímidana dassóminag anindjimin, thirty peas; ján-gassimidana dassóminag ogwísssimanan, ninety pumpkins.

And so also with the other syllables; dasswéwan, dassóshkin, dassónag, dassoník, dassosíd, dasswákwoagan, dassonindj.

Numbers under ten, attached to those round numbers, will follow the rules of REMARK 2. As, nijtana dassogwan ashi nijogwan; ningotwak dassóssag ashi nánossag, etc. etc.

The manner of expressing age, the day of the month, and the hour, is another peculiarity and difficulty of the Otchipwe language, which we have to consider here.

Manner of expressing age.

1.If the age of a child is under a month, it is expressed in the same manner as the day of the month, (p. 442.) F. i. Anin enda-ossogwanagisid aw abinodji? How many days is this child old? Nijogwanagisi, nissógwanagisi, niogwanagisi, midassogwana-gisi, etc. It is two, three, four, ten days old, etc.

2.If the age of a child is to be expressed in months, they say thus:

Anin endasso-gisisswagisid aw abinodji? How many months is this child old? Ningo-gísisswagisi, níjo-gisisswagisi, nio-gísisswagisi, ningotwáссо-gisisswagisi, midáссо-gisisswagisi ashi nisswi, nijtana dasso-gisisswagisi ashi nij, etc. . . .It is one, two, four, six, thirteen, twenty-two months old, etc.

3.If the age to be expressed is not over ten years, they connect the Cardinal number with the word bibon, (which signifies winter or year,) and make a verb of it thus:

Anin endasso-bibonagisiian? Nin nishwáссо-bibonagis; How many years art thou old? I am eight years old. Anin endasso-bibonagisid?

Midasso-bibonagisi. How many years is he (she) old? He (she) is ten years old. Ogaw nijódeiag

kawin mashi

náno-bibonagissíwag; these twins are not yet five years old.

4. If the age is from ten to nineteen years, it can be expressed in three different manners; thus: Midáссо-bibónagisi ashi nío bibónagisi, or midáссо-bibónagisi ashi níwin, or ashi nio-bibonagisi; he is fourteen years old. (In the first person the second manner is usual; as; nin midasso-bibonagis ashi nij; nin midasso-bibonagis ashi nanan, etc.)

5. If the age is over nineteen years, and expressed in round numbers, they put dasso before bibon, and frame the whole into a verb. Nin nímidana dasso-bibónagis, or nimidana nin dassó-bibónagis; I am forty years old. Nanimidana dassó-bibónagisi; he is fifty years of age. Awáshime níjtana dásson-bibonagisiwag nishimeia; my brothers are over twenty years old.

6. If the age is upwards of twenty years, and expressed in mixed numbers, it is given as follows, viz:

Níjtana dasso-bibonagisi ashi niwin; he is twenty - four years old. Nin nánimidana dasso-bibónagis ashi nisswí; I am fifty-three years old. Níjtana dassó-bibónagisi nin bebéjigoganjim, ashi nij; my horse is twenty-two years old.

MANNER OF EXPRESSING THE DAY OF THE MONTH.

The Otchipwe names of the twelve months or moons:

1. Manito-gisiss, the moon of the spirit, (January.)
2. Namébini-gisiss, the moon of suckers, (fish,) (February.)
3. Onábani-gisiss, the moon of the crust on the now (March.)
4. Bebokwédagimsing-gisiss, the moon of the breaking of snow shoes, (April.)
5. Wábigon-gisiss, the moon of flowers and blooms, (May.)
6. Odéimini-gisiss, the moon of strawberries, (heart-berries) (June.)
7. Miskwímini-gisiss, the moon of raspberries, (red-berries,) (July.)
8. Min-gisiss, the moon of whortleberries, (August.)

9. Manominike-gisiss, the moon of the gathering of wild rice, (September.)
10. Binákwigisis, the moon of the falling of leaves, (Oct.)
11. Gashkadino-gisiss, the moon of freezing, (November.)
12. Manito-gisissions, the little moon of the spirit, (Deer.)

The word gisiss, which means sun and moon, is an animate substantive.

When the Otchipwe want to express the distinction between these two luminaries, they will say gisiss for the sun, and tibikigisiss, (night. sun,) for the moon.

The question after the date is in Otchipwe thus: Anin éndasso-gwanagisid gisiss nongom? How many days is the moon old to-day? Or, anin epitch gisissowagak? How late is the moon?

The answer is, for the first day: Nongom mádaginso manito-gisiss, namébini-gisiss, etc.; to-day the month of January, February, etc., begins to be counted. For the following days they say: Such a month, or moon, is so and so many days old. F. i.

Manito-gisiss nongom níjogwanagisi, to-day is the 2nd of Jan. Manito-gisiss nongom nissógwanagisi, to-day is the 3rd of Jan. Manito-gisiss nongom níogwanagisi, to-day is the 4th of Jan. Manito-gisiss nongom nánogwanagisi, to-day is the 5th of Jan, Namébini-gisiss nongom nishwássogwanagisi, to-day is the 8th.

of February.

Namébini-gisiss midássogwanagisi, to-day is the 10th. of Feb. Namébini-gisiss midassogwanagisi ashi bejig, to-day is the 11th. of February.

Onábani-gisiss nongom ashi níjogwanagisi, to-day is the 11th.

day of March.

Onábani-gisiss nongom ashi níjogwanagisi, to-day is the 13th day day of March.

Onábani-gisiss nongom ashi ningotwássogwanagisi, to-day is the 16th. day of March.

Wábigon-gisiss nongom ashi níjwassogwanagisi, to-day is the 17th. day of May,

Wábigon-gisiss nongom ashi jángassogwanagisi, to-day is 19th day of May.

Wábigon- gisiss nongom nijtana dassogwanagisi, to-day is the 20th day of May,

Odéimin-gisiss nongom nijtana dassogwanagisi ashi bejig, to-day is the 21st day of June.

Odéimin-gisiss nongom nijtana dassogwanagisi ashi nij to-day is the 22d day of June.

Binákwi-gisiss nongom nijtana dassogwanagisi
ashi nnaan, to-day is the 25th day of October.

Binákwi -gisiss nongom nijtana dassogwanagisi
ashi jangasswi, to-day is the 29th day of October.

Manito-gisiss nongom nissimidana dassogwanagisi, to-day is the 30th day of December.

Manito-gisiss nongom nissimidana dassogwanagisi ashi bejig, to-day is the 31st day of December.

In writing the date in letters, etc., the name of The place and of the month is first written, and then the day and year in figures; thus:

Wikwédong, gashkadino-gisiss 23, 1849.

L'Anse, November the 23d, 1849.

Wawiiátanong, min-gisiss 6, 1850.

Detroit, August the 6th, 1850.

MANNER OF EXPRESSING THE HOUR.

The Indians have no proper term for hour in their language. They call it dibaigan, which signifies measure in general, and is applied to several divisions of time and other things. It means: mile, acre, bushel, yard, foot, etc. Applied to the twelve hours it is used thus:

For the question:

Anin endasso-dibaiganeg? What o'clock is it ? Or, Anin epitch gijigak (epitch tibikak?) How late is it in the day? (in the night?)

For the answers:

Ningo dibáigan, it is one o'clock; níjo dibáigan, it is two o'clock;
nijo dibàigan ashi ábita, it is half-past two;

nissó dibáigan, it is three o'clock; nío dibáigan, it is four o'clock; náno dibáigan, it is five o'clock; nishwasso dibáigan, it is eight o'clock; midasso dibáigan, it is ten o'clock; midáссо dibáigan ashi ábita, it is half-past ten; midáссо dibáigan ashi bejig, it is eleven o'clock; midáссо dibáigan ashi nij, it is twelve o'clock.

Instead of midasso dibaigan ashi nij, they commonly say: náwokwe, or, náwokwémagad, it is noon; abitá-tibikad, it is midnight.

eko-ashi-jangatching the nineteenth, or nineteenthly;

eko-níjtanaweg, the twentieth, or twentiethly; eko-níjtanaweg ashi bejig, the twenty-first, or twenty-firstly; eko-níjtana ashi nijing, the twenty-second, or twenty-secondly; eko-níjtana ashi nissing, the twenty-third, or twenty-thirdly; eko-nissímidanaweg, the thirtieth, or thirtiethly; eko-nissímidanaweg ashi bejig, the thirty-first, or thirty-firstly; eko-nissímidana ashi nijng, the thirty-second, or thirty-secondly;

eko-nissímidana ashi naning, the thirty-fifth, or thirty-fifthly; eko-nímidanaweg, the fortieth, or fortiethly; eko-nánimidanaweg, the fiftieth, or fiftiethly; eko-ningotwássimidanaweg, the sixtieth, or sixtiethly; eko-níjwassimidanaweg, the seventieth, or seventiethly; eko-nishwássimidanaweg, the eightieth, or eightiethly; eko-jángassimidanaweg, the ninetieth, or ninetiethly; eko-ningotwakwak, the hundredth, or hundredthly; eko-ningotwakwak ashi bejig, the hundred-first, or hundred firstly; eko-ningotwak ashi nijing, the hundred and second, or hundred and secondly; eko-ningotwak ashi nissing, the hundred and third, or hundred and thirdly; eko-ningotwak ashi midatchíng ashi bejig, the hundred and eleventh, or hundred and eleventhly; eko-ningotwak ashi midasswi ashi nijing, the hundred and twelfth, or hundred and twelfthly; eko-ningotwak ashi midasswi ashi nissing, the hundred and thirteenth, or hundred and thirteenthly; eko-ningotwak ashi níjtanaweg, the hundred and twentieth, or hundred and twentiethly;

eko-ningotwak ashi nijtanaweg ashi bjig, the hundred and twenty-first, or hundred and twenty-firstly;

eko-ningotwak ashi nijtana ashi the hundred and twenty-second, or hundred and twenty-secondly;

eko-ningotwak ashi nissimidanaweg, the hundred and thirtieth, or hundred and thirtiethly; eko-nijwakwak, the two hundredth, or two hundredthly; eko-nisswakwak, the three hundredth, or three hundredthly; eko-jangasswakwak, the nine hundredth, or nine hundredthly; eko-midasswakwak, the thousandth or thousandthly; eko-nijing midasswak, the two thousandth, or two thousandthly.

Etc., etc.

EXAMPLES.

Nitám inini Adam kitchi ginwénj gi-bimádisi. The first man Adam lived very long.

Eko-nissing apábiwinan namadabi. He sits on the third bench.

Kitchi ganásongewin éko-niwing Kije-Manito o ganásongewí-nan. The fourth commandment of God is a great commandment.

Eko-nijtana ashi nissing wakáiganan odénag, mi ima endaian. I live in the twenty-third house in the village.

Kitchi níbiwa atéwan wedi masináiganan, áko-ashi-nissing dash bídawishin. There are a great many books there, bring me the thirteenth.

Anin iw eko-midásswakwak ashi bėjíg gagwéndjindiwénan?

Which is the thousand and first question?

Eko-nánaning omódensan bídon; wénijishing mashkíki pindé-magad. Bring here the fifth vial there is a good medicine in it.

Eko-nijing gabéshiwinan mí maiámawi-onjishing. The second encampment is the best of all.

Remark. You see in the above Examples, that the Otchipwe substantive following the Ordinal Number, is always in the plural, different from the English, which is in the singular. The reason for this is, because the Otchipwe Ordinal denotes a selection out of several objects. So, for instance, in the above Examples: Eko-nissing apabiwinan, the proper sense is: the third of the benches that are standing there.—Eko-nananing omodensan: the fifth of the vials that are placed somewhere.—Eko-nijing gabéshiwinan: the second of all the encampments on a certain route.

Cardinal numbers are frequently transformed into verbs, which may be called Numeral verbs. This transformation is performed in two different ways, according to the substantive to which the numeral verb refers, being different for each of the two classes of substantives, animate and inanimate.

1. NUMERAL VERBS FOR ANIMATE SUBSTANTIVES.

Béjig, one; nin béjig, I am one, or alone, ki béjig, thou art one, béjigo, he
(she) is one.

Nij, two; nin níjimin, we are two of us,
ki níjim, you are two,
nsiwag, they are two.

Nisswi, three; nin nissimin, we are three, ki nissim, you are three,
nissiwag, they are three.

Niwin, four; nin níwimin, we are four of us, etc.

Nánan, five; nin nánanimin, we are five.

Ningotwásswi, six; nin ningotwátchimin, we are six.

Nijwasswi, seven; nin níjwatchimin, we are seven.

Nishwásswi, eight; nin nishwátchimin, we are eight.

Jángasswi, nine; nin jángatchimin, we are nine.

Middásswi, ten; nin midátchimin, or nin midádatchimin, we are ten.

Midásswi ashi bejig, eleven; nin midádatchimin ashi bejig, we are eleven.

Middáswi ashi nij, twelve; nin midádatchimin ashi nij, we are twelve.

Midásswi ashi nisswi, thirteen; nin midádatchimin nisswi, we are thirteen, etc.

Nijtana, twenty; nin nijtanawémin, we are twenty of us. Nijtana ashi bejig, twenty-one; nin nijtanawémin ashi bejig, we are twenty-one.

Nissímidana, thirty; nin nissímidanawémin, we are thirty. Nijwassimidana, seventy; nin níjwassimidanawémin, we are seventy.

Jángassimidana, ninety; nin jángassimidanawémin, we are ninety.

Ningotwák, a hundred; nin ningotwákosimin, we are a hundred. Ningotwák ashi bejig, 101; nin ningotwakosimin ashi jig, we are 101 of us.

Ningotwák ashi midásswi, 110; nin ningotwakosimin ashi midasswi, we are 110.

Ningotwak ashi nijtana ashi nisswi, 123; nin ningotwákosimin ashi nijtana ashi nisswi, we are 123.

Nijwak, 200; nin nijwákosimin, we are 200.

Midásswak, 1,000; nin midasswákosimin, we are 1,000.

Nijing midásswak, 2,000; nijing nin midasswákosimin, we are 2,000.

Náning midásswak, 5,000; naning nin midasswákosimin, we are 5,000.

Midátching midásswak, 10,000 ; midátching nin midasswáko-simin, we are 10,000 of us.

Midátching ashi abiding midásswak, 11,000; midátching ashi abiding nin midasswákosimin, we are 11,000.

Midátching ashi nissing midásswak, 13,000; midátching ashi nissing nin midasswákosimin, we are 13,000.

Midátching ashi niwing midasswak ashi nisswak ashi midasswi ashi níjwasswi, 14,317; midátching

*ashi niwing nin midasswá-kosimin ashi nisswák ashi midásswi ashi nijwasswi, we are 14,317.
Nijtana dassó midásswak , 20,000; nijtana nin

Nijtana dassó midásswak ashi midásswak , 21,000; nijtana nin dasso midasswákosimin ashi midasswak, we are 21,000.
Nijtana dassó midásswak ashi midásswak ashi ningotwák*

ashi midásswi ashi bejig, 21,111; nijtana nin dasso midasswá-kosimin ashi midasswak ashi ningotwak ashi midásswi ashi bejig, we are 21,111.

Ningotwak dasso midasswak, 100,000; ningotwák nin dassó midasswákosimin, we are 100,000.

Midasswák dassó middáswak, 1,000,000; midásswak nin dasso midasswákosimin, we are a million of people.

Etc., etc.

REMARK 1. All these numeral verbs belong to the I. Conjug-ation, and may be conjugated throughout all the tenses and moods, both in the affirmative and negative forms, in the plural, (except the first one.)

REMARK 2. As a particularity of the Otchipwe language, we observe here, that these numeral verbs are sometimes even employed in the singular. F. i. Nissi, he is three, (three in one, as in the Blessed Trinity.) They also say, for instance, when a man has a wife and four children: Ningotwátchi, he is six. When a widower or a widow has three children, they will say Niwi, he (she) is four.

EXAMPLES.

Bejigo eta ninidjániss, kin dash kinidjánissag níjwatchiwag. I have only one child, but thou hast seven of them.

Nánanibanig ninidjánissag, nij dash gi -nibowag, mi dash nongom níssiwad eta. I had five children, but two died, and so there are now only three.

Kawin midasswákosissiwag eta omá odénang bemádisidjig, nawátch batañnowag. Not only a thousand persons live in this town, but more.

Midátching ashi náning midasawákosiwag kakina Otchipweg endashiwad. The number of the Chippewa Indians is fifteen thousand.

Otáwag dash niwing midasswákosiwag. And the number of the Ottawa Indians is four thousand.

Kitchi odénang Wawiiátanong gega nijtana dasso midasswá-kosiwag bemádisidjig. The number of the inhabitants of the city of Detroit is about twenty thousand.

Nongom ga-bi-ijadjig kikinoamáding kawin gi-de-nijtana wessiwag. Those that came to-day to school, were not quite twenty.

Midadátchiwag nin pijikimag, nin manishtanishimag dash midadatchiwag ashi niwin. I have ten cows and fourteen sheep.

2. NUMERAL VERBS FOR INANIMATE SUBSTANTIVES.

Béjig, once; béjigwan, one thing.

Nij, two; níjinon, there are two things,

Nisswí, three; nissinon, there are three things.

Niwin, four; níwinon, there are four things.

Nánan, five; nánaninon, there are five things.

Ningotwásswi, six; ningotwatchinon, there are six things.

Níjwasswi, seven; níjwatchinon, there are seven things.

Nishwásswi, eight; nishwáchinon, there are eight things.

Jángasswi, nine; jángatchinon, there are nine things.

Midásswi, ten; midadatchinon, there are ten things.

Middáswi ashi béjig, eleven; midádatchinon ashi bejig, there are eleven things.

Midásswi ashi nánan, fifteen; midádatchinon ashi nanan, there are fifteen things.

Nijtana ashi bejig, twenty-one; níjtanawéwan ashi bejig, there are twenty-one things.

Ningotwassimidana, sixty;
ningotwássimidanawéwan, there are sixty things.

Ningotwákwadon, 100.

Ningotwakwadon ashi béjig, 101.

Ningotwákwadon ashi midasswi, 110.

Nijwakwadon, 200.

Nisswákwadon, 300.

Midasswákwadon. 1,000.

Midasswákwadon ashi ningotwak, 1,100.

Nijing midasswákwadon, 2,000.

Midátching midasswákwadon, 10,000.

Nijtana dassó midasswákwadon, 20,000.

Ningotwássimidana dassó midasswákwadon, 60,000.

Ningotwak dasso midasswakwadon, 100,000.

Midasswak dasso midasswákwadon, 1,000,000 of inanimate objects.

REMARK. Some of these inanimate numeral verbs, (being all unipersonal,) belong to the VII. Conjugation, in the plural, (except the first,) and others to the IX. Conj.

EXAMPLES.

Nijinon nind adopówinan, ningotwátchinon dash nind apábiwinan. I have two tables and six chairs.

Oma odénang midádatchinon anamiéwigamigon ashi bejig. In this city there are eleven churches.

Nánaniniwan o wakaíganan.* He possesses five houses.

Anin endassing ki masinaiganan?—Nijtanawewan ashi nisswi. How many books hast thou?—

Twenty-three, (or, there are twenty-three)

Awáshime nibiwa nin nind aiánan; géga niwákwadon nin masináiganan. I have more; I have nearly four hundred books.

Midádatchinon Kije-Manito o ganásongewinan,

There are ten commandments of God,

* Report to a second third person.

CHAPTER VI.
OF PREPOSITIONS.

A Preposition is a word placed before a substantive or a pronoun, to show the relation between it and some other word in the sentence.

The word following a preposition, is the complement thereof, or its object.

There is a great difference, regarding prepositions, between the Otchipwe language and other languages.

The same preposition is sometimes employed to point out different relations. We shall see here how the principal prepositions of the English language, in their different relations, are given in Otchipwe.

There are in this language scarcely any prepositions that precede the substantive; they are ordinarily connected with the substantive which is their complement, forming with it only one word; or they precede the verb to which they refer, and are conjugated with the verb.

We shall see here: I^{mo}. which are the prepositions that precede the substantive, their complement. II^{do}. We will consider the prepositions that are connected with the substantive, their complement, forming but one word with it. III.

We shall point out the manner, how prepositions precede the verb, their complement, and are conjugated with it.

The principal Otchipwe prepositions, that precede a substantive, (and which may properly be called prepositions,) are the following, viz:

1. Tchigaii or tchig', near, nigh, by, close by, at, to.

EXAMPLES.

Tchigaii tchibáiatigong gi-nibawiwag K. Marie, K. Jean gaie.

Near the cross (or, by the cross) stood St. Mary and St. John.

Tchigaii odenang nin gi-gabeshimin. We encamped near the village, (or, tchig' odena.)

Tchig' ishkote aton iw. Put this to the fire, (near the fire.)

REMARK . The abbreviated preposition tchig' is sometimes connected with its complement, and changes it a little. F. i., tchigíkana, close by the road, or, near the path instead of tchig' míkana; tchigíkana jingishin, he lies near the road; tchigíkana namadabíban, he was sitting by the path.—Tchigatig, near a piece of wood, instead of tchig' watig; tchigatig nin namadab, I am sitting by a piece of wood.

2. Giwitáii, round, around.

EXAMPLES.

Kakina giwitáii kitchígaming nin gi-bimishká. I went all round the lake, (giwitá-kitchigami.)

Giwitáii odénang, round the village; giwitáii wegiwaming, round the lodge, (or house.)

3. Pindjaii or pindj', in, within, inside of.

EXAMPLES.

Pindj' anamiewigamig, in the church; pindjaii kitigáning, in the field, (within the enclosure.)

Pindj' wakaigan atémagad atewéwigamig. The store is within the fort.

REMARK . The English preposition in is more commonly expressed by terminations added to the complement, than by pindj' or pindjaii. (See the Examples of No. II.)

4. Kabé or mégwa, during, throughout.

EXAMPLES.

Pitchinágo kabé -gijig nin gi-kitchi-anoki.
Yesterday I have worked hard all day, or during all day.

Kabé-bibon nin gi-ákos. I have been sick all winter, during all winter.

Nibinong kabé-nibin gi-babámadisi. Last year he traveled during all summer.—Kabé-kikinónowin, during the whole year, (throughout the year.)

Mégwa migáding, during war. Mégwa náwokwe-wíssining, during dinner.

5. Náwaii or nássawaii, between, through, amidst.

EXAMPLES.

Jesus gi-sassagákwaowa tchibaiátigong nássawaii nij gemódishkinidjin. Jesus was crucified between two thieves.

Jesus Jerusaleming gi-ija, nawaii dash Samariing, Galileing gaie gi-ani-bimosse. Jesus went to Jerusalem, and walked through Samaria and Galilee.

6. Mégwe, among.

EXAMPLES.

Megwe anishinaben gi-ani-nitawigi. He was brought up among the Indians.

Kishpin mo jag megwe enamiassigog aiaian, kawin weweni ki ga-ganawendansin kid anamiewin. If thou livest always among pagans, thou wilt never keep well thy religion.

Debeniminang Nissimidana ask nisso bibon megwe Judawinini-wan. Our Lord lived thirty-three years among the Jews.

7. Anámai or anám', under, underneath, below, beneath

EXAMPLES.

Debéndjiged o gi-inan Debenimidjin: Namadabin nin kitchini-káng, binish tchi assagwa jangénimikig anamai kisidang. The Lord said to my Lord: Sit on my right hand, until I put thy enemies under thy feet.

Biwabikokéwininiwag anam' aking anokiwag. The miners work under ground.

Anámai adópowining jingishin gájagens. The cat lies under the table. Anámai nibaganing; under the bed.

8. Ogítchai or ogítch' on, upon.

EXAMPLES.

Kego ogitchai nibaganing awi-namadabiken. Don't sit down upon the bed. Ogitch' adopowin, on the table.

Kitchi assin aiában ogitchai tchibégamigong, gadaji-pagidé-nimind Lazare . There was a large stone upon the sepulcher, where Lazarus was buried.

Ogitchai kijábikisiganing. On the stove.

REMARK. The English preposition on or upon is more commonly expressed, in the Otchipwe language, by termin-ations added to its complement, than by ogitchai or ogitch'. (See some of the Examples of No. II.)

9. Ajawai, behind.

EXAMPLES.

Ajawaii wákaiganing gi-kásoidiso. He hid himself behind the house.

REMARK. The preposition behind is often expressed by the word which signifies the back. F. i. Nin pikwanang nibawi, he stands behind me; (nin pikwan, my back.) Awenen aw ki pikwa-nang nemadabid? Who is sitting behind thee? (ki pikwan, thy back.)

10. Nakakeia, or inakakeia, towards, to, about. (These words are always put after the complement.)

EXAMPLES.

Kishpin osam kashkendaman oma aking, gijigong nakakeia inabin; mi sa wedi ge -jawendagosiian kaginig. When thou art too much grieved on earth, look towards heaven; there thou wilt be happy eternally.

Móniang nakakeia nin wi-ija sigwang. I intend to go to Montreal (towards Montreal) next spring.

Wáshtanong náakeia danaki. He lives (somewhere) about Grand River.

Bawiting nakakeia aiadog. He must be (somewhere) about Saut Ste. Marie.

REMARK ON No. 1

All the prepositions of this Number are as well adverbs as prepositions, and most of them rather adverbs than prepositions. I put them here only to show, how the English prepositions near, by, at, round, in, during, between, through, among, under, beneath, on, behind, towards, etc., could be expressed in the Otchipwe language, although such expressions are not quite congenial to the language. This language has scarcely any distinct prepositions; they are commonly marked in the termin-ation of the substantive which is the complement of the English preposition. (This will be better understood after the study of the following number.)

Let us consider now the prepositions that are connected with the substantive which is their complement, forming with it but one word. Or rather, (to speak Otchipwe grammatically,) let us see, how the Otchipwe language, instead of using distinct pre-positions, adds certain terminations to substantives, by which English prepositions are expressed.

These English prepositions are: at, in, from, out of, on, to. The Otchipwe language expresses them by the following five terminations, which are annexed to the complements of the said prepositions ; viz: g, ng, ang, ing, ong.—Examples will illustrate the matter.

1. termination, g.

Kitigéwininiwag kitchi anokiwag o kitiganiwang. Farmers work hard in their fields. (O kitiganiwan, their fields: o kitiganiwang, in their fields.)

O wigiwamiwang ondjibawag, they come out of their houses, (or lodges.) (O wigiwamiwan, their houses; o wigiwamiwang, out of their houses.)

O wigiwamiwang aiawag, they are in their houses. (O wigiwa-miwan, their houses; o wigiwamiwang, in their houses.) Nibing, in summer. (Nibin, summer.) Bibóng, in winter. (Bibón, winter.)

2. termination, ng.

Gigôïag nibing bimadisiwag, fishes live in the water. (Nibi, water; nibing, in the water.)

Sibing nin gi-bimishkâmin, we traveled (in a boat) on a river.

(Sibi, river; sibing, on a river, or in a river.)

Kitchigaming ki ga-bimashimin, we will sail on the lake. (Kitchigami, lake, kitchigaming, on, or in the lake. Jaganáshiwaking nitám nin wi-ijá, pánima dash Wemitigóji-waking. I will first go to England, and then to France. (Jaga-náshiwaki, England; Jaganáshiwaking, to, (in, or from,) England. Wemitigojiwaki, France;

Wemitgojiwaking, to, (in, or from,) France.

Jaganáshiwaking nind ondjiba, I come from England. Jaganáshiwaking danisi, he lives in England. Jominabong, in the wine. (Jominabo, wine.)

Odenang, in, to, from, the village or town. (Odena, village, town, city.)

3. termination, ang.

Wegonen eteg oma mashkimodang? What is in that bag? (Mashkimod, bag.)

Nin pikwanang nin gi-pakiteog, he struck me on my back. (Nin pikwan, my back.)

Min ondjigá notáwagang, matter is running out of his ear. (Otáwag, his ear.)

Miní aténi otáwagang, there is matter in his ear.

Onikang, in, or on, his arm. (Onik, his arm.)

Nisidang, in, or on, my foot. (Nisid, my foot.)

Omissadáng, in, or on, his belly. (Omissád, his belly.)

4. termination, ing.

Anishinábe anákaning namadabí wíssinid, nin dash apabiwining nin namadab, adópowining dash nin wissin. The Indian sits on a mat when eating, but I sit on a chair, and eat on a table. (Anákan, a mat; apabiwin, a chair; adópowin, a table.)

Ninindjing, in my hand. (Ninindj, my hand.)

Mikwámíng, on the ice. (Mikwám, ice.)

Wigiwaming, in a lodge, (or house).

(Wigiwam, lodge.) Jerusalemíng, in or from Jerusalem.

Kitiganing nind ondjiba, I come from the field.
Kitigaining nind ija, I am going to the field. ( Kitigan, field, garden.)

5. termination, ong.

Meno-ijiwebisidjig gijigong ta-ijawag. The good one will go to heaven. (Gijig, heaven, sky, day.)
Wikwédong gi-ondji-madja, Wawiiátanong gi-ani-ija, nongom dash Kebekong wi-ija. He started from L'Anse, went to Detroit, and now he intends to go to Quebec. (Wikwéd, L'Anse; Wawiiátan, Detroit; Kebek, Quebec.)
Tchibaiátigong, on the cross. (Tchibaiátig, cross.)
Akikong, in the kettle. (Akik, kettle.)
Oshkinjigong, in his eye, or face. (Oshkinjig, his eye, or face.)

REMARKS on No. II.

You see that the same termination can express several pre-positions; as, for instance, in the second termination, where Jaganáshiwaking can mean: in, to, from, England. The verb must decide, which of the three prepositions you have to employ, when you translate from Otchipwe into English.

The same five terminations are also employed to render in Otchipwe the English phrases that express comparison, and contain the words like, or as-as. We will consider some Examples on each of the above five terminations.

- 1.term. Nibing iji kijate nongom, it is warm to-day like in summer, or as warm as in summer. (Or, nábingin iji kijate.) Bibong iji kissinamagad jaigwa, it is already cold like in winter. (Or, bebongin ijí kissinamagad.) Bibong ijinagwad, it looks like winter. (Or, bebongin ijininagwad.)

2.term. Nibing iji binagami iw, this liquid is as clear (clean) as water.

Jominabong ipogwad, it tastes like wine.

Anishinabeng gi-bimadisi Kije-Manito oma aking, God lived on earth in the form of a man (like a man).

Oshkinaweng iji kijika aw akiwesi, this old man walks as fast as a young man.

3. term. Mashkimodang ijinagwad nin papagiwaian) my shirt looks like a bag.

Kitawagang iji ginwamagad iw, this is as long as thy ears.

4. term. Anamiewining apitendagwadon mino nagamonan, good hymns are of as high a value as prayer.

Assining iji mashkamagad iw, this is as hard as a stone. Matchi manitokewining iji manadad bishigwadisiwin, fornication is as bad (as great a sin) as idolatry.

5. term. Wawiiatanong iji mitchamagad iw odena, that city is as large as Detroit.

Mitigong ijinagwad ow, this looks like wood.

Gega ajaweshkong iji ginwamagad ki mokoman, thy knife is almost as long as a sword.

III.

All the other prepositions of the Otchipwe language are connected with verbs, in a manner altogether peculiar to this language. As there are no general rules for this connection, it must be acquired by use.

The following Examples of some of the prepositions of this description, will facilitate to the learner the acquirement of their correct use.

1. Ondji, (In the CHANGE* wéndji,) for, for the sake of, because, on account of, relating, regarding, respecting, in regard to; therefore, by reason of, through.

EXAMPLES.

Kin nin bi-ondji-ija oma, I come here for thy sake, on account of thee.

Kije-Manito ondji-anwenindison gi-bata-diian, repent of thy sins for God's sake.

Nitam anishinabeg gi-bata-dodamowad, mi wendji- nibowad kakina anishinabeg; because the first men sinned, therefore all men die.

Wégonen apitchi wéndji-kashkendaman gi-nibod kigwiss? Kego iw wéndji-kashkéndangen; jawendagosi geget. Why art.

thou so sorry for the death of thy son? Don't be so sorry for it, he is truly happy.

Debeniminang o jawendjigewin nin gad-ondji-boniton nin matchi ijiwebisiwin; through the grace of the Lord I will abandon my bad conduct, (bad behavior.)

2. Eko-, ga-ako-, ged-ako-, since, ago, all the time, ever slow, as long as.

EXAMPLES.

Gi-ishkwa-wissiniian nin ga-madja, I will start after dinner, (after eating.)

REMARK on No. III.

These prepositions again are rather adverbs. We will do better to consider the rest of them under the head of Adverbs.

The following remarks and examples may yet be useful in the Chapter of Prepositions.

The following English prepositions: with, without, to, (before names of persons,) before, except, excepting, as for, according to, against, instead of, are expressed in Otchipwe in a very peculiar manner, which cannot be established by rules, but must be learned from use. The Examples given here below will make you understand a little this particular manner of expressing prepositions.

1. With. The just ones will go to heaven with soul and body, after resurrection. Kegí-otchitág, kegí-wiiaw gaie gijigong ta-ijáwag méno-ijiwébisidjig gi-abitchibáwad.

I came in the house with my snow-shoes on; kegí-ágim nin gi-pindige wakaiganing.

I struck him with my hand, ninindj nin gi-pakiteowa. Thou struckest him with a stone, assin ki gi-pakiteowa. He struck him with a stick, mitig o gi-pakiteowan.

I made a hole in the ice with an axe, nin gi-twaige wagákwad.

2. Without. (This preposition is always expressed in Otchipwe with a verb in the negative form.)

He is a man without malice, aw inini kawin manjininiwagi-sissi.

Those that live without the knowledge of God, are unhappy; kitimágisiwag kekénimassigog Kije-Maniton.

One cannot live without eating, kawin dá-bimadisissim wíssinissing.

Nobody can see without eyes, kawin awiia dá-wabisis oshkínjigossig.

I could not write without hands, kawin nin da-gashkitossin tch onjibigeian onindjissiwán.

3. To, (before nouns of persons,) I will return to my father, noss nin wi-ijánan.

Sinner, return to the Lord thy God, and to Jesus thy Savior; baiata-ijiwebisiian, awi- nasikaw neiab Debendjiged ki Kije-Manitom, Jesus gaie Ga-bimádjik.

He is gone to his parents, onígiigon od ijanan.

4. Before. Nothing is hidden before God, kawin gego kadjigadessinon enássamid Kije-Manito.

The hypocrites of old stood before the houses of the city, when praying; gaiát ga-bi- anamiékasodjig nanibawibanig enássamissininig wákaiganan odenang enamiewadjin.

We shall all appear before Jesus, to be judged;
kakina ki ga-nibawimin enássamabid Jesus, tchi dibakonigoiang. Before me, (when I am standing,) enassamigábawiiian. Before thee.
 (when thou art sitting,) enássamabiian. Before him, (when he is lying,) enássamishing, etc.,
 etc.

5. Except, excepting. He works every day, except Sunday; endassó-gijigak anoki, enamiegijigadinigin eta kawin.

I would willingly lose all, except my religion; nin dáminwen-dam kakina gego tchi wanitoian, nind anamiewin eta kawin.

All my children died, except the oldest one; kakina ninidjanissag gi-nibowag, sesíkisid eta ishkwane.

We are all sick in the house, except my mother; kakina nind ákosimin endashiiang, ninga eta kawin.

6. As for.. As for me, (for my part,) I will not go where they dance; nin win kawin nin wi-ijassi nimiiding.

As for him, (for his part,) he has no objection;
win igo kawin win ningot ikitossi.

*As for thee, thou hast a good knowledge of religion, but thy brother knows nothing of it;
kin win ki kikendan weweni anamiewin, kishime dash kawin gego o kikendansin.
As for your work, I will speak to you to-morrow about it; iw dash kid anokíwiniwa ejiwebak, wábang ki gawindamoninim.*

7. According to. Lord; let all be according to thy will; Debeni-miian, apegish enendaman ijiwebak kakina.

I regulate my life according to thy instructions; nind ijissiton nin bimidisiwin eji-gagíkimiian.
According to thy word; ekitoian. According to the reports of people; ekitowad anishinabeg, or bemadisidjig.

Live according to the commandments of God, and you will be happy; ejí-ganásonged Kije-Manito, íjî-bimádisiîog, mî dash tchî jawendagosiîeg.

8. Against. Who is not with me, is against me; aw wadjiwissig nind agonwetag.

He goes away against my will; mínotch madja ano ginaama-wag.

He that acts against the will of God, is a sinner; aw aiagonwe-tawad Kije-Maniton, batá-ijiwebisi.

2 Never do anything against the injunctions of thy religious instructor; kego wika gego dódangen eji-ginaamok enamie gagíkímiik.

9. Instead of. Thou wouldst not give to thy child a stone instead of bread; kawin ki da-dodansi iw tchî mínassiwad kinidjániss pakwejiganan, meshkwat dash assínin tchî mínad.

Instead of happiness which the sinner endeavors to procure, he will find real misery; baiatá-ijiwebisid kawin jawendagosi-win o gad-aiansin nendawendang, meshkwat gwaiák kitimági-siwin o ga-mikan.

Instead of a book thou givest me a little picture; kawin masi-naigan ki mǐjissi, meshkwat masinitchigans ki mij.

CHAPTER VII.
OF ADVERBS.

An Adverb is a word joined to a verb or to an adjective, and sometimes to another adverb, to denote or modify some circumstance respecting it. So, for instance, when we say, aw inini kitchi akosi, this man is very sick; the adverb kitchi, very, modifies the verb, akosi, he is sick, and denotes how the man is sick.

Adverbs may be divided into various classes, according to their signification. We will mention here some of each class, with short Examples, to facilitate the use of this part of speech.

I. ADVERBS DENOTING MANNERS.

Wewéni, well, rightly, correctly.

Kishpin gego ojítóian, weweni ojiton; when thou art doing something, do it well.

Weweni ojibiigen; write correctly.

Iw epitendagwak tchi ojitong, apitendagwad weweni tchi ojitong; what is worth doing, is worth doing well.

Mámanj, bad, negligently.

Mamanj o gi-ojitónawa. They made it negligently, bad.

Kego mámanj kitigeken; don't farm so negligently.

Beka, slowly, softly, easily, not loud.

Beka bimossen, walk slowly.

Kishpin awiia wi-ánwenimad, beka ganój. If thou wilt reprimand somebody, speak to him gently.

Bisan, still, quietly.

Bisán abiiog, kwiwisensidog! Be still, boys.

Bisan ima namadabí kabe-gijig, kawin anokísi.

He is sitting there quietly all day, he does not work.

Naégátch, (has the same signification as beka.)

Agáwa, hardly, scarcely, a little.

Agawa nin gashkitón wi-bimosseiàn, nind akos. I can hardly walk, I am sick.

Agáwa-jaganáshimo, he can talk a little English.

Agawa nin gi-gashkiá, I could scarcely prevail upon him. . .

Kitchi, very.

Nin kitchi minô aiá, nin kitchi jawendagos. I am very well, I am very happy.

Tebinak, (has the same signification as mámanj.) Sesika, or tchisika, suddenly, all at once, subitaneously.

Sesika gi-nibo, he died suddenly.

Kego sesika ombinaken gego kwesigwang. Don't lift up suddenly any heavy object.

Gega, almost, nearly, about.

Nin gi-akos, gega nin gi-nib. I was sick, I almost died.

Gega ningotwak dasso bibónagisi. He is nearly a hundred years old.

Gega nijtana, gega nissimidana. About twenty, about thirty.

Memindage, especially, principally, very.

Enamiadjig mémindage da-jajawendjigewag.

Christians ought to be especially charitable.

Memindage kitimishki, he is very lazy.

Binisika, unprovoked, without reason, spontaneously.

Binisika nishkádisi aw inini. This man is angry unprovoked. Kawin wika bínisika gego nin minigossi. He never gives me anything spontaneously.

Gwaiák, justly, uprightly, straight.

Gwaiák bimádisin, ki ga-jawendagos. Live uprightly, and thou wilt be happy.

Gwaiak wedi ani-ijáda. Let us go straight there.

Apitchi, extremely, exceedingly, quite, most, entirely.

Apitchi jawendjige Debendjiged. The Lord is most merciful.

Apitchi ákosi ningá. My mother is quite sick.

Kissaié apitchi bakán ijiwébisi nongom. Thy brother changed entirely.

Awándjish, purposely, notwithstanding a prohibition.

Nind áno-ginaamawa tchi ijassig, awandjish dash ija. I forbid him to go, but he goes notwithstanding my prohibition.

Awandjish bápiwag. They laugh, although forbidden.

Napátch, wrongly, not in the right order.

Kakina napatch o gi-atónawa. They put all wrongly, (nothing in its due place.)

Anishá, vainly, without effect, without reason, falsely, for nothing, gratis.

Wegonen ba-ondji-ijaieg oma? Anishá. What you come for here? Nothing.

Anisha mígiweiog. Give it for nothing, gratis.

Meméshkwat, alternately, by turns, mutually, one after another.

Memeshkwat nagamoda. Let us sing alternately.

Jajawénindiiog Meméshkwat. Be charitable mutually to each other.

Memeshkwat ajéboieiog, row by turns.

Kego kakina máma wi gigitokégon; meméshkwat gigitoiog. Don't speak all at one time; speak one after another.

2. ADVERBS DENOTING INTERROGATION.

Geget, verily, truly, yes indeed.

Ki gi -wíndamawa na ga-ininan? Geget. Didst thou tell him what I said to thee? Yes.

Geget kitimágisi, he is poor indeed; or, he is truly miserable.

Geget kid inininim. Verily I say unto you.

* This affirmative adverb cannot be expressed exactly in writing; it must be heard. I have seen different essays to write it, but they are deficient, because it is impossible to give it correctly. When I saw that. I adopted the simplest way of writing it, by the single letter e; only to signify that the adverb which is used for affirmation, is to be pronounced here. I remark here at the same time, that the Indians will use this affirmative adverb e, where we would say in English no. F. i. Kawin kishime wi-bi-ijassi? E. Will thy brother not come? No. This is an abbreviated answer; the whole would be, E, kawin; wi-bi-ijassi; yes it is so as you say, he will not come.

4. ADVERBS DENOTING NEGATION.

Ka, or kawín, no, not.

Kid akos na? Ka; kawin nind akosissi. Art thou sick? No, I am not sick.

Keiábi, yet.

Nitám, first.

Apíne, continually, ever since.

Káginig, or, kagigékamig, always, eternally.

Nond, before the end; rather.

Dassíng, every time, as often as . .

Kéjidin, or, kéjidine, or, kekijidine, quick, soon, immediately.

Pitchínag, only now, (not before this time,) soon, by and by. Pitchinag dagwichin. He comes only now, (not before this hour.)

Pitchínag nin madja, I start only now, (or so late.)

Pitchinag nin gad-ija endaian. I will go to thy house, (I will go to see thee,) by and by.

Mádján, kikinoamáding ijan.—Pitchínag. Go to school.—By and by.

8. ADVERBS DENOTING UNCERTAINTY.

Gonimá, or, ganabátch, perhaps.

Nissatchiwan nind ijá, gonima dash nisso gisiss nin gad-inend. I am going below, and will be, perhaps, absent three months.

Ki da-gashkiton na nijike tchi bidjiamawad kissaie?— Ganabátch sa nin dá-gashkiton. Couldst thou write, all alone, a letter to thy brother?—Perhaps I could.

Nishkádisi ganabátch. He is perhaps angry.

Mákija, may be, perhaps.

Gi-nibo na kimishóme?—Màkija; kawin mashi nin ki kendansin. Is thy uncle dead?—May be; I don't know yet. Mákija anishá ikiton. It is perhaps a false report. Màkija geget. May be so indeed. Namándj, I don't know what . . ., it is doubtful how

Namándj ged-ikitogwen. I don't know what he will say.

Namandj ge-dodamowànen. I don't know what I shall do.

Namandj ga-ijiwebisigwen. I don't know what he did.

Namándj idog, it is uncertain, unknown, doubtful.

Anin ga-ijitchiged?—Namándj idog. How did he manage it?— I don't know.

REMARK. This namandj, which is properly an adverb in Otchipwe, cannot be given in English with an adverb, but only with a verb, as above.

9. ADVERBS DENOTING QUANTITY.

Níbiwa, or, pangi nánge,
much.

Nibiwa wissini. He eats
much.

Nibiwa kitige. He cultivates a large field.

Pangí nánge nin bimosse kabé-bibón. I am walking much all winter.

REMARK. When nibiwa signifies many, it is an adjective.

Pangí, or, nibiwa nánge, little, a little.

Pangi éta nin bídon. I bring only a little.

Pangi gígíton, nibiwa dash nánagatawendan.
Talk little and think much.

Nibiwa nánge ki ga-matchi-ikit, kishpin mojak takwénimad Kijé-Manito. You will scarcely ever pronounce a bad word, if you constantly remember God.

Nénibiwa, much each, or much every time.

Nenibiwa minawag. They are given much each, (they receive great shares.)

Nenibiwa anamía éndasso-gijigadinig. He prays much every day.

Pépangi, little each, or a little every time, by little and little, gradually.

Pepangi kitigewag anishinabeg. The Indians cultivate a small field each.

Pepangi nibá, pepangi gaie wíssini. He sleeps little (every night,) and eats little (every time.)

Ki minin ow masináigan; pepangi dash wabandan éndasso-gijigak, binish kakina gi-wabandaman. I give thee this book; read a little every day, until thou readest it all.

Pangishê, very little.

Mi iw, or, wi minik, enough, that is all.

Mínawa, again, more, besides.

Kakina, all.

10. ADVERBS DENOTING COMPARISON.

Awáshime, more.

Awashime nin dá-minwendam tchi nissigoian, iw dash nind anamiéwin tchi wébinamàmban. I would be more willing to be killed, than to reject my religion.

Awashime apitendagwad mino ijiwebisiwin, daniwin dash.

Virtue is more worth than riches.

Nawátch, has the same signification as awáshime : but it also signifies, a little, some. Nawatch nind akos; this can mean, I am more sick: or, I am a little sick.

Ki bakadé na?—Nawatch sa. Art thou hungry?—A little.

Ki gashkitón na wi-jaganashimoian?—Nawatch sa.

Canst thou speak English?—Some.

Iw minik, or, ow minik, so much, as much as.

Gaie win iw minik od iji gashkiton, kin eji-gashkitoian.

He can do as much as thou canst.

Ow minik bidókan. Bring so much.

Kawin ow minik éta da-debissessinon. So much only would, not be sufficient.

Bakán, differently, otherwise.

Bakan ijiwebisi eko anamiad. He behaves differently since he became a Christian.

Nawatch níbiwa, more.

Nawatch pangí, less.

REMARK. The word nangé, (which occurs in No. 7 and 9,) cannot be given in English by itself; there is no word in the English language that would exactly correspond with nange. We may perhaps say it corresponds with not, because it makes the word to which it is connected, signify the contrary; but it has another position in the sentence, for instance:

Debenimiian, nind apitendagos nange ge-ganoninamban.

Lord, I am not worthy to speak to thee.

Nin nibwaka nange. I am not wise.

Nibiwa nange nin kikendan. I do not know much.

E nange ka. Yes, not no.

CHAPTER VIII.
OF CONJUNCTIONS.

A Conjunction is a part of speech which is used to connect words and sentences.

Conjunctions are divided into two sorts, copulative conjunctions, which serve to connect or to continue a sentence; and disjunctive conjunctions, which serve to express opposition in different circumstances.

The following are the principal Otchipwe conjunctions.

1. COPULATIVE CONJUNCTIONS.

Gaié, and, both, also. (This conjunction is ordinarily put after the word that is connected by it to another word, like the Latin que. Sometime it is put before the word, especially when it signifies also.)

Koss, kigá gaie ki ga-minádenimag. Honor father and mother. Gi-pindige anamiewigamigong, weweni gaie o gi-pisindawan gegikwenidjin. He went to church, and listened well to the preacher.

Mojag babamadisi, biboninig, nibininig gaie. He travels always, both winter and summer.

Nin wi-ija; gaie kinawa ijáiog. I will go; go ye also.

Gaie kin. Thou also.

Ashi, and. (This conjunction serves only to connect numbers,) Nijtana ashi nij. Twenty-two. (You cannot say: nijtana gaie nij; or, nijtaná, nij gaie.)

Midasswak ashi nishwasswak ashi nanimidana, 1850.

Tchi, or, tchi wi, that.

Ki windamon iw, tchi wi kikendaman. I tell thee this that thou mayst know it.

Nin bi-ija oma, tchi kikenimiian keiabi bimadisiàn. I come here, that thou mayst know I am living yet.

REMARK. English sentences containing the conjunction that, are commonly and better given in Otchipwe without tchi. F. i. I am glad that thou art come; nin minwendam dagwishinan.— Dost thou know that my father is dead. Ki kikendan na gi-nibod noss?—I know that she is charitable; nin kikenima kijewadisid. (In all these phrases the English conjunction that could likewise be omitted.

Mi wendji- (varying according to the tenor of the verb,) therefore.

Mino ijiwebisi, nita jawendjige gaie, mi wendji-jawendagosisd.

He is good and charitable, therefore he is happy.

Osam minikweshki, mi wendji-kitimagisid apitchi.

He drinks too much, therefore he is so poor.

Kishpin, if provided.

Kishpin batádown gotaman, kawin nibowin ki ga-gotansin. If thou fearest sin, thou wilt not be afraid of death.

Kishpin gwaiák anokiian, kawin ki ga-kitimágissi.

If thou workest well, thou wilt not be poor.

This conjunction, kishpin, is sometimes omitted, and some-times put after the verb. In the sentence: Panima sigwang nin ga-madja, kishpin bimadisiiàn; next spring I will go away, if I live; in this sentence we may omit kishpin, and say: Panima sigwang nin ga-madja, bimadisiián. This is even better Otchipwe.—And we may also say: Panima sigwang nin ga-madja, bimadisiian kishpin.—This postposition of kishpin is sometimes heard among the Indians.

Sa. This particle signifies sometimes: because, for. Odéna Ninivé kawin gi-banadjitchigadessinon, gi-anwenindisowag sá imá ga-danakídjig. The city of Nineveh was not destroyed, because the inhabitants did penance.

Nin ga-mínig Kije-Manito kagigé bimádisiwin gijigong, apitchi sa kijewádisi. God will give me life everlasting in heaven, because he is infinitely good.

Dash, This conjunction is copulative or disjunctive, according to its signification. It is copulative when signifying and.

Nin nishime, nin. dash. We were two of us, my brother, and myself.

Bóniton ki matchi ijiwebisiwin, ki ga-jawénimíg dash Debendjiged. Abandon thy bad conduct, and the Lord will have mercy on thee.

Bi-ijan, anokin dash oma, ki ga-dibaamon dash weweni.

Come and work here, and I will pay thee well.

2. DISJUNCTIVE CONJUNCTIONS.

Dash. It is disjunctive when signifying, but, or than. Kijé-Manito gi-ojián nitám ininiwan tchi ápitchi mino aiánid, win dash gi-kisimágiidiso gi-batá-dódang. God made the first man to be perfectly happy, but he made himself unhappy by sinning.

Nibiwa joniia ki gashkia, osam dash kid atáge, mi dash iw gego wendji-danisissiwán. Thou earnest much money, but thou playest too much, and therefore thou hast no property.

Nawátch nin sasíkis, kin dash. I am older than thou. Nawatch nibwaka Paul, John dash. Paul is wiser than John. Awáshime jawendágosi nébwakad, kétchi-dania dash. A wise man is happier than a rich one.

Missawa, although.

Missawa matchi igoian, kawin nin awiia nin wi matchi inássi.

Although spoken ill of, I will speak ill of nobody.

Missawa gagwédjimag, kawin nin nakwétagossi.

Although I ask him, he does not answer me.

Gonimá, kéma, or; either, or.

Niogwan, gonima nanogwan nin gad-inend. I will be gone four or five days.

Bejig nijiieg o gi-bi-mamon oma nin masinaigan, kéma kin, kéma kishime. One of you came here and took my book, either thou or thy brother.

Kawin . . . , kawin gaie . . . , neither . . . , nor . . .

Kawin nin nin gi-mamossin ki masinaigan, kawin gaie nishime. Neither I took thy book, nor my brother.

Kawin beshigwadisidjig, kawin gaie neta-giwashkwebidjig ta-pindigessiwag ogimawiwining gijigong. Neither adulterers nor drunkards shall enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Tchi, with the verb in the negative form, stands for the English conjunction lest.

Nin gi-kibákwaowa pijiki, tchi madjássig. I shut up the cow, lest she run away.

Jawénim ketímágisid, tchi wíndamawassig Debéndjigenidjin eji- matchi-dódawad, mi dash tchi bata-diian. Have mercy on the poor, lest he cry unto the Lord against thee, and it be sin unto thee.

Kishpin, with the verb in the negative form, serves for unless, or, except.

Kishpin anwenindisossiweg, kakina ki ga-bandájiidisom, Unless you repent, you shall all perish.

Kishpin nawatch mino ijiwebisissiwana, kawin ki gapindigessi Debenimik o minawanigosiwining.

Unless thou behavest better, thou shalt not enter into the joy of thy Lord.

Kishpin enigok wíkwatchitossiwan, kawin wika ki ga-gashki-tossin wi -Otchipwemoian. Unless thou endeavorest earnestly, thou wilt never be able to speak Otchipwe.

Minotch, but still, yet.

Kitchi niskadad, kissina gaie, minotch bi-ijawag.
It is very bad weather and cold, but still they come.

Kego minikweken ishkotewabo, ki gi-ininaban; minotch mojak ki minikwen. I told thee, don't drink any ardent liquor; yet thou drinkest it always.

Anawi, áno, but, although.

Anishinabeg kitimagisiwag, anawi dash minwendamoq.

The Indians are poor, but they are contented.

Nind áno pisindawa, kawin dash nin nissitótawassi. Although I listen to him, I cannot understand him.

Nind ano pagidawa, kawin dash gego nin pindaansin.

Although I set nets, I catch nothing.

Iji, eji-,* (varying according to the tense of the verb connected with it,) as, as . . . as, as . . . so.

Debenimiian, apegish iji sagiinàn, eji-sagiiian.

Lord, I wish to love thee as thou lovest me.

Mino ijiwebisin, eji-mino-ijiwebisiwad swanganamiadijq.

Be as good as true Christians are good.

Eji-kikinoamagoieg, mi ged-ani-dodameg. As you are taught, so do.

* See p. 140.

CHAPTER IX.
OF INTERJECTIONS.

An Interjection is a word that is used to express an emotion or a feeling of the person speaking.

It is to be observed, as a peculiarity of the Otchipwe language, that the men have their own interjections, and the females their own; and some are common to both sexes.

To express joy, admiration, surprise, fear, astonishment, impatience, compassion, even anger and indignation,

The men and the boys will say, Ataia! tiwé! aha! ah!

The women and the girls will say, Nià! oh! alas! n'gò! n'gè! ha!

The difference between these two kinds of interjections is so sharp, that it would be the most ridiculous blunder for an astonished man to say, Nià! or for a surprised woman to say, Ataià!

The interjections common to both males and females, are the following:

To express impatience: beka! beka beka! slowly! stop! tagá!
well!

indignation, anger: tajimadji! tajimadji win!
ha!

aversion: sè! shame! pshaw!

awass! begone! away! go ahead!

approbation: ò! well! ay! ay!

understanding or recollecting: ishtë! aha!
yes!

To call or excite attention: na! ina! nashke!
lo! see! hark!

To encourage: tagá! ho! halloo!

haw! haw! halloo! courage!
hurrah!

ambé! ambessa! well! well! come on!

To call somebody: hisht! hey! hear!

To stop: beka! hold on! stop!

To admonish, exhort: bina! behold! now (anwatan bina! cease' now!)

To answer a call: hoi! halloo!

To command silence: sh't! she! hush! silence!
bisan! hist! be still!!

OF PREFIXES AND OTHER PARTICLES.

There are in the Otchipwe language many particles or little words, some of which precede, and others follow verbs, and give them a certain accessory signification. We will exhibit here the most common of these particles, with the accessory signification they give to the verbs.

PART III.
SYNTAX.

Syntax, or Syntaxis, is that part of Grammar, (according to the meaning of this Greek word, joining together,) which teaches to join words, or the parts of speech, together in a proper manner, into correct sentences.

A sentence is the connection of several words in such a manner as to give a complete sense.

Every sentence must have a subject, to which something is referred, or of which something is affirmed or denied; and an attribute, (predicate,) which refers or alludes to the subject, or is affirmed or denied of it. To join the attribute to its subject, a third part of the sentence is necessary, which is the verb.

To form a regular and complete sentence, three parts are necessary; the subject, the attribute, the verb.

The syntax of the Otchipwe language is peculiar. We shall reduce it to a few chapters, and a few rules and remarks in each chapter. Many remarks and rules that could have been placed in this Third Part, occur in the preceding part, where they stand in connection with other rules, properly belonging to the part.

CHAPTER I.

SYNTAX OF SUBSTANTIVES OR NOUNS.

RULE. 1. The substantive governs the verb, respecting number and kind.

A. RESPECTING NUMBER.

A substantive in the singular number requires a verb in the singular; as: Paul niba, Paul sleeps. Inini manisse; ikwe gashkigwasso; the man chops wood, the woman sews. Mandan wakaigan onijishin, songan gaiè; this house is beautiful and strong.

A substantive in the plural number must have a verb likewise in the plural; as: Abinodjiiag ombigisiwag, children make noise. Kakina ininiwag gi-gopiwag, ikwewag eta abiwag. All the men are gone in the interior (inland), the women only are here. Nin sagitonan nin masinaiganan, mojag nin wabandan. I like my books, I read them always.

NOTE. In English the verb does not always show its being governed by the substantive, respecting number. In the last sentence here above, for instance, the verb, I like, is always the same, whether I like one book only, or several books.

But in Otchipwe we say: Nin sagiton masinaigan.
Nin sagitonan masinaiganan.

Exception. There is one case of exception from this rule in the Otchipwe language, where a substantive in the singular number has a verb in the plural after it. The case is, when only one member of a household is taken for the whole; as: Noss endawad iibikon; he slept last night at my fathers, (where my father dwells.) John endawad nind ondjiba; I come from John's, (where John dwells.) Naningim nind ija nimissé endawad; I go frequently to my sister's, (where my sister dwells.) This is the usual way of expressing this case. Although I could also say: John endad nind ondjiba. Nimisse endad nind ija. This would be correct, but not usual; except if John, for instance, should live all alone in a house, I would then correctly say; John endad nind ondjiba; and I could not say otherwise, because then John would not be a member of a household.

NOTE. But when in the names of nations, one individual is taken for all, the substantive retains its right; it has a verb in the singular with it; as: Wemitigoji endanakid nin wi-ija, I intend to go where the Frenchmen live, (to France.) Jaganash nibiwa o dibendan aki; the English are in possession of much land, (in different parts of the world.) Kitchimokoman nomaia gi-migaso; the Americans have lately been at war.

B. RESPECTING KIND.

The Otchipwe substantives are of two kinds, animate and inanimate. (See page 18.)

An animate substantive must invariably have a verb of the same kind, if in connection with a verb; it must have an animate verb of the IV. or V. Conj.; as: Nina wabama inini , I see a man. Nin

nondawag ikewag, abinodjiiag gaie, I hear women and children. Kid atawenag opinig, thou sellest potatoes.

An inanimate substantive requires an inanimate verb, of the VI. Conj.; as: Nin wabandan wakaigan, I see a house. O gi-gishpinadonan midasswi mokomanan; he has bought ten knives. Kawin nin bidossin ki masinaigan, nin gi-waniken: I don't bring thy book, I forgot it.

This is to be understood of the transitive or active verbs.

In regard to the intransitive or neuter verbs, the general syntactical rule is, that an animate subject always takes an intransitive verb of the three first Conjugations; and an inanimate subject takes a unipersonal verb of the three last Conjugations. As: Koss gi-dagwishin. Nabikwan gi-dagwishinomagad. Thy father arrived. A vessel arrived. Nissae jagana-shimo. Mandan masinaigan jaganashinomagad. My brother speaks English. This book speaks English, (is written in English.) Anishinabe aia oma. Wiass aiamagad oma. There is an Indian here. There is meat here. Onijishi kinidjaniss. Onijishin ki masinaigan. Thy child is beautiful. Thy book is beautiful.

RULE. 2. Two or more substantives in the singular number, taken in connection, require a verb in the plural, as: Koss kiga gaie ki ga-minadenimag, thou shalt honor thy father and thy mother. John, William, Nancy gaie gi-madjawag; John, William and Nancy, are gone away. Mokoman, emikwan, onagan gaie winadon; ki da-binitonan. The knife, the spoon, and the dish, are unclean; thou oughtst to clean them.

RULE. 3. Two or more substantives in the singular number, taken separately, require a verb in the singular, as: Nissae, gonima nishime, ta-ija. My elder brother, or my younger brother, (sister) will go. Koss, kema kiga, kema kimisse, ta-bi-ija oma nongom. Thy father, or thy mother, or thy sister, is to come here to-day. Aw kwiwisens gonima ki masinaigan, gonima dash ki mokomanens, o gabanadjiton. This boy will spoil either thy book or thy penknife.

RULE. 4. When two substantives come together, denoting the possessor and the object possessed, the sign o or od is put between them. (See page 39, where you will also find Examples.)

RULE. 5. When two substantives come together, not denoting possession, but some other relation, they are connected together in various ways.

1. By juxta-position, in putting the two substantives one after another, without any alteration, connecting them with a hyphen, as: Wigwáss-tchimán, bark-canoe. Ishkote-nabikwan, steam-boat, (fire-vessel.) Nabikwan-ogima, captain of a vessel. Gigô-bimide, fish-oil. Assema-makak, snuff-box, etc., etc.

2. By adding the letter i or o to the first substantive, (that is, its mutative vowel; see p. 85.) and then joining both together with a hyphen, as:

John o gi-baba-gagikwenodan anwenindísowini-sigaandadiwin.

John preached the baptism of repentance, (repentance-baptism.)

Biná nongom jawendagosiwini-gijigak! Behold, now is the day of salvation, (salvation-day.)

Batadowini-gassiamagewin. Forgiveness of sins, (sin-forgiveness.)

Assini-wakaigan. House of stones, (stone-building.)

Biwábiko-mikana. Railroad, (iron-road.)

Mitigo-wakaigan. House of logs, trees, (log-house.) Etc., etc.

3. By contracting the two substantives in one, abbreviating them at the same time.

Some of these contracted words are very properly written in one word, as: Nagamówinini, singer, (nagamon or na-gamowin, song; and inini, man.) Dibakonigéwinini, judge, (dibakonige-win, judgment; and inini, man.) Bamiatagekwe, a maid-servant, (bamitagewin, service; and ikwe, woman.) Gashkigwássowikwe, a seamstress, (gashkigwassowin, sewing; and ikwe, woman.)

But others of the contracted words are more properly written separately, and connected only with a hyphen, as Nagamo-masinaigan, song-book. Anamie-nagamon, religious song or hymn, (anamiewin, religion, prayer.) Anamie-gagikwewin, religious sermon. Gagikwe-masinaigan, sermon-book. And innumerable others.

Respecting the position of the substantive, or the place which it occupies in the sentence, we have in Otchipwe no positive rule. It may, like in Latin, precede or follow its verb, almost always, without any material difference, as: Bwa bi-nigid Jesus, gi-ijiwebadogwen iw; this had happened, before Jesus was born. You may as well say: Jesus bwa bi-nigid, gi-ejiwebadogwen iw. But you cannot well say in English: Jesus before was born, this had happened—Nij masinaiganan nin gi-gishpinadonan, or, nin gi-gishpinadonan nij masinaiganan; is perfectly the same. Not so perfectly the same in English: Two books I have bought; or, I have bought two books. The first of these two phrases is certainly unusual in the English language.

There is much liberty in the Otchipwe language in regard to the transposition of words in a sentence; almost as much as there is in Latin. I say almost; not quite so much, but more than in English. The following phrases, for instance, are all perfectly correct and usual in Otchipwe; but they could not be given correctly word for word, in English. If they are correct, they are certainly unusual, some of them.

Koss ta-bi-ija oma nongom. Thy father will come here to-day.

Nongom oma ta-bi-ija koss. To-day here will come thy father.

Ta-bi-ija koss oma nongom. Will come thy father here to-day.

Nongom oma koss. To-day here thy father will come.

Oma nongom koss ta-bi-ija. Here to-day thy father will come.

Ta-bi-ija koss nongom oma. Will come thy father to-day here.

Koss nongom ta-bi-ija oma. Thy father to-day will come here.

Oma nongom koss. Here will come to-day thy father.

Etc., etc.

Observe the Indians when they speak, and you will see how much transposition of words is used in their language.

NOTE. In citations or quotations, the substantive denoting the person whose words are quoted, must be placed at the end of the quotation, not in the beginning, as in English.

EXAMPLES.

Baba-ijaiog enigokwag aki, minwadjimowin gagikimig kakina bemadisidjig; o gi-inan Jesus o kikinoamaganan. Jesus said to his disciples: Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.

Kego nongom ningotchi ijaken; nin gi-ig noss jeba. My father said to me this morning: Don't go anywhere today, (don't to-day anywhere go.)

Wabang nin ga-bos, kishpin anwating; ikito nissaie. My brother says: I will embark to-morrow, if it is calm.

If you want to put the substantive denoting the person whose words you have to quote, in the beginning, you must say: Ow ikito; or, ow gi-ikito, gi-ikitowag, etc., always preposing ow, that, thus.

EXAMPLES.

Ow ikito Debendjiged: jawendagosiwag bánídeedjig, Kije-Maniton o ga-wabamawan. The Lord says: Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

Ow kid igonan Jesus: Sagiig metchi- dodonegog; jawenimig, mino dodawig jangeniminegog. Jesus says to us: Love them that do you evil; have mercy on them and do good to them that hate you.

Ow gi-ikito: Nibing nin gad-ija Wawiiatanong. He said: next summer I will go to Detroit.

In relating what a person said, you have to give it in Otchipwe in the way of quotation rather than otherwise.

EXAMPLES.

Paul said that his brother arrived last night. Nissaie gi-bi-dagwishin tibikong, gi-ikito Paul.

They said they would come to our house tomorrow. Nin gad-ijamin endaieg wabang, ikitobanig.

I told him I had no money. Kawin nind ojoniiamissi, nin gi-ina.

Of the Otchipwe Pronoun, Syntax has but little to say; Etymology talks much of it.

Pronouns are often absorbed in the verb; as we have seen in the Conjugations. F. i. Kishpin sagiieg, if you love me; both pronouns, you and me, are contained in the verb, sagiieg.

The Rule of the English Syntax: "When two or more nomin-atives combined are of different persons, the verb and pronoun in the plural, prefer the first person to the second, and the second to the third," is exactly the same in Otchipwe.

EXAMPLES.

Win nin gaie, nin gad-ijamin. He and I will go, (we will go.) Kin, win gaie, ki gi-ikitom. Thou and he have said, (you have said.)

Ninawind, win igaie, nin gi-kitchi-anokimin. We and he worked hard, (we worked hard.)

Kinawa, nin igaie, ki gad-ijamin. You and I will go, (we will go.)

Kin, winawa gaie, ki gi-ikitom. Thou and they have said, (you have said.)

The repetition of the personal pronouns, I myself, thou thyself, he himself, etc., is expressed in Otchipwe by repeating the same personal pronoun; which, however, can be done only in the first and second person, not in the third, because the third person has no pronoun in the Conjugations.

EXAMPLES.

Nin nin gi-ikit iw. I have said that myself.

Nin nind ijanaban. I went myself.

Kin ki ga-nondawa. Thou shalt hear him thyself.

Kin kid ikitonaban. Thou saidst thyself.

Win o gi-ojito iw. He made that himself.

Ninawind nin wi-ijamin. We intend to go ourselves.

Kinawa ki gad-animism. You will suffer yourselves.

Winawa ta-gagwedjimawag, They will be asked themselves.

If yet more stress is intended, the particle go, or igo, is put between the two personal pronouns, or after win and winawa, (in the third person,) as: Nin igo nin gi-ikit iw; yes, I have said that myself. Kinawa go ki gad-animisim, yes, you will suffer yourselves, etc.

CHAPTER II.

SYNTAX OF VERBS

The first Rule in the Syntax of substantives, may also be considered as the first in the Syntax of verbs.

RULE. 1. The verb must agree with its substantive, its subject, (expressed or understood,) in number and kind; that is, a verb that refers to a subject in the singular number, must be employed in the singular; and a verb referring to a subject in the plural, must likewise be placed in the plural number. And a verb that alludes to an animate subject, must be animate itself; and the verb applied to an inanimate subject, must also be inanimate. (See Examples of that under Rule 1., in the preceding Chapter.)

Respecting the position of the verb in the sentence, we say, (what we said of the substantive in the preceding Chapter,) that there is no positive rule for it. The Otchipwe verb is allowed to precede or follow its subject; as you have seen in many Examples here above.

In regard to quotations, we have one remark more to make. The verb indicating quotation, not only of words but also of thoughts, is always placed after the quotation, may its subject be expressed or only understood, (except you begin with ow, as stated above.)

EXAMPLES.

Nin gi-gagansoma aw inini pitchinago, oma tchi bi-ijad. Kawin nin wi-ijassi; gi-iwá dash. I exhorted that man yesterday to come here; but he said: I will not go.

Ki nissitotawa na ekitod? Kawin.—Nin kitchi minwendam wabaminàn; ikito. Dost thou understand him what he says?—No.—He says: I am very glad to see thee.

Ta-gimiwan nongom; nin gi-inendam jeba. I thought this morning, it would rain to-day.

Kishpin nasikawag mekatewikwanaie, nin gananibikimig; inendamodog. He probably thinks: If I go to the Missionary, he will reprimand me.

Kawin nin wi-ijassimin anamiewigamigong nongom, osam niskadad; inendamodogenag. They probably think: The weather is too bad we will not go to church to-day.

The English syntactical rule: "One verb governs another in the infinitive mood;" is different in Otchipwe. In this language it will read thus:

RULE. 2. One verb governs another in the subjunctive mood.

EXAMPLES.

Nind inendam tchi madjaiàn. I think to go away, (to depart.) *Kawin nin da-gashkitossin nongom tchi madjaiàmban. I can-not start to-day.

Kawin o mikwendansin tchi gi-ikitod. He does not remember to have said it.

Iji John, William gaie, kikinoamading tchi ijawad. Tell John and William to go to school.

Nin kashkendamin gi-bosiiang jéba. We are sorry to have embarked this morning.

Minwendam abinodjî odaminod. The child likes to play.

RULE. 3. "Two verbs (or other terms) implying negation in the same sentence, are improper, unless we mean to affirm." This syntactical rule of other languages undergoes some modifications in the Otchipwe language.

* See Remark p.119.

1. In Otchipwe the negation is expressed by two terms, (except in some tenses, as you have seen in the Conjugations,) by the adverbs kawin or kego; and by a certain syllable or syllables in the verb itself.

2. There is a verb in this language, which is particular in this respect, the verb nin ginaamawa, I forbid him. By observing the Indians in their speaking, you will find that they sometimes use it, implying a double negation, and do not mean to affirm; and at other times they will employ it, as it is employed in other languages.

EXPLANATION.

Ki ginaamon tchi madjassiwàn nongom. I forbid thee, not to start to-day.—This sentence in English is equivalent to this: I command thee to start to-day; because two terms implying negation, constitute an affirmation.—But in Otchipwe it means: I forbid thee to start to-day.

Kije-Manito o gi-ginaamawan nitam anishinaben, tchi midjissinig maniwang bejig mitig. God forbade the first man, not to eat the fruit of a certain tree; that is to say in English; he commanded him to eat it—But in Otchipwe it has the right signification; he forbade him to eat it.

So they use this verb ordinarily. But sometimes they employ it in the usual way of other languages, implying only one negation. F. i.

Enamiad ginaamawa tchi gimodipan. The Christian is forbid-den to steal.

Kawin nin wi-ijassi wedi wigiwaming; nin ginaamago tchi ijaiàmban. I will not go to that house; I am forbidden to go.

Of Participles we have to observe here, that they are some-times substantives, and sometimes adjectives.

EXAMPLES OF PARTICIPLES USED AS SUBSTANTIVES.

Enamiad, a Christian; (participle present of the intransitive verb anemia, he prays.)

Ketchitwawendagosid, a Saint; (participle present of the intransitive verb kitchitwawendagosi, he is glorious, holy.)

Debendjiged, master, lord; (participle present of the intransitive verb dibendjige, he is master.

Kekinoamaged, a teacher, school-teacher; (participle present of the intransitive verb kekinoamage, he teaches.)

Tchamaniked, a boat-builder; (participle present of the intransitive verb tchimanike, he makes a boat, or canoe.)

All these substantives form their plural by adding jig, as:

Enamiadjig, Christians; ketchitwawendagosidjig, the Saints, etc.

EXAMPLES OF PARTICIPLES USED AS ADJECTIVES.

Wenijishing, good, fair, useful; (participle present of the unipersonal verb, onijishin, it is good, etc.)

Maianadak, bad; (participle present of the unipersonal verb manadad, it is bad.)

Senagak, difficult; (participle present of the unipersonal verb sanagad, it is difficult.)

Nebwakad, wise; (participle present of the intransitive verb nibwaka, he (she) is wise.)

Note. In regard to the verb especially, and to all other parts of speech, we have already said so much in the preceding part, that but little, if anything more, may remain to be related in the present part, besides Parsing, of which we will treat in the following Chapter.

Parsing is the anatomy of Grammar. As anatomy decomposes or analyzes all the members and parts of the body, and shows them separately, and then their coherence; so Parsing decom-poses or resolves a sentence into its elements, members, or parts of speech, and shows their relation and connection.

RULES FOR PARSING.

First it must be stated, at every word in the sentence, what part of speech it is; and every part of speech may then be parsed according to the following Rules.

1. A substantive or noun is parsed by telling its kind, whether a common noun or a proper name; whether animate or inanimate; its subject and object; the number, whether singular or plural; the person, whether the simple, the second, or the third person; and the case; and indicating the termination of its plural.

2. A pronoun is parsed by stating the kind, (there are five kinds or classes of pronouns,) the number and person; and by showing its connection with a verb, or with a substantive.

3. A verb is parsed by telling its quality, and to which Conjugation it belongs, which is done by naming the Conjugation, or the characteristic third person; by naming its participle present, by which the verb's Change is known;* by stating its voice, form, mood, tense, person and number.

* See p. 128.

4. An adjective is parsed by telling of which sort it is, whether adjective proper, or adjective verb; by telling whether compared or not; and the degree of comparison, if compared.

5. A number is parsed by indicating its class or kind, (there are five different classes of numbers.) If it is transformed into a verb, the Conjugation to which it belongs, is to be stated.

6. A preposition is parsed by pointing out the words between which it shows the relation.

7. An adverb is parsed by stating its class, (there are ten classes of adverbs,) and by indicating the word it modifies.

8. A conjunction is parsed by stating its sort, and by showing the words or sentences which it joins together.

9. An interjection is parsed by merely naming it as such.

As a general Rule for parsing, take this: State everything that belongs to a part of speech in the sentence you analyze, in as few words as possible, and always in the same manner, as much as can be.

SPECIMENS OF PARSING OR ANALYZING.

Parse the following sentence according to the above Rules: Sagiada Jesus , win sa nitam ki gi-sagiigonan. (Let us love Jesus, because he has first loved us.)

Sagiada, is a verb, derived from nin sagia, I love him; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conjugation. It is in the imperative, first person plural, affirmative form, active voice.

Its subject (understood) is kinawind, we; its object is Jesus. Its participle present is, saiágiad.

Jésus, is a substantive, proper name, simple third person object of sagiada.

Win, is a personal pronoun, he, masculine (here), singular, third person; it stands instead of Jesus, and is connected with the following verb, sagiigonan.

Sa, is here a copulative conjunction, signifying because, for; it joins the pronoun win with the following verb.

Nitam, first, is an adverb of the seventh class, denoting time; it modifies the verb sagiigonan.

Ki, is a personal pronoun, us, first person plural; it is used when the person spoken to is included. It is connected with the following verb.

Gi, is a particle or sign, indicating the perfect tense; in cases of CHANGE it is ga-.

Sagiigonan, is a verb from nin sagia, I love him; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conj., II. Case; it is, together with the preceding sign, in the perfect tense, third person singular, relating to the first person plural; affirmative form, indicative mood. Its subject is the above pronoun, win; its object is the preceding ki, us.

Another specimen in the following sentence:

Debendjiged o

gi-inan Debenimidjin: Namadabin nin kitchinikang. (The Lord said unto my Lord: Sit on my right hand.)

Debendjiged, is the participle present, third person singular, from nin dibendjige, I am master, lord; which is an intransitive verb of the I. Conj. This participle is here employed as substantive, in the simple third person; it is the subject of the next following verb. Its plural is formed by adding jig.

O, is a possessive pronoun, third person; but here it is the objective case of the personal pronoun win, him.

Gi-, is a sign denoting the perfect tense; in the CHANGE ga-.

Inan, is derived from nind ina, I tell him, I say to him; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conjugation; irregular in the imperative, iji. It is, in conjunction with o and gi-, in the active voice, affirmative form, indicative, present; third person singular, relating to a second third person singular. Its subject is Debendjiged, its object Debenimidjin. Participle present, enad.

Debenimidjin, is derived from nin dibenima, I am his master, his lord; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conj. It is in the II. Case, participle present, affirmative form, in the second third person, Debendjiged being the simple third person.

Namadabin, is an intransitive verb of the I. Conj., nin namadab, I am sitting, or, I sit down; affirmative form, imperative, second person singular. Participle present, némadabid.

Nin, is a pronoun, personal and possessive; here it is possessive conjunctive, my; first person singular. It is connected with the following substantive, and refers to Debendjiged, instead of which it stands.

Kitchinikang, is a substantive, kitchinik, the right arm. It is a common noun, inanimate; the object of the preceding pronoun nin; in the singular number, simple third person; its plural is formed by adding an. The English preposition on, is expressed by the termination ang. (See Prepositions, No. II., 3 term. page 463.)

A third specimen of parsing. Sentence: Netá-batá-didjig matchi maniton o dibenimigowan; aw dash Kije-Maniton saiagiad kawin nita-bata-ijiwebisissi. (Those that sin habitually, are the servants of the evil spirit, (he is their master;) but he that loves God, is not in the habit of sinning.)

Neta-bata-didjig, is a verb composed of three parts. The first part is nita-, which is no distinct part of speech, but only used in compositions, to signify a habit, or custom. In the CHANGE it makes, neta-. The second part is batá-, which again is no distinct part of speech, never used by itself, but only in compositions, where it signifies sinning, or injuring one's self. The third part is the defective verb, nin dind, I am, I do, etc... The whole is in the affirmative form, participle present, simple third person plural. It is the object of the verb dibenimigowan signifying: "Those that sin habitually."

Matchi is an adjective proper, in the positive, simply qualifying the following substantive. It signifies evil, bad, etc.

Maniton, is a common substantive, manito, spirit. It is animate, singular, the second third person, referring to neta-bata-didjig, which is the simple third person. It is the subject of the verb dibenimigowan. Its plural is formed by adding g, manitog.

O, is here the objective case of the personal pronoun winawa, they; it refers to neta-bata-didjig.

Dibenimigowan, is a verb derived from nin dibenima, I am his master; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conj. It is in the passive voice, affirmative form, indicative, present, third person plural. Its subject is, matchi -maniton, and its object, neta-bata-didjig its participle present is debenimad.

Aw, is a demonstrative pronoun, singular; signifying that, or he that. The substantive instead of which it stands, is not expressed, but understood; as: A man, a person, a Christian, etc. It is the simple third person, and the subject of saiagiad.

Dash, is a conjunction, both copulative and disjunctive; here it is disjunctive, because it signifies but.

Kijé-Maniton, is a substantive, the name of the Lord God. Kijé-Manito properly signifies, Kind spirit, It is the second third person; the preceding pronoun aw, (or the substantive instead of which it stands,) being the simple third person. It is the object of the following verb.

Saiagiad, is a verb derived from nin sagia, I love him; which is a transitive animate verb of the IV. Conj. It is here in the participle present, affirmative form, third person singular. Its subject is aw, and its object Kije-Maniton.

Kawin, is an adverb of the fourth class, denoting negation. It modifies the following verb.

Nitá-bata- ijiwebisissi, is a verb composed of three parts. The two first parts are the same as in the first word of this sentence. The third part is a verb derived from nind ijiwebis, I behave, I conduct myself; which is an intransitive verb of the I. Conj.; its third person is, ijiwebisi; its participle present, ejwebisid. Its subject is aw. The whole is in the negative form, indicative, present, third person singular; and signifies, in connection with the preceding adverb: "He is not in the habit of behaving sinfully."

Parsing, or analyzing sentences, is the most useful grammatical exercise that can be found. It accounts for every word and every syllable in the sentence, it recalls to memory all the Rules of Grammar, and shows practically their use and application.

Dear reader, if you wish to acquire a solid and systematical knowledge of this language, be diligent in parsing sentences. And write down your parsing exercises, like these Specimens. The above Rules and Specimens show you the manner; and sentences for parsing you find in abundance in the numerous Examples of this Grammar.

How do the Indians call this? Anin ow ejinikadamowad anishinabeg?

This is called ijinikade ow.

And this, how is it called? Ow dash, anin ejinikadeg? It is called mi ejinikadeg.

I will write down these words, and I will write all the Otchipwe words, by this means also, I shall learn the Otchipwe language. Nin gad-objibianan iniw ikitowinan, nin wi-objibianan, mi ima gaie ge-ondji-kikendaman Otchipwemowin.

Have you nobody that would teach you constantly? Kawin na awiia kid aiáwassi gekikinoamokiban mojak?

No, I have nobody yet, but I will employ somebody to teach me regularly. Kawin mashi awiia nind aiáwassi, nin gad-anona dash awiia gekikinoamawid weweni.

I will employ you, if you will teach me, and you will come every day to give me lessons. Kin ki gad-anonin, kishpin wi-kikinoamawiian, endassogijigak dash ki ga-bikikinoamaw.

Yes, I promise it to you, I will come every day to teach you. We will begin to-morrow. E, ki nakomin sa, endassogijigak ki ga-bi-kikinoamon. Wabang ki ga-madjitamin.

I would be very happy if I could soon speak well the Otchipwe language, in order to preach right (well) to the Indians. Nin da-kitchi-minwendam, waiba tchi kikendaman weweni tchi Otchipwemoiàn, mi sa gwaiak tchi wigagikimagwa anishinabeg.

Do you understand all I say, when I am speaking to you? Ki nissitotaw ina kakina minik ekitoiàn genoninanin?

Yes certainly, I understand you well. E nange ka, ki nissitoton weweni.

Do you understand every Indian? Kakina na anishinabeg ki nissitotawag?

I don't understand every one, I understand some of them; but some speak too quick when they are speaking to me, and I don't know what they say. Kawin kakina nin nissitotawassig, bebejig eta nin nissitotawag; anind dash osam dadátabiwag

*genojiwadjin, kawin dash nin kikenimassig

When they are speaking to each other, do you understand them well? Kishpin dash ganonidiwad, ki nissitotawag na weweni?

When they are speaking to each other, I don't much understand them; I understand them better when they speak to me. Kishpin ganonidiwad, kawin gwetch nin nissitotawassig; awashime nin nissitotawag ganojiwad.

You will soon know it, endeavor, don't be discouraged, (dis-heartened.) Waiba nawatch ki ga-kikendan, aiangwamisin, kego jagwenimoken.

I am not discouraged, and I will not give it up. Kaiwin nin jagwenimossi, kawin gaie nin wi-anijitansi.

9. ON TRAVELING BY LAND IN THE INDIAN COUNTRY, (IN WINTER.)

When shall we start (depart)? Aniniwapi gemadjaiang?

We shall soon now depart, prepare. Jaigwa waiba ki gamadja-min, ojitan.

I am preparing, I am about. Nind ojita, nind apitchita.

Have you made my snow-shoes? Ki gi-gijiag na nind agimag.

Your snow-shoes are not quite made; I made indeed the frame, but they are not yet filled, (laced.) Kawin mashi apitchi gijiassiwag kid agimag; anawi nin gi-waginag, kawin dash mashi ashkimasossiag.

Who will fill them? Awenen dash ged-ashkimanad?

My wife will fill them to-morrow. Nin widigemagan o gadash-kimanan wabang.

Are my moccasins made? Nin makisinin na gi-gijitchigade-wan?

Yes, my sister made them; she has made one pair, two pair, three pair, four pair, etc. E, o gi-ojitanan sa nimisse; ningotwewan, nijwewan, nisswewan, niwewan, etc., o gi-ojitanan.

I brought also nips, (foot-rags,) one pair, two pair, etc., for your use. Ajiganan gaie nin gi-bidonan, ningotwewan-nijwe-wan, etc., kin ged-aioian.

And my mittens? Nin mandjikawanag dash?

Aha! I forgot them. I will fetch them. Ishte! nin giwanikenag.

Nin wi-nánag.

We will start (depart) after Sunday, (on Monday.) Gi-ishkwa-anamiegijigak sa ki ga-madjamin.

We will start in two days, in three days, in four days. Nijogwa-nagak, nissogwanagak, niogwanagak, ki ga-madja-min.

What provisions shall we take for our voyage? Wegonen dash ged-ani-nawapoiang?

We will take some pork and flour; we will also take some meat. Kokosh, pakwejigan gaie ki ga-nawapomin, wiass gaie ki ga-nawapomin.

Is that pork cooked; and is the flour baked (into bread); is the meat cooked? Gisiso na aw kokosh, pakwejigan gaie; gijide na wiass? (or, gijidemagad.)

Not yet, the day after to-morrow my sister will cook the pork and bake bread; she will also cook the meat. Kawin mashi, awasswabang nimisse o ga-gisiswan kokoshan, pakwejiganan gaie; wiass gaie o ga-gisisan.

Well, let us start.—I will tie up my pack, (my load.) Ambe, madjada. Nin wi-takobidon nin bimiwanan.

Oho! my pack is very heavy. Ataià! kitchi kosigwan nin bimiwanan.

Do you carry all that we shall need? Ki madjidon na kakina ge-wi-aioiang?

I think I have all, a little kettle, little dishes, knives, a hatchet. Mi go kakina, nind inendam, akikons, onagansan, mokomanan, wagakwadons.

Don't you forget any thing have you any matches? Kawin na gego ki wanikessi? Ishkotewatigonsan na gaie kid aianan?

Yes, they are here. Let us go. E, atewan.

Madjada.

We go too fast.—We go too slow. Osam ki kijikamin.—Osam ki bésikamin.

We don't go in the right direction; there, there!
Kawin gwaiak kid ani-ijassimin; wedi gosha!

O yes! indeed! I almost went astray. Ishte! geget! gena nin gi-wanishin.

Hold on! I will drink some water here. I am very thirsty, I am sweating so much. Beka! nin wi-minikwen nibi oma. Nin kitchi nibagwe, osam nind abwes.

Don't drink too much water, and don't eat any snow, or else you will be tired very soon. Kego osam nibiwa minikweken, kego gaie gon amoaken, gonima waiba ki gad-aiékos.

Is there a trail all along, where we are going?
Mikanáwan na mojang ejaiang?

There is indeed a trail, but it shows very little; it has snowed too much of late. Anawi mikanawan, agawa dash nagwad; osam gi-sogipo nomaia.

Why! are you tired? Anin! kid aiékos na?

I am not yet tired, I walk easily. Kawin mashi nind aiékoissi, nin mino bimosse.

Walking is good here, it is a fine place, there is no under-wood here. Mino bimossewinagad oma, onijishin, jibeiamagad.

But here there is much underwood, it is bad walking indeed. The snow is soft. The snow is deep. Oma dash kitchi sasaga, geget sanagad bimosseng. Jakágonaga. Ishpagonaga.

There is no trail (no road) here; we will go astray.

Kawin oma mikanawansinon; ki ga-wanishinimin.
 We are already gone astray. That is very bad. Mi jaigwa gi-wanishinang. Geget sanagad.

Stop, I will look for the road, (trail.) Here it is!
Come here!

Beka, nin ga-nandonean mikana Mi oma!
Ondass!

It is now noon, (twelve o'clock.) Let us now take a meal.

Jaigwa nawokweg. Nakawe wissinida.

Well! I will make a fire; we will make some tea.
Haw! Nin ga-bodawe; anibishabo ki gad-ojito min.

I am a little tired. At the same time I have pain in one of my legs; (I am lame.) Nawatch nind aiékos. Baiéto j nind akosin bejig nikád.

We will not walk long now; evening is approaching. Kawin ginwenj ki ga-bimossessimin; jaigwa ani-onagoshi.

Where shall we camp? There is no fine place. Anindi ge-gabeshiiang? Kawin ningotchi onijishinsinon.

Let us camp here; this is a fine place. Oma gabeshida; oniji-shin oma.

There is much snow, the snow is deep. I must throw out much snow, to make a camp. Geget gónika, ishpágonaga, (ishpate.) Kitchi nibiwa gon nin ga-webina tchi ojitoian gabeshiwin.

I will take (or break) boughs; I will take many, in order to make a good bed. Jingobig nin wi - mamág, (nin wibokobinag;) nibiwa nin wi-mamág, weweni tchi apishi-monikeiàn.

Friend, chop much wood, it will be perhaps cold to-night. Nibiwa manissen, nidji, ta-kissinamagad ganabatch tibikak, (ta-kissíntibikad.)

So much wood will be enough. Mi iw ge-debisseg missan.

Let us make fire. Let us cook. Let us eat.
Bodaweda. Tchibak-weda. Wissinida.

Hang up my moccasins and my nips, (foot-rags.) to dry.
Agodon nin makisinin, nind ajiganan gaie, tchi bateg.

Let us lie down, the night is advanced.
Gawishimoda, jaigwa ishpitibikad.

Halloo! let us get up; the day-break will soon appear. Ambe! onishkada; jaigwa gega ta-waban.

My moccasins and nips have dried well. Weweni gi-batewan nin makisinin, nind ajiganan gaie.

Let us start. Is it far yet where we are going? Madjada. Wassa na keiabi ejaiang?

We will have to sleep twice more, that is, this evening, and to-morrow; and the day after to-morrow we will arrive. Keiabi nijing ki gad-aninibamin, mi sa, nongom onagoshig, wabang gaie; awasswabang dash ki ga-dagwishinimin.

We are walking smartly all day. Weweni ki bimossemin kabe-gijig.

Now the sun will soon set; let us camp.

Jaigwa gega ta-pangishimo; gissis; gabeshida.

We have come far to-day. Wassa nongom ki gi-dagwishinimin.

Let us make a good camp again. Weweni winawa ojitoda gabeshiwin.

Let us get up and start. If we walk very fast, we will see this evening the house we are going to. Onishkada, madjada. Kish-pin apitchi kijikaian, nongom onagoshig ki ga-wabandamin wakaigan ejaiang.

I will be very glad to reach the house to-day. Nin da-kitchiminwendam tchi oditamàn wakaigan nongom.

The house is now near; two miles more. Jaigwa beshowad wákaigan; keiabi nijo dibaigan.

There is the house. Mi wedi wakaigan.

I am very glad. Nin kitchi minwendam.

10. ON TRAVELING BY WATER, IN THE INDIAN COUNTRY, (IN SUMMER.)

Friend, when shall we embark? Aniniwapi ge-bosiiang, nidji? I don't know. I will probably not embark soon; I have no canoe. Endogwen. Wika ganabatch nin nin ga-bos; kawin nind

Do you intend to make to yourself a canoe? Ki wi-ojiton na dash ki tchiman?

Yes, I will make one soon. The bark is here; and to-morrow I will go for some cedar. Geget, waiba nin wi-ojiton. Atemagad wigwass; wabang dash nin wi-passaige.

You are skillful, friend, in making canoes. Ki wawinges, nidji, tchimanikeian.

It is a long while since I always make canoes. Every summer I make two or three canoes. Mewija eko-tchimanikeiàn mo jag. Endasso-nibin nij, nisswi gaie, nind ojitonan tchimanan.

Make also for me a canoe, friend; I will pay you well. Gaie nin, nidji, ojitamawishikan tchiman; weweni ki ga-dibaamon.

I will make one; I will make it perfectly well; I have nice bark. Nin gad-ojiton sa; apitchi weweni nin wi-ojiton, gwanatch wigwass nind aian.

Please make it soon, friend. I will use that this summer. Waiba ojitokan, nidji. Mi iw ged-aioian nongom nibing.

I intend to go far; I will be absent long. Wassa nin wi-ija; ginwenj nine gad-inend.

Yes, I will make it soon. Geget waiba nin gad-ojiton.

I come to see you making a canoe. You are skillful indeed, (you do it well.) Ki bi-wabamin tchimanikeian. Geget ki wawinges.

Well, friend! is my canoe already made? Anin, nidji! jaigwa na gi-gijitchigade nin tchiman?

It is indeed all made, but there is no pitch yet on it. I will pitch it to-morrow. Anawi kakina gi-gijitchigade, kawin dash mashi pigikadessinon. Wabang nin wi-pigikadan.

Here is your canoe. Are you contented? Mi ow ki tchiman. Ki minwendam ina?

Yes, I am contented, it is nice; I suppose it is strong. E, nin minwendam, onijishin sa; songanodog.

Here is your payment. Ow ki dibaamogowin.

I thank you, sir, you pay me well. Migwetch, nidji, weweni ki dibaamaw.

I will embark the day after to-morrow, if it is calm. Awasswa-bang nin ga-bos, kishpin anwating.

I intend to hire three Indians; one will steer, and two will paddle. Nisswi anishinabeg nin wi-anonag; bejig taodake, nij dash ta-tchimewag.

I ask you, Paul, first: Will you hire? I will be absent long; perhaps two months. Nin, Paul, nitam ki gagwedjimin: Ki wi-anonigos na? Ginwenj nin gad-inend; nijo gisiss ganabatch.

I promise you, I will embark with you. Ki nakomin, ki gad-adaawamin sa.

And look for two other men, Paul, who would embark with us. Minawa dash, Paul, nij ininiwag nandawabam gedadaawami-nangog.

I have found two young fellows. Nin gi-mikawag nij oshkinaweg.

Are they good paddlers? Nita-tchimewag na?

First rate. Would it not be better that we should row? Apitchi sa. Kawin na nawatch da-onijishinsinon tchi ajéboieiang?

Yes, it would be good; we go quicker by rowing, than by paddling. Geget da-onijishin; awashime sa kijikam ajéboieng, iw dash tchimeng.

I will make two oars and I have a paddle. Nin gad-ojitanan nijwatig ajeboianakon; abwí dash nind aian.

Halloo, halloo, any boys! let us embark! It very calm.

Haw, haw, kwiteisensidog! bosida! Kitchi anwatin.

Embark all things. Here are our provisions. Embark the axe also, the dishes and our beds; all together. Bositoiog kakina. Mi mandan ki Fetch it, friend John, put it here. Bidon, nidji John, oma aton. That's all. Let us embark! Mi kakina. Bosida!

It is very calm indeed. Row smartly, my boys. Kitchi anwatin geget. Weweni ajeboieiog, kwiwisensidog.

There is more and more wind; the wind is fair, we will sail.

Eshkam nodin; minwanimad, ki ga-bimashimin.

Put up the mast and hoist the sail. Patakinig ningassimononak, ombákobidjigeg.

Aha! we are sailing very fast. Ataià! geget ki kijeiaashkimin.

Paul, steer well; take care of the canoe. Weweni odaken, Paul; ganawendan tchiman.

It blows harder and harder; and the sea runs higher and higher. Waves come in. Eshkam kitchi nodin; eshkam gaie mamanga-shka. Bosiwag tigowag.

The wind shifted. Take down the sail. Jaigwa gwekánimad.

Binákonigeg.

It will be dreadful; let us save ourselves. Is there a river near?

Ta-kitchi-sanagad; ojimoda. Sibi na dago besho?

There is a large river; we will fly there. Steer for that place,

Paul. Wedi kitchi sibi; mi wedi ged-ininijimoiang. Mi wedi,

Paul, ged-inikwéaman.

This is a very fine river. I am glad that we are here. It blows harder and harder. It blows from the lake. *Geget gwanatch sibi. Nin minwendam

Bring in here all our luggage, it will be very bad weather.

Pindigadoiog oma kakina kid aiiminanin, ta-kitchi-niskadad.

Put also the canoe better inland, lest the wind carry it off.

Tchiman gaie nopiming nawatch aioiog, tchi wabassinog.

We have now been wind-bound here two days—three days —four days; to-morrow I hope we will embark. Jaigwa nijog-wan—nissogwan—niogwan ki ginissinaogomin oma; wabang ganabatch ki gabosimin.

We will start very early in the morning, if it is calm. Kitchi kigijeb ki ga-bosimin, kishpin anwating.

Wake up, boys, get up; it is calm, we will embark, (start.) Goshkosiog, kwiwisensidog, onishkag; anwatin, ki gabosimin.

I see there two canoes. Let us go there and see those that travel there, (in canoes.) Tchimanan nijónag nin wabandanan wedi. Ijada awi-wabamada wedi.

Bon jour! bon jour! Where you come from? Bo Jo! bo jo! Anindi wendjibaieg?

Saut Ste. Marie.—And you? Bawiting sa.—Kinawa dash?

We come from L'Anse.—What news at the Saut? Wikwedong nind ondjibamin.—Anin enakamigag Bawiting?

Not any. Two children died lately—we are starving; we have nothing to eat. Kawin ningot. Nij abinodjiiag gi-nibowag nomaia—Nin bakademin ninawind.

Paul, give them some pork and flour. Paul, asham kokoshan, pakwejiganan gaie.

Well! thank you, thank you!—We will eat nicely indeed. O! o! migwetch, migwetch!—Geget nin gamino-wissinimin.

And we have also nothing to smoke. Nin manépwamin gaie ninawind.

Ho! that's right, that's right! You make us happy indeed. O! wendjita, wendjita! Geget ki debiimin.
Bon jour! Farewell, farewell! Bo jo! Madjag, madjag!

Let us land, boys; evening is approaching.

Gabada, kwiwisen-sidog; jaigwa ani-onagoshi.

Let us not land there, it is too stony. Kego wedi gabassida, osam assinika.

Let us land here, there is sand here. This is indeed a fine landing-place. Oma gabada, mitawanga oma. Geget gwanatch gabéwin.

If it is calm to-morrow, or if the wind is fair, then we will arrive to-morrow at the village. Kishpin anwating wabang, gonima gaie minwanimak, mi wabang tchi de-mijagaiang odenang.

Let us embark (start), the wind is fair; we are happy. Bosida, minwanimad; ki jawendagosimin.

We are again sailing very fast. Ki kitchi kijeishimin minawa.

The sea runs higher and higher. I am sick, I am sea-sick. I am always so, when the sea is high. Eshkam mamangashka; nind

M. How do you do? Are you well?

I. I for my part, I am well; but one of my children is very sick
indeed.

M. Has it been sick long?

I. Very long; ever since last spring. And many of my relations are sick.
Now the Indians are always sick, and a great many die, since religion is here.

M. Do you think, my friend, because religion has arrived here, therefore more Indians die now; do you really think so?

I. Certainly, I think so.
That is what the Indians always say. And they tell the truth; I see it now.

M. Don't think that, it is not so. The Indians don't speak the truth when they say so. They who hate religion, they are those who say so. But they don't tell the truth. My friend, don't believe what they say; reflect a little how things are. You are an old man, my friend; it is a pretty long while since you walk about on earth. Now reflect a little. Were not in olden times, as much as you know (remem-ber) yourself, were not the Indians here more numerous than they are now?

I. They were numerous indeed; But they almost all died away. A great many Indians have died since I know, (within my memory.) So, for instance, in the place called A . . there was in former times a great village; a great many Indians were there together. And now there is not a single one there. And so in the place called B . . there was a great village there too. There was the home of my deceased father.

M. Yes you speak the their number is very

M. Consider moreover this, my friend. It is yet now so the case. If Indians live together somewhere, (form a village,) and are not Christians, they die away more and more; they are continually decreasing. As the snow melts away in spring, and decreases more and more; so decrease continually the pagan Indians; they melt down, I may say. Reflect upon that, friend, and you will know how it is; I don't speak without reason.

I. O yes it is so, I know it myself. I see it how the Indians are always dying away; especially the children.

M. Moreover I tell you this: If on the contrary Indians form a village somewhere, and are Christians, they continually increase; and the children don't much die. Every year the number of those that are born is larger, than of those that die. So it is everywhere the case, where there are Christ-ians; and everywhere in large countries, where white people live, this is the case; the number of those that are born is always larger, than of those that die. I don't speak so without a good reason, my friend; it is so; it is a known fact. All those that are born, and all those that die, are registered; and thereby it is known that the number of those that are born is larger than of those that die.

The pagan Indians do not he sees us always and everywhere. But the pagans

do not fear him, because they know him not; and that is the reason why they are not afraid of committing evil secretly;
and so they commit evil secretly very often.

When a pagan Indian hates his makes him

him; in a hidden

They always think, He knows what I am doing.

And therefore they are afraid of committing criminal actions.

I. I understand that also; and I think now, religion must be a good thing, if the Christians are afraid of doing bad actions.

M. And again, my friend, again I tell you why you are so dying away, you and your children. I know how you manage it. When an Indian gets sick, may it be a

I. What is it?

M. Ardent liquor, (fire-water.) It is very bad.
Ardent liquor kills a great many Indians. And the Indians like it so much, when they get it, (find it,) they will immediate-ly drink it until they get drunk.
And if the Indians get drunk, they are very mischievous indeed;

I. Yes they do that; I know it very well. I know several who have done that, who have killed their fellow-Indians when drunk.

M. This is a cause of the dying of many Indians. But ardent liquor destroys Indians again in another way. It is exceedingly strong, it is very mischievous. If a person drinks it often, he hurts his body, he burns it all inside; he will not live long, if he drinks ardent liquor frequently. This is again another cause why many pagan Indians soon die, because they drink so often and so much ardent liquor.

mortifying that Christian Indians drink ardent liquor. But those that drink it are not very numerous. They are too much forbidden to do it; and the number of those that care for preaching is considerable. But some don't care for it, and they drink although forbidden. But only some drink, and seldom. On the contrary, the pagan Indians, they all drink, and they always drink whenever they they can get ardent liquor. All drink, men, women, young people, and all; and they drink very freely of that bad liquid. And so they hurt themselves very much; they destroy themselves (their bodies). Sometimes it happens that a drunken Indian falls in the fire or in the water, and perishes there. Many pagan Indians are destroyed by ardent liquor.

They say, an Indian labors in vain (gains nothing) by being a Christian; he will never make any use of his religion.

M. You say they know it perfectly well that it is impossible for them to go to heaven. But how do they know that?

I. I will tell you exactly as I know it myself. Once, a considerable time ago, an Indian, they say, took religion and was baptized; and he afterwards always was a good Christian until the end of his life. After his life here on earth, he took his way toward heaven. On arriving there he sees a man standing at the door. And that Indian, they say, says to him: I will go in here. No, thou shalt not go in here; says that man to him, they say. And again the Indian says to him: I am a Christian, I tell you.

I. I will listen to you attentively. I come for that purpose to-day, that you sayings.

M. I tell you plainly, don't believe that story. Pagan Indians, those who hate religion, have made it on purpose, in order that the Indians should not take religion, that the Indian should think thus:
Indeed the Missionary intends to cheat me when he is persuading me to take religion. But it would be impossible for me to go to heaven, even if I took religion. In order that the pagan Indian should think so,

and accordingly not become a Christian, that is the

If a person really dies he never more rises again from the dead; only on the end of the world all the dead will rise up again; but now nobody rises from the dead, nobody comes back again here on earth, to tell how it is there.

I. How is that? I sometimes see somebody die for a long time, and then after a long while he revives again.

M. No, my friend, he does not die, he only faints. If a person faints, he does sometimes not stir for a long while, he lies there like a dead person; but he is not really dead, his soul did not depart; and when he gets his senses again, he is not coming from where those are that have finished their lives on earth; his soul did not depart. When a person really dies, his soul departs; but nobody ever comes back again that is departed, that is dead. This is the real truth. Believe it, my friend.

white Christians that behave well, will go in.

M. I tell you once more, don't believe any body that says: Indians can never go to heaven, even if they are Good Christians, and die Christians. Don't believe that at all. The Master of life has said very expressly: All people on earth, whatever name they have, shall be able to enter my kingdom in heaven, if they be Christians and behave well on earth. And at the same time he said: Christians only will go to heaven, if they behave well; but never shall a pagan go in there; so said the Lord. If an Indian is no Christian, he indeed shall never go to heaven; but if he is a Christian and behaves well, he will go into that eternal joy, the same as

M. That is right. Don't believe them ; they are telling lies by mere hatred against religion. And they say this in order that the Indians should not take religion.

I. I am thankful; I have well understood this. But the Indians say again another thing. I hear them always; sometimes I fear indeed.

But I know it well, because I read that sacred book, the book of the Lord; and there I read what the Lord has done in the beginning. He created one man and one woman; and from these two persons we take our origin; nobody comes from else-where. The Indians are telling a great lie by what they say.

I, Why, that is difficult. But I could give it up, if I became a Christian. I know it is mis-chievous; I know very well how poor and miserable an Indian makes himself, if he is a friend of ardent liquor.

M. That's true. Now if you can give up totally ardent liquor, you will not be unable to do all the rest: Will you easily reject and abandon all the Indian religious practices?

I. Yes, certainly. I do already not care much for them; they are probably of no great use.

M. They are of no use at all; and the Lord abhors them much; instead of them he has given to men on earth a most useful religious practice, that is, the Christian religion (prayer.)—Have you any other difficulty?

M. Indeed, my friend, you think well. The Lord had mercy on you and gave you a good thought (a good will.) Reflect well always, and come to church on Sundays, to hear the sermon, in order to under-stand better and better the word of God. And come here sometimes, I will give your instructions. I am very glad indeed that you intend to take religion in a proper manner. You will be happy indeed, if you are a good Christian until you cease to live on earth. There is much misery here on earth. But if you take misery and sufferings with patience; and if you behave well, according to the pleasure of the Lord, he will take you
